LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — As a charter board member of the Farm and Home Center for 36 years, Lawrence H. Skromme has overseen the building of the multi-purpose facility, located at 1383 Arcadia Road, and helped it become the hub of city-county activity.

Skromme received a recognition award on Tuesday night when board members met.

"As an engineer, Skromme's guidance and expertise throughout the years in building construction has been invaluable, and his fundraising for the Farm and Home Center is outstanding," said Max Smith, former county extension agent.

Mid-Am To Acquire Borden

COLUMBUS, Ohio and SPRINGFIELD, Mo. — Borden Inc. and Mid-America Dairymen Inc. (Mid-Am) on Thursday announced a definitive agreement for Mid-Am to acquire the Borden/Meadow Gold Dairies Inc. unit.

Borden/Meadow Gold Dairies recorded sales of more than $900 million in 1996. Headquartered in Ogden, Utah, it operates 27 processing facilities in 11 states, predominantly west of the Mississippi River, and employs 3,600. The company produces a full line of dairy products, including fluid milk, ice cream, other frozen novelties, yogurt, cottage cheese and juice, and markets them under

Two New Flocks Identified With Avian Influenza

Late Friday afternoon last week the ag department, at the request of the industry, issued a premise quarantine on two farms and an area quarantine in Lancaster County. The quarantine encompasses 80 flocks in an area measuring 70-80 square miles, according to Dr. Sherbyn Ostrich, acting director of the bureau of animal health and diagnostic services and state veterinarian, far right, at the press conference Tuesday. From left, John Martin, chair of the Poultry Health Committee of the Pennsylvania Poultry Federation; John Hoffman, executive director of the Pennsylvania Poultry Federation; Walter N. Peechatka, executive deputy agriculture secretary; and Ostrich.

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — Two new layer flocks have been identified with the avian influenza (A.I.) virus, according to information gathered before the start of a teleconference Friday morning with poultry experts across the country at the Farm and Home Center. That brings the number of flocks with A.I. to four in a quarantine set up in the northern part of the county late last week.

In a telephone conversation Friday morning with Dr. Sherbyn Ostrich, acting director of the bureau of animal health and diagnostic services and state veterinarian, the two new cases include a layer flock with 200,000 birds southeast of where, earlier, A.I. was identified on two other farms. The second, located southwest of the earlier two, is also a layer operation with 150,000 birds.

Late last week the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture placed an area quarantine in a five-mile radius encompassing poultry farms in Rapho, Penn, West Hempfield, and East Hempfield townships of Lancaster County to control the spread of the nonpathogenic avian influenza virus. The virus was found on two farms in the "heart" of Lancaster's poultry industry.

On May 7, a farm with three flocks totalling 154,000 hens in the Manheim-Mount Joy area was depopulated after it tested positive for the H7N2 or nonpathogenic form of A.I. The work to quickly test flocks within a five-mile radius of that farm was reported in the May 10 issue of Lancaster Farming.

Last week, testing by the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture's Bureau of Animal Health and Diagnostic Services turned up another, smaller flock that was depopulated and buried on site on Monday this week. The flock contains 12,000 birds and was close to

National Grain Market

ST. JOSEPH, MO
MAY 21, 1997

Very good export sales for wheat overnight pushed wheat bids higher. Corn and soybean bids moved higher due to trade corrections after Tuesday's sharp declines. Wheat 1 to 9 cents higher. Corn 1 to 3 cents higher. Sorghum 1 to 3 cents higher. Soybeans 2 to 6 cents higher. Egypt's substantial overnight purchase of US SRW offered some support to wheat bids. However, the bearish weather forecast for hard red winter wheat areas as well as spring wheat crops, limited gains. Corn and soybean bids were slightly higher as a corrective manuver following sharp declines on Tuesday.

Some fund buying was noted on the board, especially for soybeans. Soybean meal demand was about steady. MAY 21, 1997

Prices were unchanged. The market tone remained mostly steady. Demand ranged light to good, mostly moderate and best where featured. Supplies were adequate or available. Breaking stock supplies were about adequate. Light type fowl supplies were adequate to ample for full slaughter schedules this week, and the trade sentiment was mixed with some cautiousness in the South.

Trucklot buying activity continued to improve as dealers prepared for the long holiday weekend. Offerings were in close balance on breast items with most sellers holding product with confidence. Other items were irregularly available, but usually sufficient to cover current trade requirements. Retail and distributive movement also improved as dealers generally increased orders in line with shortened holiday operating schedules. The market tone was firm on breast items, steady on the balance.

Introducing NEW
Prota - Ion Salt

47% Protein Source for High Producing, Early Lactation Dairy Cows.

Prota - Ion Salt is a new, unique blend of highly available protein, amino acids and peptides.

Microbes in the rumen or lower gut can utilize these simple nitrogenous compounds in the same way they utilize complete protein by reducing it to absorbable amino acids.

When Prota - Ion Salt is added to the ration:
- nitrogen conversion to microbial protein is more efficient
- a reduction in ammonia loss
- increased efficiency of carbohydrate usage
- increased microbial growth
- increased microbial "spillover" into the lower gut.

Microbial Protein can be described as high quality, by-Pass protein.

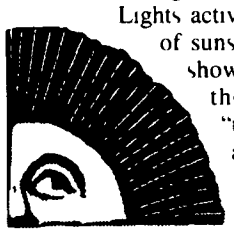
The OLD FARMER'S THIS WEEK WITH ALMANAC

MAY 26-JUNE 1, 1997

MEMORIAL DAY, MAY 26.

WHAT COLOR IS YOUR AURORA?

Be on the lookout for spectacular Northern Lights this month and almost monthly for a good while now. The northern third of the United States, especially in the "unpolluted" (by city lights) skies of more-rural areas, should begin to see increased periods of Northern Lights activity, because of a changing cycle of sunspots. These sunspots have been shown to run in 11-year cycles, and the Sun has just entered its "upswing" period in that cycle. The aurora borealis, or luminous streamers of lights visible at night, are thought to be caused by the ejection of charged particles into the magnetic field of Earth.



Weather forecast for tonight: dark.

– George Carlin

TIP OF THE WEEK

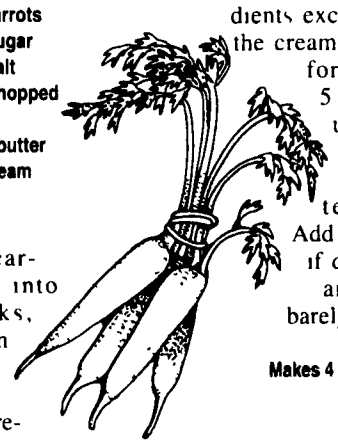
NEW CARROTS

12 to 15 new carrots
1/2 teaspoon sugar
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon chopped fresh parsley
2 tablespoons butter
1/2 cup light cream (optional)



Scrub the carrots, slice into matchsticks, and combine in a saucepan with the rest of the ingredients except for the cream. Sauté for about 5 minutes, or just until tender. Add cream, if desired, and just barely heat.

Makes 4 servings.

The OLD FARMER'S WEATHER PROVERBS

A sunshiny shower won't last out the hour.

A dripping June brings all things in tune.

Gnats galore, screen the door!

If the skylark hovers and glides in its descent, the weather will remain fine; if it drops straight down, rain is near.

OPINION

With the recent quarantine of poultry farms in Lancaster County, it's time to look at ways to prevent any further outbreaks of avian influenza (A.I.).

One of the first ways is to take a good, long, hard look at biosecurity at the farm. It doesn't take much imagination to see what would happen if a simple breach in poultry biosecurity would occur.

Take, for instance, a 120,000-bird layer house — a sight increasingly common for the industry. Or a 110,000-bird broiler house. One employee who fails to wash and disinfect himself before entering the house, carrying the A.I. virus, could infect a few birds in the flock. As a result, the entire flock is infected and has to be depopulated at a cost of more than $300,000.

That's a lot of money. And that doesn't even include the "ancillary" costs, the extra costs, that Dr. Sherbyn Ostrich spoke about recently. Those addition costs include disinfection and the entire cleanup effort in addition to labor involved in repopulation.

Ostrich is the state veterinarian who is part of a team tracking herds in the quarantine zone recently imposed in Lancaster County, affecting about three million birds, including layers and broilers.

A suspected cause of the recently identified A.I., a nonpathogenic strain, in flocks in the Manheim-Mount Joy area could be the trucks transporting spent hens to live bird markets in New York, New Jersey, and even Pennsylvania. Trucks not disinfected before leaving the live bird markets and making their way to Lancaster County farms could pose a grave danger to flocks — they violate rules of biosecurity.

As a result, Ostrich sees a whole new industry arising, possibly as the result of legislation being set up in the future to mandate "sanitation stations" in the state. They could be run by commercial operations (he knows of two in the region already who have stations equipped to clean and disinfect large trucks).

They would do a lot to curb the incidence and spread of A.I. in the state's almost $600 million-per-year poultry industry.

State veterinarians and disease experts met this week to discuss causes and prevention of A.I. Areas of biosecurity that may not be considered in everyday farm life include sharing of farm equipment and custom planting and harvesting equipment that may go from one poultry farm to another. Poultry producers simply must implement strict biosecurity, even if they are not within the five-mile quarantine radius outlined by the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture.

Biosecurity is no longer an option anymore — it is absolutely necessary. The industry is far too big and far too important in the state.

Last December a flock in Lebanon County was depopulated and A.I. was curbed in that region. Ostrich believes the industry got lucky — but how much can be attributed to getting the information about biosecurity and putting it into practice in a serious way?

In 1983 the state's poultry industry was caught off guard. They didn't understand the virus and what devastation it could cause. But as John Hoffman, executive director of the Pennsylvania Poultry Federation put it at this week's news conference in Harrisburg, mistakes were made 14 years ago that won't be — can't afford to be — repeated.

Now Is The Time

By John Schwartz

Lancaster County Agricultural Agent

To Calibrate Sprayer

Calibration of field sprayers should start at the nozzle, according to Robert Anderson, Lancaster County extension agronomy agent.

The proper nozzle should be used for the type spray being applied. Many spray materials will suggest the type of nozzle that should be used. Then make sure the output of each nozzle is accurate and uniform.

Although manufacturers rate nozzles for output, their performance may be affected by dirt, wear, pressure losses, and ground speed. Calibration checks should be done on all nozzles.

The procedure Anderson recommends is to measure the amount of spray that would be applied by one nozzle on an area equal to 1/128th of an acre. Using this method, the number of ounces from a nozzle equals the number of gallons applied per acre.

To Calculate 1/128th Acre

Robert Anderson, Lancaster County extension agronomy agent, states by dividing 43,560 square feet per acre by 128, we find there are 340 square feet in 1/128th of an acre.

Next, measure the spacing of the nozzles on the boom in feet. Twenty-inch spacing equals 1.67 feet (20 divided by 12) and 40-inch spacing equals 3.3 feet.

If you divide 340 by the nozzle spacing distance, you determine the number of feet the sprayer must travel in order for one nozzle to spray 1/128th of an acre. With 20-inch spacing the distance is 204 feet and for 40-inch nozzle spacing the distance is 102 feet.

Now you need to determine how long it takes your sprayer to cover the required distance. Timing should be done under field conditions. Drive the tractor and sprayer filled with water across a field with soil conditions similar to those expected to be found in the field at the time of spraying. Clock the amount of time it takes to cover the 204 feet or 102 feet, depending on the nozzle spacing.

To Determine Sprayer Nozzle Output

Once you have determined how many seconds it takes you to cover 1/128th of an acre, you are ready to determine how much material is being applied per acre, said Robert Anderson, Lancaster County extension agronomy agent.

With the tractor stopped and parked in a safe position, run the engine at the throttle setting used in the field if the sprayer is PTO-driven. If the sprayer has its own engine, you can turn the tractor engine off. Set the pressure you plan to spray at and collect the water from a nozzle for the amount of time it took to cover the measured distance. This reading in ounces is equal to the number of gallons applied per acre at that tractor speed and pressure setting.

One additional test you may want to consider is running your sprayer over a driveway or other paved area and check to see if the pattern looks uniform and dries uniformly. If some streaks appear as the surface dries, the spray pattern is not uniform and nozzles should be replaced.

Feather Prof.'s Footnote: "There is no exercise better for the heart than reaching out and lifting people up."

THE BIBLE SPEAKS
BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

TIME AND ETERNITY
May 25, 1997

Background Scripture:
Revelation 21:1 through 22:5
Devotional Reading:
Revelation 22:1-9

Eternity is beyond my comprehension for I am a prisoner of time. My watch and calendar shape my perceptions, my experience and my expectations. And as I grow older time seems to become my tormentor, perhaps even my enemy.

All human beings experience the tyranny of time. At first, it may lie heavily upon us and we foolishly wish for it to hurry along. Eventually, however, we are amazed to find it flashing past us so quickly and try as we might, we cannot stop it or even slow it down.

Our problem is that we habitually interpret eternity through the prism of time. That is understandable for time is all that we have experienced. Viewed thus, eternity seems a dim prospect of endless time. What we need to do more often is to let eternity interpret time, for, as Aldous Huxley has written, "It is only by taking the fact of eternity into account that we can deliver thought from its slavery to life. And it is only by deliberately paying our attention and our primary allegiance to eternity that we can prevent time from turning our lives into a pointless or diabolic foolery."

IS TIME REAL?

Although some people tend to regard the concept of eternity as "pie in the sky . . . sometime," one of eternity's greatest gifts is to the living of life in time. One of the things eternity teaches us is the distortion of time Because we measure time with clocks, calendars and astronomical apparatus, we tend to think of it as reality. In truth, it is only one perspective of reality or one reality among others.

The Greeks had two different concepts of time. One of these was Chronos or chronological time. This is the concept by which 9 a.m. is always followed by 9:01 a.m., as Tuesday follows Monday, February comes tripping on the heels of January and 1999 is certain to be succeeded by the year 2000. Chronos causes us to see time in terms of a past that is gone, a present that is fleeting and a future that is unseen.

The Greeks also thought of time as Kairos, the depth of time that is not governed by a ticking clock or nagging calendar. To put it lightly, the difference between Chronos and Kairos is the difference between an hour a teen-ager spends with his parents and the hour he spends with his girlfriend. Chronos is measured time, while Kairos is time fulfilled. And even though we rarely break out of the restraints of chronos, human beings have the capacity to experience both.

THE DWELLING OF GOD

Whatever eternity is, Revelation assures us that it will be with God. "Behold, the dwelling of God is with men. He will dwell with them and they shall be his people" (21:3). Eternity will be Kairos because we will be with God. Denis de Rougemont has written, "As is well known, the Devil is the Prince of Time, and God is the King of Eternity. Time without end, that is Hell. Perfect presence, that is eternity."

In that eternity, John assures us, "God . . . will wipe away every tear from their eyes, and death shall be no more, neither shall there be mourning nor crying nor pain any more, for the former things have passed away" (21:5,6). It is difficult for us to envision an eternity such as this, but it is enough that God has promised it.

Eternity will be so much more than anything I could imagine. And we will put time behind us as we live in the presence of him who said, "I am the Alpha and the Omega, the beginning and the end."

"MIRACLE GIRL" TELLS HER SECRET

Angie Arnold; "The Miracle Girl" from Noble Oklahoma tells how she gives Vitamix the easy way.

To save time, I mix enough vitamix for several days with equal parts sweet feed or ground corn. I put it near the cow or cows I am going to feed it to. (The ones that have symptoms of a contagious disease or infection like a cold, cough, off their feed, fever, mastitis, virus, etc.) When I go into the barn I give a handful the first thing and another handful every hour or two and one when I leave. I do the same at night or any time I happen to walk into the barn at midday, late evenings or night (at least six times a day). It only takes a minute and is a lot better than using antibiotics. Also you can sell the milk when using Vitamix. Antibiotics damage the immune system. Vitamix feeds the immune system.

I use Vitamix for calves that have scours, cough, colds, chills, fever, etc. Six times a day. I just open his mouth and pour it in with my hand. I put Vitamix in the milk two or three times to all baby calves before they get symptoms (six times a day if they already have symptoms). When I use milk replacer, I use the one that is free of medication.

When my neighbors have a sick pony, calf, lamb or pet I just give them Vitamix; and they call me the "miracle girl". This is the easiest job in the world. You can sit around waiting for a miracle if you want to; but I am going to order some Vitamix. I will get the Vitamix for sure.

If you have a sick horse, cow or calf; call Frank Lampley. Frank is a friend of mine. He will send you some Vitamix today. Just tell him Angie sent you.

My mother works for Frank Lampley in his Oklahoma office and I hear her telling people about Vitamix all the time. They often tell mom Vitamix is a lot better than the newspapers and magazines say it is. If you call before 3 pm EST you can have Vitamix tomorrow.
P.S. Be sure to read and follow the directions or Frank will yell at you.

ATTENTION

HI-RISE LAYER MANAGERS
WE HAVE STIR AERATOR TO HELP WITH

FLY & ODOR CONTROL

BIG PERFORMANCE...SMALL PRICE

SIMPLE PROCEDURE: the aerator works directly into the bed of material, forming its own windrow. Windrows can be formed from piles of nearly any size. Alleyways are not required when using the Brown aerator, so there is a great reduction in space requirements. The aerator's reverse rotation works the material from the bottom up and to the side, assuring complete mixing and agitation. LOW MAINTENANCE: the aerator is a simple design, the principle as a material mover has been proven with over 30 years experience in practical application. The aerator is hydraulically driven and equipped with patented wearplates or paddles, both of which are easily replaced.

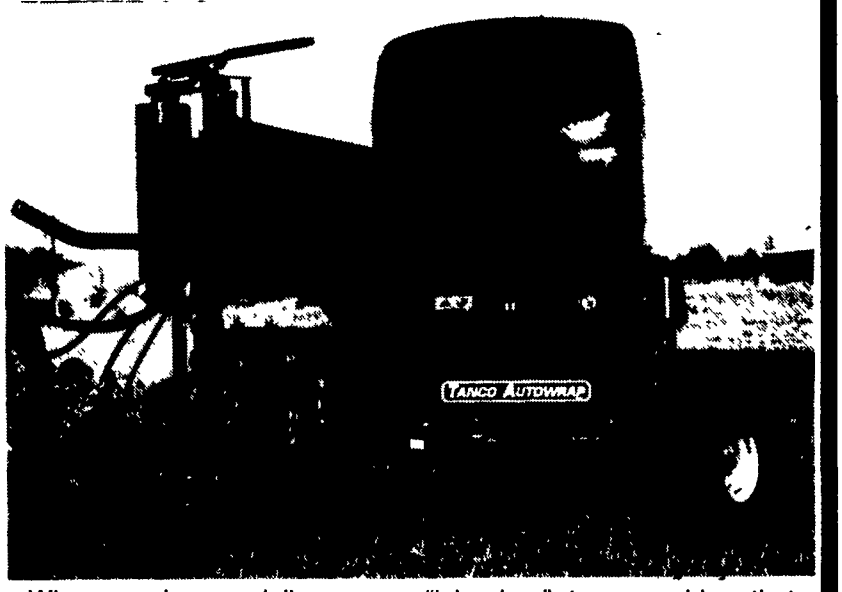
TANCO AUTOWRAP
THE WRAPPER THAT WRAPS BALES OTHERS WON'T
A complete range of Round, Square & Rectangular Wrappers.



Patented advantages like the unique "Deep Cradle" continuous full width belt, and fully supported turntable where four poly-urethane wheels provide Tanco's renowned even and balanced operation, even with overweight and misshapen bales. Quality wrapping and quality machines that has made Tanco among the World's leading manufacturers.
Why spend your dollars on a "job shop" type machine that requires a large tractor, needs near perfect bales to work properly, and is scary to see in operation.

NEW CONTRACTS CONFUSE INDUSTRY; MILK PRICES SLUMP

LISA WHEELER

Bridge News

NEW YORK — The number of new futures and cash traded dairy contracts continues to grow, along with trading interest, but traders are confused as to whether the contracts reflect the industry's needs. Jun BFP prices are expected to fall due to heavy cheese stocks, and low cheese prices, despite producers hope for a pop-up in summer prices as happened last year.

The Coffee, Sugar and Cocoa Exchange's basic formula milk price (BFP) futures contract continues to be one of the strongest trading dairy futures contracts in the U.S. Total open interest continues to grow, now just over 600 lots in less than 2 months of trading.

"There are still some who are taking the wait and see attitude, but enough are trading the BFP that it's growing steadily. Not by leaps and bounds, but steadily," one broker said.

One trader estimated that with current steady growth, the CSCE's BFP open interest would be near 3,000 lots, citing strong interest from dairy producers and commercials/processors.

replaced its fluid milk contract with the BFP contract, which started trading today. The contract's size is 200,000 pounds of milk — double that of the CSCE's 100,000-pound contract. A source at the CME said the larger contract size is meant to help cut the cost of commercials.

The CME's contract will expire each month, versus the CSCE's method which includes the upcoming 3 months and then every other month thereafter.

Some traders said they were confused at the competition between the 2 Exchanges. One called the situation an "unnecessary game of tug and war."

"We don't need 2 different exchanges with the exact same contracts," one producer/broker said. "The CME is getting the edge on butter futures because they have the cash butter, but the CSCE has had great success with the BFP contract, too."

A spokesman at the CME said the Exchange is now planning a cheddar cheese futures contract, another contract that the CSCE already trades. The CME's plan is expected to be submitted to the Commodity of Futures Trading Commission (CFTC) later this month, he said.

CASH AND FUTURES PRICES

CSCE cheddar cheese nearby futures prices today were steady after falling sharply Wednesday, suggesting well-stocked inventories in the Midwest, one trader said.

CSCE Jun cheese futures settled at 117.30c, while Aug settled at 130.50c. Forward contracts were down and open interest was at 25 lots.

CSCE nonfat dry milk was down 120 points today, basis Jun, at 104.80c and Aug was down 100 points at 107.00c. The nonfat dry milk open interest was unchanged at 82 lots.

Today, CME barrel style cheese settled down 1 1/4c at $1.1375 per pound in a volume of 22 lots. Blocks settled up 1 1/4c at $1.1650 in a volume of 8 lots.

CSCE fluid raw milk today was up 2.5c at $1.0450, basis Jun, while Jly rose 2.5c to $1.0750. Total open interest for the raw milk futures market was 75 lots.

At the Chicago Mercantile Exchange on May 16, Grade AA cash butter increased 1 cent to $0.9300, Grade A increased 4 1/2c to $0.8550, and Grade B increased 7c to $0.8500.

Total open interest for grade AA butter positions traded on the Chicago Mercantile Exchange were 277 lots.

The general consensus of agricultural reports has shown the number of dairy cows declining while production has increased. This has brought prices into an overall slump.

According to the USDA, milk production in the 20 major producer states during April totalled 11.4 billion pounds, up 0.8% versus April 1996.

March revised production, at 11.6 billion pounds, was up 1.1% from March 1996, according to the USDA's Dairy Market News. Production per cow was up at 1,469 pounds for April, 28 pounds above April 1996, this despite a 87,000 head drop in the number of cows on farms. In April 1997, there were 7.73 million head.

Mid-Am To Acquire Borden Dairy Business

the company's own brand names, as well as to private label customers.

Under the terms of the transaction, Mid-Am is to acquire the Meadow Gold, Viva, Lite Line and Mountain High brand names, and a license to use the Borden and Elsie the Cow trademarks in the United States on certain dairy products.

Proceeds of the transaction will be used by Borden to pay down debt and invest in its businesses.

The transaction is subject to customary regulatory review and intended to close as soon as practicable.

Gary Hanman, chief executive officer of Mid-Am, said, "We're delighted to add this business to our dairy system, Borden/Meadow Gold gives our dairy farmer-owners access to several excellent brand names, a reputation for outstanding product quality, a strong manufacturing and distribution system, and a topnotch management team. It has great potential for growth and profitability, and we will support the business with the resources needed to capture that potential."

Also a Highland, Illinois, dairy farmer, Mid-Am's president Carl Baumann said the purchase of Borden is an excellent opportunity for Mid-Am's dairy farmers.

"This acquisition fits our long-range strategic plan to expand our geographic profile and to be a major marketer in the fluid milk sector of the dairy industry," he said.

C. Robert Kidder, Borden chairman and chief executive officer, said, "While we struggled with the notion of selling a business so many customers identify with, the agreement is clearly a winner for the people of Borden/Meadow Gold Dairies, for Mid-Am and for Borden.

"We have been transforming our company to focus on the food and chemical platforms that Borden is best able to develop and grow profitably," Kidder said. "This transaction furthers the transformation effort and provides capital that can be used to take advantage of major investment opportunities now developing in those businesses, including acquisitions, capital expenditures, new products and marketing initiatives."

Kidder noted that the Borden/Meadow Gold management team, led by chairman and CEO Anthony R. Ward, has restored the business to good profitability since 1994, when the unit was substantially unprofitable and prior Borden management had identified it for sale. With newly available financial resources following the acquisition of Borden by Kohlberg Kravis Roberts & Co., the business was refocused in its historically strongest markets west of the Mississippi, and significant investments were made in people, infrastructure, financial controls and marketing.

Mid-America Dairymen Inc. is a dairy marketing cooperative, serving more than 17,000 member families in 30 states, Mid-Am supplies fluid milk to bottling plants across the nation and is a major manufacturer of all types of dairy products, including cheese, cultured products, infant and adult nutritional products, and formulated dairy ingredients. Last year, Mid-Am had revenues of $4.1 billion and handled more than 20 billion pounds of milk.

The Borden family of companies, with sales of $5.8 billion in 1996, is a diversified producer of dairy, pasta, snacks and other packaged grocery products, consumer adhesives, and wallcoverings and adhesives, as well as resins and coatings products for industrial uses.

Headquartered in Columbus, Ohio, and privately owned by the investment firm Kohlberg Kravis Roberts & Co. (KKR) since March 1995, the Borden family employs about 20,000 people and operates about 130 plants worldwide.

To Help Rural Residents

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — Many rural Pennsylvania communities have difficulty recruiting doctors and maintaining small hospitals. Residents of these communiities have trouble finding accessible, affordable health and medical services.

The Pennsylvania Office of Rural Health (PORH) in Penn State's College of Agricultural Sciences seeks to improve rural health care by coordinating health programs and activities, providing opportunities for networking, and offering technical assistance to rural communities interested in improving their health care system.

"Health care is being transformed by mergers, buyouts, managed care and other trends," said Dr. Ken Martin, director of the PORH. "Consumers are hard pressed to keep up with all these changes, so we develop and provide educational programs on enhancing community health and understanding managed care.

"Rural communities are in a unique position to take steps to improve their health care systems," Martin said. "We want to support their efforts by linking them with various resources and partners interested in rural health."

"Our activities focus on consumer education, community assessment, training for health care providers and representation on boards and committees," said Lisa Davis, PORH coordinator.

The office's quarterly newsletter, "Pennsylvania Rural Health News," offers rural health professionals information on programs from around the state, computer resources, upcoming conferences and events, and funding sources for rural health-related grants.

Other PORH publications include "Pennsylvania Office of Rural Health Research Notes," "Atlas of Underserved Areas in Pennsylvania," and "Directory of Rural Health and Related Resources." Recent releases include "Profile of Pennsylvania's Nurse Practitioners" and "Profile of Pennsylvania's Nurse Midwives."

Conference Will Explore Sustainable Community Development

WASHINGTON (Washington Co.) — The predominant form of growth in America since World War II has been "suburban sprawl."

But resident of many communities, alarmed by the loss of farmland, fields and forests, construction of expensive new facilities, and expansion of municipal services, are seeking innovative and alternative development strategies.

"Creating and Recreating Communities," an educational conference to be held June 24 from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. at Robert Morris College in Coraopolis, will give planners, municipal officials and others a chance to learn more about how to apply such strategies in their communities.

"The results of suburban sprawl include the decline of small towns and urban centers, a dependence on cars, segregation of social and economic classes, and an excessive adverse impact on natural systems," said Mark Remcheck, community forestry agent with Penn State Cooperative Extension in Washington County.

"Many people also feel that suburbs promote social isolation, resulting in a decline in the sense of community," he said. "This conference will offer ideas, techniques and strategies to mitigate the effects of sprawl and foster the creation and recreation of communities."

The event will begin at 9 a.m. with an address from Dr. Albert Luloff, professor of rural sociology in Penn State's College of Agricultural Sciences, who will discuss "What Makes a Place a Community."

At 9:30 a.m, Gary Moll, vice president for urban forestry of American Forests, will offer practical advice for building greener neighborhoods and preserving trees on construction sites.

Robert Kobet of Conservation Consultant Inc. will deliver an address titled "Creating and Recreating Communities: Planning for a Sustainable Future," at 10:30 a.m.

At 1 p.m., Kenneth P. Soergel of the American Society of Landscape Architects will discuss whether transferring development rights works to preserve farmland, fields and forests.

Gary Moll will demonstrate Citygreen computer software, a geographic information system application that incorporates natural systems into the community development process at 1:30 p.m.

A community panel discussion will be held at 2:45 p.m. Participants will include Rebecca Flora from South Side Local Development Company; Nancy Bierworth from Welcome to Indiana, Indiana, Pa.: Christine Wells, manager of Seven Fields Borough; and Mark Schneider of Rubinoff Company and Pittsburgh's Nine Mile Run housing development.

The $45 registration fee includes lunch, breaks, and conference materials. Pre-registration is required. For more information, or for a copy of the registration form, contact Mark Remcheck, Penn State Cooperative Extension, Washington County, 100 West Beau Street, Suite 601, Washington, PA 15301-4473, or call (412) 228-6940.

The conference is sponsored by Penn State Cooperative Extension, the Pennsylvania Urban and Community Forestry Council, the Pennsylvania Department of Conservation and Natural Resources, the Southwest Pennsylvania Community Tree Association, and the American Planning Association.

Red And White Cattle Association Holds Meeting

A general membership meeting of the Mason-Dixon Red and White Dairy Cattle Association was held Sunday, May 18 at 1:00 p.m. at Spangler's Restaurant near Gettysburg. The agenda included discussion of the 1997 Spring Red and White Show and Sale in Virginia; upcoming World Dairy Expo in Madison, WI in October 1997; update on National RWDCA; and election of Directors and Officers. Planning began for a picnic September 21, 1997 and the 1998 Spring Red and White Show and Sale.

Directors and Officers were elected as follows

Directors :
3 Year Term Michael Allen, John King, Jr , Jake Skinner
2 Year Term: Roscoe Harbaugh, Kenneth Myer, John Weiler
1 Year Term: Matt DeBaugh, David Horning, Charlie Hudson

Officers:
President: Jack King, Jr.

KEYSTONE FARM SHOW

The Farm Show For Farmers!

January 6th & 7th, 1998

York Fairgrounds • York, PA

A Two Day Show? Absolutely! By marketing ONLY to the full time farmer, we can bring in thousands of REAL BUYERS in a two day period. You may see more faces in a 9 or 10 day show, but we ELIMINATE the curiosity seekers and bring in qualified buyers...and that's time well spent!!

In January? January is the time when farmers are making decisions for the upcoming year. If there is a quiet time around the farm it's after the holidays and before spring planting season. Farmers are busy people. A farm show where all equipment lines and every service imaginable is represented saves them valuable time.

In York, PA? York is located in the southeastern region of Pennsylvania. This agricultural region which encompasses the Pennsylvania, Maryland, New Jersey market area is one of the richest agricultural regions on the east coast. The York fairgrounds offers room for expansion and a state of the art facility. Great lighting, a beautiful modern facility, and a staff of cooperative people made our choice an easy one.

Pennsylvania Farm Bureau Meets The Press

VERNON ACHENBACH JR.
Lancaster Farming Staff

CAMP HILL (Cumberland Co.) — Members of the state's farm press met with leaders and policy representatives of the Pennsylvania Farm Bureau on Monday at the organization's headquarters building in Camp Hill.

The purpose of the annual farm press meeting is to provide a forum for reporters and editors to be updated on PFB policy and to have PFB leadership answer questions about the state organization's policy.

The informal-environment meeting included PFB President Guy Donaldson, Administrative Secretary Louis Sallie, Governmental Relations Division Manager Al Myers and his staff of legislative policy representatives, Farm Management Services Manager Michael Evanish, Member Relations Manager Marlin Miller, and Public Relations Manager Richard Prether and staff.

Print media represented included Lancaster Farming, Harrisburg Patriot News, and Pennsylvania Farmer.

President Donaldson led the discussion, reviewing the organization's top policies.

The event is designed to educate the media on topics of legislative concern to the PFB membership and is held annually in May, prior to the end of the state Legislature's spring session.

While the PFB regularly sends news releases to media, and regularly invites media to attend policy forming functions, there always seems to be a need to remind media of policies and positions, and to clarify those positions.

This is especially important when state lawmakers and local municipal administrators and policymakers attempt to deal with issues in the limelight of media reports.

Policymakers depend heavily upon public perceptions to guide their actions. Of course, they are expected to depend upon knowledge of existing laws and the logical consequences of changing laws.

However, with more laws affecting people's activities than are possible for any one person to remember, much less comprehend, it behooves organizations, as the PFB, to remind legislators of the reasons for adopted policies and the context for those policies.

One of the best ways to remind or influence legislators is to educate the public about those policies and reasons.

The public's perception then can motivate the legislators to act accordingly.

The free media plays an integral part in the existing public policy education system, and works not only to present policy positions of professional organizations, but also attempts to report on the perceptions and positions of the general public, as well as those of lawmakers.

If positions aren't presented to the media well enough, there is greater chance for media misinterpretation, thus fueling misunderstanding by the general public and poor policy development by legislative representatives.

Legislative representatives, after all, are subject to public approval, and thus popularity.

If issues are left unexplained and public perception allowed to be innaccurately influenced by poor reporting, then PFB's mission of pursuing legislative representation of its membership can not be as effective.

The reason for holding such an educational forum for the print media this week has to do with timing of the state's Legislative calendar.

The Legislature normally breaks for the summer and resumes session in the fall.

The budget has traditionally been one of the last acts of the Legislature before calling for a summer recess (the state fiscal year ends June 30).

As the tool that allows policy to be enacted and realized, the budget-approval process is considered politically one of the most important.

However, this year, the budget has been passed for several weeks. It pretty much reflected the budget proposal offered by Gov. Tom Ridge, whose agenda has been fairly well accepted and likewise influenced by the Legislature.

Because of the lack of a sense of immediacy, the House has already reduced its June schedule to reflect the limited number of issues leadership intends to address until fall. The Senate is expected to do the same.

It should also be understood that summer is a time when the state's political representatives return to home districts to attend, and/or hold hearings, visit with support, civic and other community groups, and better ascertain local needs and problems. It is also time for building support for political organizations and election campaigns.

To best further the PFB agenda, Donaldson said that local chapter leaders were tasked with assessing priorities of established policies, and to report that back to the state leadership, so that issues important to membership were being addressed with the weight of that importance.

According to Donaldson, who is an Adams County fruit grower, the top priority discovered was establishing a deposit on non-returnable beverage containers, otherwise known as a "Bottle Bill."

He said that was actually a surprise to PFB state leadership, given the topical issues of dairy pricing and restructuring of the federal milk marketing orders, local tax reform and labor costs.

For years, the agricultural community has been requesting legislation creating and enabling a mandatory deposit on non-returnable beverage containers.

The opposition to such legislation has largely been blamed on the state's bottling industry and grocers who, at the heart of it, have argued that increased operating costs, including overhead and additional labor, would serve to send the bottling industry out of state, because of an anticompetitive environment.

However, most of the surrounding New England states have created and participated in such a program, even developing a multi-state program.

Pennsylvania held out.

Then, under the Gov. Robert Casey Administration, recylcing laws were enacted and the waste stream began to foster the growth of profitable beverage container collection and processing without the incentive of a mandatory deposit refund.

PFB representatives said that while the recycling laws have worked for high density populations in the state, they don't consider the program a complete success — it doesn't work well outside of the urban residential/industrial/retail arena.

In urban and suburban areas, whether legally required to or not, haulers have set up systems of collection for used aluminum cans and plastic bottles, and demand for the used cans has increased to the point that in urban areas there are many who collect cans for extra spending money, charity, and, for some, in order to survive.

In fact, in some cases, police have been called upon to protect the "interest" of haulers in situations where aluminum cans placed out for recycling pickup by the haulers are "harvested" by individuals seeking to cash-in the cans for themselves.

However, in rural areas, where cans aren't as obvious to discover or collect, where density of cans may not be as likely to provide as much profit per time invested collecting, and where public access to cans may not be as great, there are serious problems.

The PFB showed a video tape presentation of a recent press conference concerning the bottle bill held at a farm near Middletown.

As with many farms where bottles and cans are frequently discarded from bypassing automobilists, the Middletown farm is located in a more secluded area where witnesses to the littering are less likely.

Displayed were a number of glass beer bottles, along with some aluminum cans.

A demonstration of how aluminum is easily and almost undetectably shredded by a silage chopper was shown, as well as an explanation of how aluminum, being non-magnetic, is not easily detectable or separated with an automatic finding device.

That also makes it more dangerous for livestock which can then consume the metal.

In the past, with iron composition cans, magnets were frequently put into cows' stomachs so as to catch the metal parts and prevent them from further travel through the digestive system. The shredded metal can cut up the digestive organs and cause severe illness and symptoms, and eventually death, but with no clues until an autopsy is performed.

The livestock industry calls it "metal disease."

Broken bottles can also cause the same problem, but are more likely to cause tire punctures, as well as minor and major cuts to man and animal.

While a punctured tire may be a minor setback for an automobile, it is a great expense to farmers who pay hundreds and sometimes thousands of dollars for tires for tractors and equipment.

For farmers themselves, that sector of the public that continues to toss these items into road-edge fields and property is impossible to monitor and stop.

It is felt that Pennsylvania would experience similar roadside benefits from the absence of bottles and cans as has happened in states adopting the mandatory deposit, such as New York state.

The PFB requests a 5-cent mandatory deposit on beverage bottles and cans.

While noting that other types of litter are also a problem, it doesn't compare to the impact of the bottles and cans.

It was suggested from the media that perhaps there are reasons that explain the human behavior of littering farm fields, and that perhaps a better policy might be formed which targets correction of that behavior.

It was suggested that there may be a significant population of light to moderate underage and legal-age drive-and-drinkers who use the back and side roads of the state that course through farmland in an effort to evade police.

It was further suggested that that segment of society is inclined to toss their beverage containers into fields out of fear that, in case they would pass through one of the police check-points, the police would use the presence of empty containers as sufficient justification for automatically suspecting them of being legally intoxicated and/or in illegal possesson of alcohol.

Additionally, a significant percentage of the nonresident rural road driving population is assumed to not care where its debris falls or about the consequences.

While Donaldson said that

DAVID SLUSSER
Pa.DHIA General Manager

STATE COLLEGE (Centre Co.) — Pa.DHIA recently went over one million tested samples for milk urea nitrogen (MUN).

From the beginning, Pa.DHIA has worked with Dr. Jim Ferguson, and the Veterinary School, New Bolton Center, University of Pennsylvania, to calibrate and check our Foss 4000.

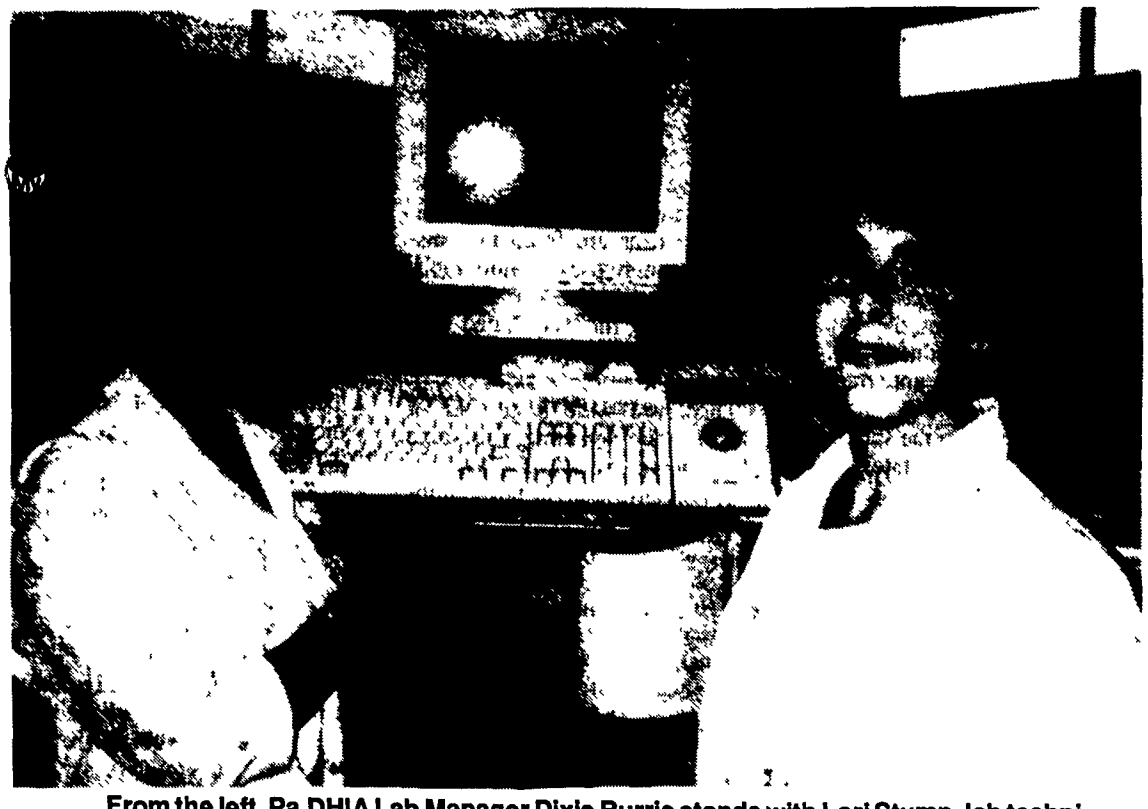
Accuracy has been our motto from the first day. This means thousands of dairy farms have benefited from a program that monitors their ration program for maximum efficiency of milk production and better reproductive health.

Before MUN testing was even offered to our members, we took 300 milk samples from throughout Pennsylvania to calibrate and compare our machine with the Kodak Autoclave machine at New Bolton Center.

This process has been repeated many times to ensure the consistency and accuracy of our test results. Also, we run calibration tests with the Dairy Quality Control Lab, and with a Foss CL-10.

Just recently, Pa.DHIA participated in a round-robin comparison with the National Lab Manager Association, and Pa.DHIA's laboratory was the most accurate and consistent in the nation.

Dixie Burris, Pa.DHIA lab manager said, "We have from the first day taken our test results seriously. Dairy farmers depend on us as a reliable source of fat, protein, (somatic cell count), and MUN (test result data). Misleading information can cost a dairyman thousands of dollars."



From the left, Pa.DHIA Lab Manager Dixie Burris stands with Lori Stump, lab technician, as they prepare to begin a new day of testing milk samples.

Jim Boyer, manager of the Pennsylvania Dairy Records Processing Center, said, "Pa.DHIA's Dairy Records Processing Center is the only center to maintain a MUN data base. This data base is being used all over the country for MUN research that will benefit all dairymen in the future."

In June, Pa.DHIA is to provide True Protein summary information with the MUN herd summary report.

Dr. Ferguson said that True Protein is another tool, when used with MUN, to better fine tune a ration. This new tool will be provided at no extra cost to herds on MUN.

Pa.DHIA is the national leader in MUN testing. Although Pa.DHIA was not the first to introduce MUN testing, in October 1995, testing for MUN began and Pa.DHIA became the driving force behind this new technology.

Pa.DRPC developed an industry best MUN Herd Summary report and the MUN data base.

Other recent accomplishments are the nation's first and only Performance Economics Program, the only DHIA database with Internet access, and now True Protein herd summary information.

All of this puts money in the pockets of our members that far exceeds their DHIA costs.

"The one-million test milestone is just member business," Burris said. "Adding Pa.DHIA nonmember and other DHIA MUN tests, our total number has approached 1,250,000."

She also said, "We receive samples from several other out-of-state DHIAs and also several private testing companies."

Thousands of dairy farms are profiting from the program that Pa.DHIA made a household word, and it is another step toward our mission of bottom-line profit increases for our members.

Please feel free to contact Pa.DHIA at (800) 344-8378, if we can assist with your MUN testing needs, or help with your total dairy management records system.

Soil Care Creativity, Ingenuity At Work On Lancaster Farms

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

NEW HOLLAND (Lancaster Co.) — One farm relies on soil microbes to improve plant health.

Another uses what can only be described as "pigaeration" — using the legs of little porkers — to aerate manure and turn it into usable compost.

Both methods to improve crop productivity are alive and well on two separate farms that were part of a tour undertaken by 34 representatives from five agriculture universities, several USDA offices, and various agri-industries.

The two-day tour began Wednesday. Sponsored by Rodale Institute through funding from the USDA's Sustainable Agriculture Research and Education (SARE) program, the tour showed some of the creative methods farmers near New Holland are using to promote not just soil medium but soil "life."

Years go, according to Don Weaver of Weaver Homestead Farm, the ground was "hard," mostly from the overapplication of manure.

In 1974, the farm began using liquid manure. It wasn't long before yields began to fall and quality of forages suffered.

Twelve years ago, Weaver began using a soil microbial additive at a cost of $17 per acre. The problem, Weaver recognized, is that while manure can be good for the soil, "the soil has to react to it," he said. "It has to process it."

The microbial product, incorporated in the fall, introduces 44 different materials to the soil, including bacteria, detoxifiers to handle the hydrocarbons, and nitrogen fixation elements. In combination with a crop rotation system that loosens the soil and following regular soil tests, the Weavers are able to achieve soybean yields of more than 60 bushels per acre, corn yields at 176 bushels per acre (for an average about 155 bushels per acre), and better hay — all at reduced costs.

Don Weaver, center, wearing a light jacket, said the farm is the 10th generation to operate the dairy. The dairy now includes 100 grade Holstein, with the milk herd at 80 cows with the same number of replacements. Herd average is 21,847 pounds, milking twice a day, tiestall to pipeline. The farm is a partnership which includes Don and his brother Nelson. Included is Don's wife, Linda and Nelson's wife, Joyce. Nelson employs one full-time hired man.

Also at the tour, Arden and Caroline Landis of Car-Den Holsteins, Kirkwood, spoke about their experiences of switching to grazing.

Don Weaver said the farm is the 10th generation to operate the dairy. The dairy now includes 100 grade Holstein, with the milk herd at 80 cows with the same number of replacements. Herd average is 21,847 pounds, milking twice a day, tiestall to pipeline.

The farm is a partnership which includes Don and his brother Nelson. Included is Don's wife, Linda and Nelson's wife, Joyce. Nelson employs one full-time hired man. Don also operates Homestead Nutrition, Inc., a soil and nutrient consultant business.

Nelson Weaver indicated that there are a total of 95 tillable acres on the farm, including 36 acres of corn, 22 acres of beans, and 45 acres of alfalfa. Rye is planted as a corn cover crop.

The rotation is three years of alfalfa, one year of corn, and one year of beans, back to corn again. Because corn is not followed by corn, Don said that the need for corn rootworm control has been eliminated.

Efforts over the years have been geared to "see what we can do to sustain land and to improve our soil quality," said Don Weaver. "We are willing to live with a few weeds." He noted there is no need to have "weedless fields" in order to get good crop yields and improved soil productivity on the Duffield silt loam, mostly limestone soil.

Nelson Weaver said the dairy stores manure in a recently installed 350,000 above-ground steel circular storage tank and a smaller underground concrete structure. Very little manure is spread. A lot of manure is hauled away to neighboring farms for a small fee per load.

More and more, according to Don, the farm is making use of less and less manure "for the good of the land, the good of us, and the good of our pocketbooks," he said. For years, because of manure overapplication, the soil has built up high levels of potassium and phosphorous. Also, a lot of the weed

(Turn to Page A24)

At the Justa Jersey Farm operated by Enos Hoover, also near New Holland, eight pigs hop onto and cavort around on a two-and- a-half-foot pile of manure in an area measuring about 25 feet wide and 100 feet long. The area holds manure from the dairy cows in the heifer barn.

In 1993, Hoover became interested in the prospect of selling organic milk and began buying Jersey cows. Hoover finds the Jerseys require less labor and are easier to handle. Here, Heidi nurses her calf, Hulda.

drinking drivers have been considered as having an incentive to dispose their empties, providing public trash bins hasn't worked — they soon become overflowing with household waste.

The message from state legislative leaders has been that the state's recycling laws have made a bottle bill practically impossible, and recycling businesses are opposed to it because of the potential to reduce their profits.

Regardless, the PFB still considers that a mandatory deposit on the cans and bottles would achieve the common goal of a better environment for all, and increase the chances for an increased economy from a more stable farming community not asked to carry the brunt of an uncaring public's rudeness, and from increased tourism attracted to a cleaner environment and the open spaces that agriculture offers.

"Recylcing is not keeping cans and bottle off of roads and out of fields," Donaldson said.

He said that the economic damages to agriculture are not exaggerated.

He said two major vegetable processors in the state have said they lose lots of money to bottles and cans. Especially because their crop is intended for human consumption, if they suspect that any cans or bottles have been picked up by a crop harvester, that load is dumped.

It loses money and crop for the business and farmer.

"It creates waste," Donaldson said. "The farmer loses and the corporation loses.

"It's imperative that we put an economic incentive on it. We promote 5 cents."

He said that Chester County state Rep. Arthur Hershey has introduced legislation to do that, while state Sen. Roger Madigan has proposed legislation for a non-binding voter referendum to address the issue.

Another priority issue is local tax reform, which has been proposed, but which has proved to either be contentious or an issue that places a politician at risk of losing the support of those enjoying the disparities of the existing situation.

The current situation is that most of the financial burden is on agricultural and other business property owners who generally receive much less in services than they pay in taxes.

Residential property owners, on the other hand, especially those with high incomes, receive much more in community services and benefits than they pay in taxes.

The PFB is seeking to correct that disparity, as well as other local taxing disparities by urging the Legislature to adopt legislation that work enable local tax reform.

Donaldson reported that a study is underway to update the disparity, which had been significant when first done in the late 1980s. The results of the study are expected to demonstrate the urgency for reform.

What has been agreed is needed for local tax reform to work is to have a local taxing authority assess its community's taxable assets and then create its own fair mix of real estate, income, and sales taxes to pay for public services.

Depending on local real estate taxes to carry the burden of providing income to pay for most community services lacks fairness because it does not correlate to ability to pay or the use of services.

Also, many counties have found themselves undergoing county wide reassessments. This is because the current local tax law situation favors those who don't reassess properties on a regular, euqitable basis.

For "property rich, cash poor" farming operations, fairness in taxation may be possible through the use of income taxes, though that would require farmers to actually identify their personal income as separate from the business income.

Under local tax reform proposals, it is assumed that a desired goal would be a mix of taxes, with some limitation over reliances and increases of each type of tax.

According to PFB literature, "Farmers are placed in a significant tax disadvantage as a result of current state laws which limit local taxing authority.

"Our current laws have severely limited the taxing authority of school district and other local taxing bodies to a point that real property tax increases have become the only primary means to satisfy increasing tax revenue needs.

"Farmers, whose ownership and use of land are necessary ... are required to pay a much higher local tax burden than other taxpayers."

According to the PFB, efforts to reduce federal budget outlays to school districts and other local authorities — forcing them to seek more and more of their operating funds locally — are exacerbating the tax burden to farmers.

The PFB supports tax reform legislation that would shift the burden of school taxes from real estate to a mix of taxes on income, sales, flat benefit tax, and real estate, at the option of the local school board.

It also would like to see a cap on property tax for school purposes; removal of the current maximum rate cap on earned income taxes, as long as property taxes are reduced; elimination of the personal property tax, the occupation tax and other local nuisance taxes; establishing tax credit rebates for relief; and requiring all taxing boards to receive voter approval before receiving authority to raise taxes or incur debt beyond a set percentage (110 percent) of the tax base.

The PFB opposes tax reform that is based solely on a homestead exemption.

Donaldson said that in his own school district in Adams County, which has experienced one of the largest residential population growths in the state, the tax has increased 11 mills over four years to help pay for $20 million in new building.

The pressure on agricultural land is tremendous and counterproductive to programs seeking to preserve farmland and open spaces.

On a separate issue of taxing, the PFB seeks to decrease the estate inheritance taxes and capital gains taxes, which currently break up family farms and other small business by forcing survivors to sell the farm or business or significant parts thereof to satisfy government tax demands.

pressure came from feeding corn silage — a lot of weed seed left over with the manure was causing weed emergence.

For controlling weeds, a fall cultivation is completed on fields that will rotate off of corn. The manure is "precomposted" as much as possible, said Don, and is aerated by pump underneath.

The precomposted material is applied in the fall and a moldboard plow is used to turn the stalks into the ground to raise the organic matter in the soil and prevent nitrogen leaching.

Two types of weeds challenge the Weavers the most — burcucumber, also known as "wild pickle," and shattercane. Nelson mostly uses a spot sprayer with a cultivator, using a variety of herbicides.

Don said that soil pH is maintained at 7.0-7.2. Also, the cation exchange properties are monitored. Don said the calcium-magnesium saturation ratio is 5:1.

He indicated that too many growers have a high magnesium to calcium saturation ratio, which can hinder soil productivity. But with the use of soil microbes, more careful application of manure, and good rotations, the corn was "tremendous this year," he said, with one field during a field day containing stalks "14 feet tall."

Ground used for corn is planted when the temperature is right, according to Don. He said he didn't like to "plant corn in coveralls and a knit cap," and to wait until the soil temperatures were right. Nelson checked the soil temperature a few days ago and the readings were low — only 47 degrees — not warm enough to plant. But a temperature check on Wednesday confirmed that it was OK to plant — by almost noon, soil temperature stood at 58 degrees.

Before planting, Nelson makes use of a rotary hoe to aerate and loosen the soil a few inches down. Corn, a 118-day variety, is planted on 30-inch rows at 27,000-29,000 plants per acre.

More about the Weaver Farm, their history and cropping strategies, and some of the reasons they switched to these methods will be included in next week's Lancaster Farming.

At the Justa Jersey Farm operated by Enos Hoover, also near New Holland, eight pigs hop onto and cavort around on a two-and-a-half-foot pile of manure in an area measuring about 25 feet wide and 100 feet long. The area holds manure from the dairy cows in the heifer barn.

What are the pigs doing up there? They are rooting around, aerating the manure, according to Enos.

Some call this management strategy "pigaeration." But Enos claims it works to prepare the manure a little better for spreading on the farm fields.

Enos and his wife purchased the 55-acre farm in 1971 from Mrs. Hoover's parents. The farm had been in the family three generations.

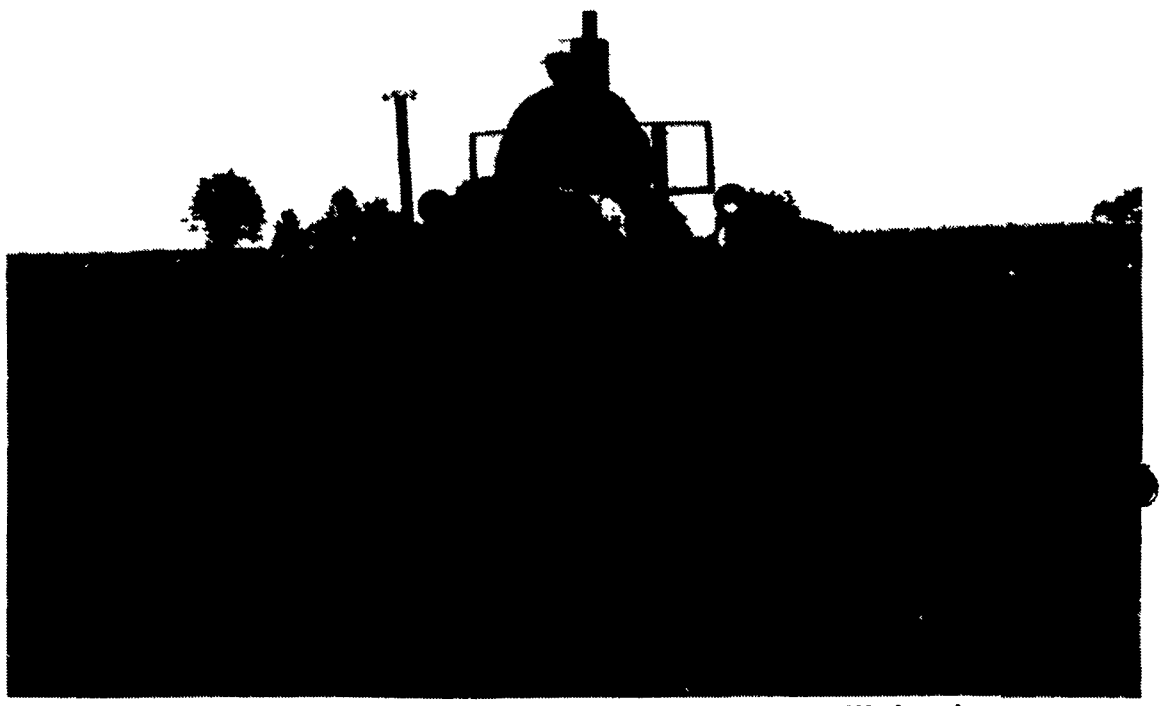
Enos used to manage a herd of 30 Holstein cows. He followed a fairly standard crop rotation of four years of alfalfa followed by four years of silage corn. The first and fourth cuttings of alfalfa were stored as haylage. The moldboard plow and disc were used for tillage. Crop fertility needs were supplied with the manure and purchased fertilizer. Herbicides were used for weed control in corn and for establishing alfalfa. Leafhoppers in alfalfa and corn rootworm were controlled with insecticides.

But over the years Enos made some changes. He switched to a more biologically based system. The past year, he started using pigaeration. He gradually reduced the purchase of off-farm inputs and realized better profits, he noted.

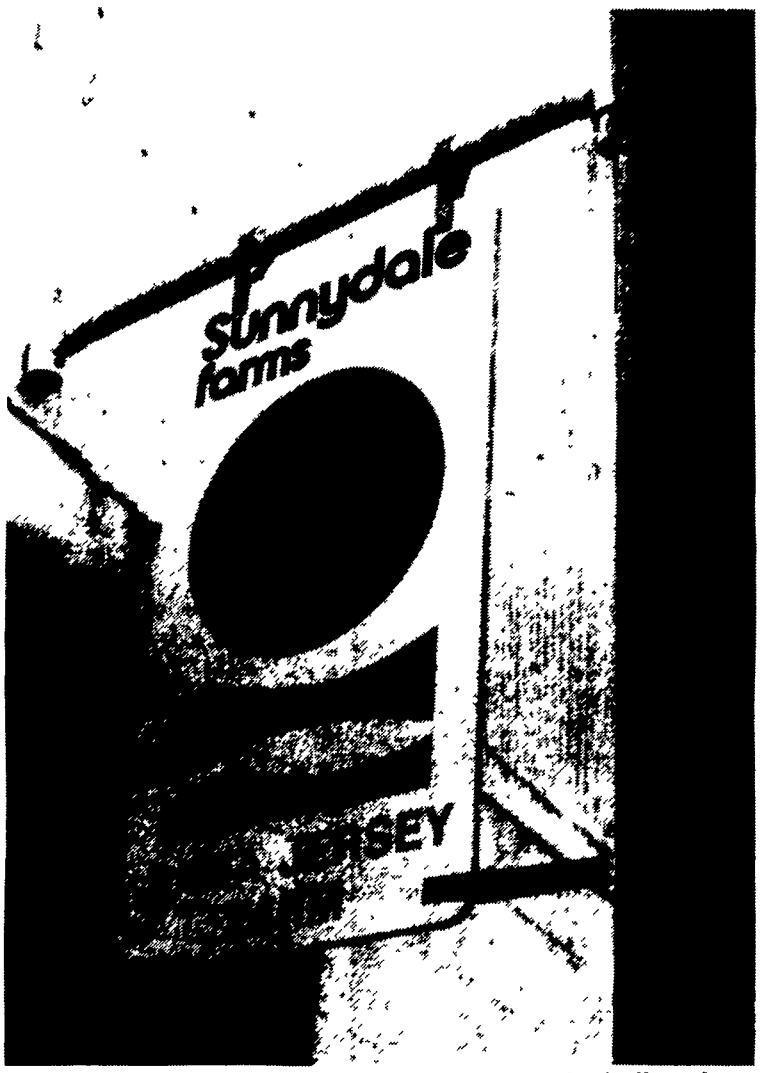
"Profits is what counts and they are better," he told the tour members.

He replaced his Holstein herd with Jerseys over a period of time and began converting cropland to intensive grazing.

With the use of spelt, which Hoover showed the tour members, the environment can handle it easily. Spelt is similar to oats but higher in protein. It's a good fiber feed. He has been able to harvest 80-90 bushels of the grain, fall seeded.



Nelson Weaver operates the rotary hoe on the tour Wednesday.



Hoover maintains a herd of 31 Jerseys, including dry cows. He milks 27 Jerseys with about the same number of replacements. The herd tests at about 11,000 pounds. A top producing cow milks about 16,000 pounds.

He became totally organic — certifying his farm as organic in 1994 has enabled him to get a $6.38 premium as of March for his milk.

In 1982, Enos began using a cropping system that uses the increased biological activity of the soil. Soybeans were added to the rotation to break up the sequence of corn following corn. The new rotation included two years of alfalfa, corn, soybeans, corn, and back to alfalfa. By switching from a moldboard plow (stored away now, unused, for 10 years, he said) to a chisel plow, Hoover was able to change from deep to shallow tillage. With these changes and several others, Hoover saw an improvement in the tilth of his soils and a positive impact on yields.

In 1993, Hoover became interested in the prospect of selling organic milk and began buying Jersey cows. Hoover finds the Jerseys require less labor and are easier to handle.

As he switched over his herd, he decided to try grazing. He now has 28 acres in grass and the remaining 27 acres in crops. He crop rotation consists of fall-seeded spelt (a wheat with lax spikes and spikelets containing two light red kernels) and timothy, followed by one year of alfalfa/timothy and one year of corn. The timothy/alfalfa mix is harvested as hay, and the corn as ear corn.

With the switch to grazing and his crop mix, Hoover no longer uses the silos and the TMR mixer.

Hoover began using the pigaeration method last year, when he purchased three pigs. He told the tour members that he picked ones from his neighbor that were "runts and had floppy ears — they were cheaper that way." He spread corn ears on top of the windrow to encourage the pigs to work the manure. He turned the manure three times with a skid loader and, with the pigs' help, applied the composted manure to his alfalfa field. The pigs were also fed soybeans.

Hoover maintains a herd of 31 Jerseys, including dry cows. He milks 27 Jerseys with about the same number of replacements. The herd tests at about 11,000 pounds. A top producing cow milks about 16,000 pounds.

With his manure aeration strategy, he is simply getting by with the pigs. Mostly, he is working to keep the organic matter and earthworms predominant in the soil. "We make a soil that's alive and produces its own plant foods and has them available as we go," he said.

With the use of spelt, which Hoover showed the tour members, the environment can handle it easily. Spelt is similar to oats but higher in protein. It's a good fiber feed. He has been able to harvest 80-9[illegible] bushels of the grain, fall seeded.

Also at the tour, Arden and Caroline Landis of Car-Den Holsteins, Kirkwood, spoke about their experiences of switching to grazing.

The tour continued Wednesday evening with a tour of the Rodale Institute Experimental Farm. On Thursday, the tour resumed with stops at Cedar Meadow Farm, operated by Steve Groff, and the Pequea-Mill Creek Project in Smoketown.

PART 1: MODIFIED LIVE VACCINE FOR BVD PROTECTION IN REPLACEMENT HEIFERS

Robert J. Munson V.M.D.
Field Investigation
Center For Animal Health
And Productivity
New Bolton Center

Following the 1994 outbreak of Bovine Viral Diarrhea (BVD) in Pennsylvania, a Penn State Study showed approximately 20 percent of the herds were not routinely vaccinating for BVD.

Furthermore, of the herds vaccinating to protect from a BVD outbreak, only 27 percent were doing it correctly.

A 1996 National Animal Health Monitoring System (NAHMS) study showed that only 70 percent of herds vaccinate heifers or cows for BVD. In addition, only 22 percent of herds using a killed virus vaccine were doing so with proper booster immunization. Both these studies suggest that more than ⅔ of the herds are at risk for a serious BVD outbreak.

Given an estimate from the National Animal Disease Center (NADC) in Ames, Iowa, that more than 50 percent of cattle in the U.S. are exposed to BVD virus in their first two years of life, many herds have inadequate BVD preventive programs.

For a vaccination program to be effective, proper procedures must be followed, as outlined by the manufacturer's label. In general, proper prodecures are different for killed and modified-live vaccines. In the NAHMS survey, 10 percent of producers vaccinating were unaware of the type of vaccine that they were using.

Killed virus vaccines need to have a booster injection given 2-4 weeks following initial injection and then repeated at least yearly to maintin protection. A recent article in Dairy Herd Management (October 1996) stressed the importance of using two doses of killed virus vaccine 2-4 weeks apart for the initial vaccination exposure. It is correct to state as they did in the Dairy Herd Management article that you are wasting your money if you don't use the second dose of killed vaccine.

The vaccine is not necessarily at fault but the vaccination procedure must be done properly. Proper vaccination procedure necessary to achieve desired results is often difficult to accomplish on the farm because time constraints, animal handling facilities, or lack of knowledge of what it takes to complete the process.

Another important consideration is the age of the animal when vaccination is started. Maternal antibodies absorbed by the calf from colostrum may block the response to initial vaccination if vaccination is attempted in too young an animal. If calves are vaccinated before these antibodies have dropped to acceptable levels, the antibodies can combine with the vaccine and prevent the immune system from being stimulated. This can happen with both killed and modified-live vaccines, but it is more of a problam with killed products.

Consider the consequences of beginning vaccination too early in an animal's life. Remember the need to use two doses, 2-4 weeks apart for the initial vaccination, followed by a booster dose before breeding. If the first dose is blocked by colostral antibodies, the primary exposure of the immune system does not occur.

The second dose, 2-4 weeks later, does not booster a primed immune system. In fact we have at best given the primary dose.

Before breeding, (six to eight months later), the third dose given as a booster, but it is now too late to cause the immune system to produce antibodies. We think we have protected this animal, but it is in fact unprotected.

This example exposes the problems seen with programs using killed virus vaccines. In general, killed vaccine programs require more management effort and animal handling to be effective than do programs using modified live products.

The alternative to multiple doses of killed vaccine is to use a modified-live BVD vaccine at six months of age and again at 12 months of age. At the American Association of Bovine Practitioners meeting in 1993, Dr. Ron Schultz, chairman of the Pathobiology Department at the University of Wisconsin School of Veterinary Medicine, challenged practitioners from all over the country with two questions:

- First, had anyone in the audience ever had a herd outbreak or wreck from BVD when killed vaccines were used as the herd vaccine?
- Second, had anyone had a wreck from BVD when modified-live vaccine was used as the herd vaccine?

There wete multiple positive responses to the first question and no responses to the second.

We know that by six months of age maternal antibodies, in most cases will be low enough for vaccination to be successful using modified live vaccines. Modified live vaccines provide long lasting immunity following successful vaccination in calves. We recommend revaccination again at 12 months of age before breeding.

The second dose is aimed at immunizing animals that were missed or that did not respond when they were done around six months of age. The virus in modified live vaccines actually infect cells of the heifer and produce more viral particles. These viral particles are later eliminated from the heifer after antibody production is stimulated. This virus exposure explains how one dose of modified live vaccine is both the primary and the secondary stimulus to the immune system.

After the immunization of replacement heifers with two doses of modified live vaccine, a yearly booster (killed or modified-live vaccine) is recommended to maintain adequate immune stimulation. The best time to booster cattle is 2-4 weeks after calving so that maximum immunity is present for the breeding and early gestation period Modified live vaccines are less expensive than killed prodcuts and don't cause the allergic reactions sometime seen with killed products. Fewer doses are necessary to provide protection and the protection lasts longer.

The Field Investigation Units at the University of Pennsylvania and Penn State University have suggested the use of modified live vaccines in replacement heifers as the method of choice to dairy producers. Producers with animals not currently on a vaccination program should discuss with their veterinarian how to best achieve herd protection with pregnant heifers and adults.

One point should be stressed here. Do not vaccinate pregnant animals with modified live BVD vaccines. They are not approved for pregnant animals due to the concern for fetal infection resulting in abortion.

Vaccination is the first step in controlling BVD on our farms. The second step is preventing the virus from infecting pregnant cows and heifers which will be covered in a follow-up article in a furture column.

Pennsylvania Farm Bureau

While the issue has risen to national scope, and some have opposed it, calling it a way for the wealthy to confer onto their children undeserved wealth, from the farmer and small business person's perspective, a small family business generally requires demands the children to work nongratis for years, and then at reduced income commesurate with responsbility, compared to those people who are employed by others.

Destroying small businesses in an effort to gain taxes to run government decreases the long-term chances that there will be a healthy, broad spectrum base of business that can contribute toward supplying community services.

With farming, as with some other types of business requiring long-held properties, the value generally increases only according to the rate of inflation of property values.

Imposing heavy capital gains taxes upon the seller of farmland, after the farmer has lived "land rich and cash poor," in effect, eliminates any retirement value that farm may have held.

It also forces the farmer to sell the land for the highest price, which in most cases, is determined by law to be the best use.

However, it has become an issue, because that philosophy only works in a situation in which farmland is limitless.

The other issues among the PFB's list of top priorities include water rights and water use management (the PFB supports farmers registering their water use with the Susquehanna River Basin Commission because of the value that will confer upon the farmer), tort reform, wetland regulation, private property rights, dairy pricing, rural health care, reconstruction of local bridges and roads, workers' compensation, and wildlife management and crop damage control.

Contact a local PFB representative for more information on the organization and its policies.

the original three-house location of the larger layer operation in the Manheim-Mount Joy area.

As a result, late Friday afternoon last week the ag department, at the request of the industry, issued a premise quarantine on the two farms and an area quarantine which encompasses 80 flocks in an area measuring 70-80 square miles, according to Ostrich.

On Friday morning, Ostrich said the industry has to take the outbreaks "very, very seriously." What has the department extremely concerned, said Ostrich, is the fact that three of the flocks identified seem to fit a pattern of transmission of the disease, with a northwest wind. The fourth flock, east of Chickies Creek, "can't be explained," he said by the wind theory. More likely it was carried to the farm by equipment or personnel.

"We are taking some heavy hits with this outbreak," noted Ostrich. "We must batten down the hatches at this point."

As of Friday morning, out of 80 flocks in the quarantine area, 40 were tested. Five percent have been identified as being tested positive for A.I. If the level raises to 10 percent, Ostrich indicated, "the industry is going to bleed economically."

Ostrich said that it is possible that the virus has a slow incubation at the farm. "People have have it and not realize it's there. It could be several days before they see signs of it," he said.

As of Friday, Ostrich said the state had enlisted the help of USDA emergency management people to help them manage the situation.

Ostrich spoke on Tuesday morning at a press conference about the quarantine at the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture building in Harrisburg.

Ostrich said that with a premise quarantine, no trucks are allowed in or out of the farm. No birds are allowed back in until the environment tests negative for the virus. To repopulate, growers must wait until 30 days after the negative test.

The area quarantine means that movement in the five-mile radius from the original outbreak must be carefully monitored. Severe restrictions on people and equipment on and off the farm are in place. Feed trucks must be washed and disinfected. Strict biosecurity most be followed.

According to Ostrich, the quarantine extends in a roughly rectangular area beginning at Rt. 501 and Rt. 30 and west along Rt. 30 to the Rt 23 intersection. The quarantine extends west along Rt. 23 to the point of confluence of Little Chickies Creek and Chickies Creek, and then north to the point where Little Chickies crosses Elizabethtown Rd., east along Elizabethtown Rd. to intersect with Newport Rd. It then extends east from Newport Rd. to the intersection of Brubaker Valley Rd. and east on Brubaker Valley Rd. to intersect Rt. 501. It extends south along Rt. 501 to the intersection of Rt. 30.

The quarantine includes all forms of poultry, including chickens, ducks, geese, turkeys, pigeons, chukars, guineas, exotic fowl, game birds, and ratites, including emus, ostriches, and rheas. The quarantine will remain until all flocks in the area are tested and found negative for the virus. Live poultry or poultry produces may be moved to or from the quarantined area only with a permit from the state. Permits will be issued only if a flock is tested twice in a 10-day period and found to be negative.

State veterinarians met Thursday and listed two areas of biosecurity not always considered by farmers. Farm equipment shared by more than one farmer and custom operators of planting or harvesting equipment could spread the disease.

One suspected cause of the outbreaks of several under investigation, according to Ostrich, is the live bird markets in New York, New Jersey, and Pennsylvania. In many cases, the spent hens on commercial flocks in Lancaster are sold to live bird markets in New York. The trucks used to convey the birds could be carrying the virus from New York if the trucks aren't washed and sanitized before leaving the live bird markets. As a result, flocks are at an extremely high risk of contracting A.I., according to Ostrich.

Ostrich noted that, in the near future, "sanitizing stations" may have to be legislated, similar to weigh stations for trucks, to ensure that the trucks are clean. Ostrich indicated that he could foresee an entire industry being set up to sanitize trucks.

Ostrich knows of two commercial operations in Lancaster already that have the capability of sanitizing trucks. But the costs of water and detergent for handling a large variety of trucks are prohibitive.

For poultry producers, according to Ostrich, there may be no other way to effectively keep A.I. in check.

One way or another, if a pathogenic strain of the A.I. virus develops, three million birds in the county could be immediately at stake. The disease, which can affect broilers and layers, could impact the 17 million birds in the county.

The state's $563 million per year poultry industry is also at risk. Lancaster County's poultry industry alone generates $217 million per year in sales.

The two farms depopulated in Lancaster County came at a cost of about $350,000 combined — not including "ancillary" losses in terms of the cleanup effort and the work of repopulation at a later date, according to Ostrich.

Ostrich believes that the industry "got lucky," he said, with the depopulation of a flock in Jonestown, Lebanon County, early this year. However, at the press conference, Ostrich indicated that "we thought we were off the hook in March," he said. "But the virus showed its ugly head in Lancaster County."

At a Penn State-sponsored poultry health meeting, producers were warned about the consequences of an outbreak. Penn State has regularly posted guidelines to biosecurity in Lancaster Farming — including one last week in the regular "Poultry Pointers" column and in the "Now Is the Time" column in the May 10 issue of this newspaper.

The major outbreak of A.I. in 1983-1984 resulted in the destruction of 17 million birds at a cost of more than $100 million to producers. Losses from related industries could have brought the total to $1 billion for Pennsylvania's economy, according to Ostrich at the press conference.

What is of concern is how A.I. infected flocks when it was detected in the spring of 1983. According to Ostrich, the nonpathogenic strain of the virus, which causes flu-like symptoms and leaves birds open for other disease challenges, was left unchecked. There was a one in 256 chance the virus could change — and it did. By October of the same year, the highly pathogenic strain, or H5N2, had arrived and decimated flocks.

According to John Hoffman, executive director of the Pennsylvania Poultry Federation who also spoke at the Tuesday press conference, the industry knows the mistakes made in 1983. "We are not making those mistakes today," he said.

After 30 days, if all the flocks tested report no sign of the virus, the quarantine will be lifted, according to Ostrich. But if new flocks show the virus, the quarantine will be extended. Out of the 80 flocks in the zone, 40 of them have been tested. All 80 will be tested to find any indication of the virus.

One of the concerns, according to Dr. John Schwartz, Lancaster County extension director, are the New York and New Jersey live bird markets.

"We do not have a handle on live bird markets in New York, New Jersey, and even in Pennsylvania," said Ostrich.

If the same trucks are being used over and over again to transport birds from Lancaster to New York without being sanitized, that is a "breach in biosecurity," said Schwartz.

"Farms are being checked on a case-by-case basis for the virus," said Schwartz. As for practicing more strict biosecurity, contractors are more actively demanding it on producer farms.

Producers should think of the consequences even if only one person carries the virus to a poultry house. One person not observing correct biosecurity could walk in to a 120,000-bird layer house and can infect the flock at a cost of more than $300,000. "That creates a tremendous economic burden," said Ostrich.

'MAMMA Breakfast Promotions Result In 28 Percent Increase'

TOWSON, Md. — Philadelphia elementary schools showed a dramatic 28 percent increase in school breakfast participation resulting from the Middle Atlantic Milk Marketing Association's (MAMMA) "I Love Milk At Breakfast" contest. Two weeks after the breakfast promotion concluded, nearly 6,000 more students were still eating school breakfast on a regular basis.

The USDA mandates that a half-pint serving of milk be provided with every school breakfast sold. Therefore this increase in school breakfast participation also generated a 200-gallon increase in daily milk sales for the Philadelphia School Breakfast Program. If this increase sustains throughout the remainder of the year, Philadelphia elementary school children will have consumed nearly one-half million additional servings of milk due to MAMMA's breakfast promotion efforts.

Along with the "I Love Milk At Breakfast" contest, MAMMA also presented MAMMA's "Eat Smart To Be Smart" assembly in 12 Philadelphia elementary schools during the first two weeks in March. The assembly generated a 38 percent increase in school breakfast participation, with a 32 percent retention two weeks after the assembly.

The "Eat Smart To Be Smart" assembly combines music, oversized props, and the antics of That Milk Thing to teach children about the importance of school breakfast, the five food groups, healthy eating habits, and milk. Over the past four years, MAMMA has reached over 75 percent of the Philadelphia elementary schools with this high-energy interactive, and educational assembly.

The "I Love Milk At Breakfast" contest occurred during National School Breakfast week (March 3rd through 7th). Every child in Philadelphia elementary schools was given a contest card and encouraged to eat school breakfast every day to win prizes. Those children who did eat school breakfast every day during National School Breakfast week had their names entered into a drawing.

Children were awarded prizes from the contest in April. These prizes included "That Milk Thing" growth posters, pencils, and the grand prize — invitations to a Private Party with That Milk Thing at the Franklin Institute Science Museum. The Private Party was on April 24th from 5 p.m. to 8 p.m. Over 2,000 children and parents attended this event.

Highlights of the evening included a special showing of the Omniverse "Special Effects" movie, an electricity demonstration, a tour through the China Exhibit, and the opportunity to explore all of the many exhibits throughout the museum. Among the children's favorites were a life-sized, operating locomotive train and a giant heart. The incredibly zany That Milk Thing entertained children throughout the evening, while Pennsylvania dairy royalty greeted guests and helped with the event. Children tested their Nutrition IQ at Dairy Council Inc.'s display, and everyone enjoyed free pizza, milk, and ice cream.

MAMMA's "I Love Milk At Breakfast" contest and "Eat Smart To Be Smart" assembly are designed to increase school breakfast participation. School breakfast plays an essential role in the development of healthy children. Studies show that students who eat school breakfast have higher test scores, longer attention spans, and more energy. Often parents may not have the resources or time to feed their children a nutritious breakfast. School breakfast provides an ideal alternative for these children.

MAMMA sponsored these breakfast promotions in conjunction with the School District of Philadelphia Food Services Division and Balford Farms Dairy. MAMMA is a non-profit milk promotion and advertising association funded by Mid-Atlantic dairy farm families. "That Milk Thing" and MAMMA's school breakfast promotion programs are part of MAMMA's Kids/Gatekeepers Marketing Program, designed to increase milk consumption of children ages 6 to 11.

Mooovin' Your Way!

Farm And Home Foundation

Skromme's service to the board. After years of planning and building the Farm and Home Center was completed in 1968, and, later, an elevator was installed. Skromme was thrilled when the Center became debt free, but the most satisfying, he said, has been the Farm and Home Foundation scholarship program.

On Tuesday, eight county high school students received $1,400 each to pursue agriculture and nutrition-related studies. This brings a total of 368 scholarships awarded with a total value of $274,900 since its inception.

Scholarship winners selected this year include the following:

Jason Fleager is the 18-year-old son James and Linda Fleager of Lititz. The Warwick High School senior has his sights set on pursuing forest science at Penn State's main campus in the fall.

Jason's interest in forestry grew from participating in conservation activities through Boy Scouts. He became active with the Lancaster County Conservation where he heard about it a conservation school held at Penn State for high schools students in the summer.

"I have vivid memories of the entire experience. It was fantastic," he said.

The school gave a forestry overview, which convinced Jason to pursue a degree in it. He also is employed by a landscaping company.

In addition to the Farm & Home scholarship, Jason received scholarships connected with conservation from the Issac Walton, the Raychel Chrobot, and the Women's Garden Club.

At school, Jason participates in concert choir, show choir, Chamber singers, Symphonic band, marching band, jazz band, orchestra, and the National Honor Society.

Jason is an Eagle Scout and is an assistant scout master for Troop #44 Lititz.

Megan Pepple is the 18-year-old daughter of Melissa Pepple of Lancaster and of Gregory Pepple. Megan plans to study dietetics at Cedar Crest College.

"I became interested in dietitics when I had an eating disorder," Megan said. "The nutritionist and psychologist helped me live — I want to do the same for others," Megan said.

She selected Cedar Crest College "because its known for good academics, and when I visited the campus, everyone was friendly and wonderful," she said.

At Hempfield High School, Megan is involved in track and field, cross country, the school's literary magazine, and the National Honor Society.

She enjoys volunteering at the Hands On House, and the Mennonite Home. She has a 15-year-old brother Daran.

Megan also received a scholarship from the Lancaster County Association of Consumer Sciences.

David Lehman worked during the summer for Fox Chase Golf Club, where he became intrigued with turfgrass science. He hopes to become a golf course superintendent.

He will attend Penn State's main campus. "It's one of the few colleges that offer turgrass as a major," David said.

David attends Ephrata High School, where he is a member of the FFA and the National Honor Society.

He is president of his church youth group and through that reaches out to the community through various projects.

David, whose dad Mark died in 1995, is the son of Mary Jane Lehman and has a married sister, Donna High, and two older brothers, Doug, and Dervin.

David, is the Rotary student of the month for June. He also received the Ephrata Young Farmers scholarship.

Darren P. Martin grew up on a dairy farm, but kept his options open to pursuing another career until this year.

"I lean toward studying dairy science at Penn State. It has the best ag program and a good reputation," said the 18-year-old son of Gerald and Carolyn Martin, Ephrata. He has a sister Angie, 20, and a brother Ryan, 15. Darren helps milk 50 cows and farm 130 acres.

At Lancaster Mennonite High, Darren belongs to the FFA, the chess team, and the National Honor Society. He also received an FFA scholarship.

Darren is treasurer of his church youth group.

Seth Gehman plans to study forrest technology at Penn State, but first he's taking two years of general courses at Elizabethtown College before heading to the main campus. He and his 20-year-old brother Hans will commute to the college.

"I love the outdoors," Seth said. During Shadow Day at Lancaster Mennonite High, Seth accompanied a self-employed woodsman as he marked off property boundaries. That experience influenced him to want to work as a forestry consultant.

Larry Weaver, right, president of the Farm and Home Center Foundation, presents a recognition award to charter board member Lawrence H. Skromme for 36 years. As an engineer, Skromme has been instrumental in overseeing building construction and changes to the multi-purpose facility.

At school, Seth is on the senior class committee to plan the graduation ceremony. He is a member of his church youth group and participates there in a program similar to Big Brothers.

Seth has also received two E-town scholarships and one from the Kiwanis Club.

Emmalea Garver found her niche with horticulture when she volunteered to work with the seed program at Landis Valley Museum. After earning a degree in horticulture at Penn State, she'd like to go to graduate school and eventually do research.

Emmalea is the daughter of R. Larry and Deborah Garver of Kirkwood. She has a sister Lydia, 16, and a brother, Aaron, 15.

At Solanco High School, Emmalea is active in track, pit orchestra, school newspaper, and FFA member. She is a senior Girl Scout and a member of a church youth group.

Emmalea takes a special interest in plants, especially vegetables. Her interest has earned scholarships from the Lancaster County Garden Club, The Garden Club of Pennsylvania, and from the Scholars Program of Penn State.

Jonathan Hess is the 18-year-old son of Karl and Elma Hess of Lancaster. His work on the 200-acre family farm and raising Holstein steers has influenced him to pursue a degree in animal science at Penn State.

"Possibly I'll return to the family farm," Jonathan said. At Lancaster Mennonite High, he is a member of the FFA technical crew and a member of the National Honor Society. He received a special award for carrying out the mission statement of the school.

He has two brothers Konrad, 20, and Michael, 12.

Todd D. Huber is the 18-year-old son of Nevin and Gail Huber of Lancaster. Todd is a student at Penn Manor. He plans to study agriculture engineering at Penn State.

Berks Has Funds For North Lebanon Water Quality

VERNON ACHENBACH JR.
Lancaster Farming Staff

LEBANON (Lebanon Co.) — A state Rivers Conservation Grant of $32,500 has been made available to streamside property owners in North Lebanon Township in Lebanon County on a cost-share basis to help improve headwater quality for the Tulpehocken Creek.

The cost-share ratio is to be determined on a case-by-case basis, according to a grant administration official.

Joe Hoffman, environmental director of the Berks County Conservancy, the group administering the grant in Lebanon County through the Lebanon Conservation District, explained that there is some flexibility but also certain parameters for the use of the grant funds.

He said that at least 50 percent of the cost of an improvement project would be picked up by the Conservancy grant, and at most 90 percent could be paid by the Conservancy.

However, he said the eventual split depends on some of the considerations by the Conservancy.

He said those considerations include such things as nearness to the Tulpehocken Creek main branch, the severity of the problem the project would correct, and the personal financial situation of the property owner and ability to contribute.

There are no strings attatched to the funding (i.e. no public trespassing required, or further commitments other than maintenance), except that the monies must be used for quality improvement projects.

Some types of improvement projects which would be considered include such things as streambank fencing, planting stream buffers, streambank protection devices and materials, fish enhancement structures, and streamside easements.

The funds this year are targeted only for streambank owners in North Lebanon Township. Next year, additional funds are to be made available for landowner projects in Jackson Township as well.

The Lebanon County Conservation District announced the program recently, as it is acting as the main contacting agency in Lebanon County for those interested in proposing projects.

The funding for the projects is being made available to Lebanon County property owners through the Berks County Conservancy.

The Conservancy got the money through a grant program offered by the state Department of Conservation and Natural Resources (DCNR).

The DCNR has a Rivers Conservation Grant program and the Berks Conservancy put together the grant proposal that was approved.

Lebanon County does not have such a conservancy, though interest had been raised about 10 years ago.

The Conservancy is a nonprofit group that has been working in Berks County since 1974. It has been active on various fronts, helping to secure open spaces, farmland preservation and stability of waterways and sources for the health and benefit of the community.

The improvement of the streambanks and tributaries of the Tulpehocken offers a multitude of benefits, such as reduced sediment contamination and storm water flow, thus longer life for the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers Blue Marsh Reservoir, as well as higher water quality for all who benefit from the waterway, including city of Reading and other dependent water consumers.

The Conservancy had helped to seek and obtain inclusion of the Tulpehocken Creek in the state's Scenic Rivers Program years ago. Hoffman explained that most of the other groups participating in the DCNR Rivers Consrervation Program are seeking to improve waterways first, and then possible inclusion in the Scenic Rivers program. The Tulpehocken Creek project has been done in reverse order.

According to Hoffman, the conservancy completed a Rivers Conservation Plan, using those stretches included in the Scenic Rivers program.

"And as such, when the plan was approved it was placed on the new state Rivers Conservation Registry.

"What is happening is that (the Rivers Conservation Program) is becoming the program that all the (stream improvement organizations) go to to get eligibility for implementation grants," Hoffman said.

"Some (stream support groups), besides getting that will decide (to seek) designation as a Scenic River. We did it backwards. The Tulpehocken became a Scenic River several years ago. Now it's on the registry."

In an effort to upgrade the upstream tributaries to the watercourse, the Conservancy sought and was granted funds over a several-year period for various projects along certain segments of the stream course.

Those segments of the Tulpehocken drainage included in the Scenic Rivers program were the only ones included in this grant proposal, though other segments of the Tulpehocken drainage not included in the Scenic Rivers designation have not been forgotten.

Hoffman said a separate grant proposal is to be made to the DCNR to seek funds for projects on the other tributaries, such as Mill Creek, which had been rejected for inclusion in the Scenic Rivers designation through objections by a few property owners who feared additional regulations from the then-Department of Environmental Resources.

The fear was that DER would later create regulations that would deny them their current land-use privileges and/or rights.

The DER was divided into two agencies with different areas of concern two years ago, when Gov. Tom Ridge approved legislation creating the Department of Environmental Protection and the DCNR.

The DCNR took over the state parks system and the conservation programs that had been under the purview of the DER, while the DEP took over the active pollution and contamination control and abatement work.

The Tulpehocken Creek is a tributary to the Schuylkill River, which empties into the Delaware River.

The majority of Lebanon County water flows into the Susquehanna River. Chesapeake Bay grants and funds have been made available to help improve stream and thus water quality in that drainage, though those funds have been generally targeted at preventing nonpoint nutrient pollution.

The funds for the Rivers Conservation Grant program is not specific to nutrient management devices, but apparently targets more streambank and streambed improvement devices and projects.

Project proposals will be accepted by Doug Wolfgang with the Lebanon County Conservation District at 2120 Cornwall Road, Suite 5, Lebanon, PA 17042-9788, or call (717) 272-3377 for more information.

Including the amount targeted to be spent in North Lebanon Township, along with what has been spent for two other projects in Berks County — one completed, another ongoing — the Conservancy has been able to bring in almost $100,000 to help build improvements in the Tulpehocken Creek Basin.

According to Hoffman, the Conservancy intends to channel additional funds through the Lebanon District next year for improvements to the Tulpehocken and tributaries in Jackson Township.

Each year a different phase of the funded program kicks in, affecting a different municipality.

The first year, a $25,000 project was conducted in Berks County at the junction of Cacoosing and Tulpehocken creeks. That project also received $25,000 worth of donated money, manpower and materials from Trout Unlimited.

That section of the Tulpehocken is located below the Blue Marsh dam and bottom flow waters, more constant year-round and within the survival range of trout, have provided a nationally recognized recreational opportunity.

Local land and real estate values reflect the benefits of those opportunities, and some local small businesses have been created to focus on catering to those who travel to the area seeking those opportunities.

The Conservancy is in the middle of a project in Marion Township in Berks County where $40,000 is being used primarily for streambank fencing.

Hoffman said the use of volunteer funds, materials and manpower in locating, designing and implementing projects has been invaluable.

Sportsmen's and other organizations interested in improving water conditions in their areas, even though direct public access would not be provided, are urged to become involved.

The water quality maintained or improved through the installation of such projects on private property benefits all, including those sportsmen and other enthusiasts, in perhaps more significant ways than what could be achieved targeting improvement projects only on public lands, where in

Despite cooler-than-normal temperatures for the fifth straight week in the Eastern United States, farmers made substantial progress planting spring crops. You can see down the rows of many corn fields now. But in many areas, gardeners were scrambling to protect tender plants from the promised cold snap of arctic air pushing down into the region thursday night. The brisk wind this week dried out the top soil rapidly and the Weather Service reported lower than average rain fall for the month. Pasture and hay growth are slow this year, but many farmers began to first cut grass for balage and silage. In the photo, an Amish farmer uses a grass machine powered by an engine and pulled by a team. The scene was captured on film, Tuesday afternoon along Newport Road at the corner near Pond Road, west of intercourse. Photo by Everett Newswanger, managing editor.

PROPER SWINE HANDLING

At a recent 4-H meeting, I presented a timely program to 121 club members, parents, and leaders focusing on safe handling of swine.

During this "pork quality assurance" lesson. I pointed out that even after weeks of proper care in growing hogs to market weight and very special care when showing hogs, we often fail in proper handling of hogs during the loading process right before hogs are shipped to the packing plant.

We all know that improper or abusive procedures during loadout can mean damaged pork product and huge losses to the pork industry. Well, I thought we all knew that! As part of the program, a pre- and post-test survey was properly completed by 62 youth and adults. Pre/post test results indicated a 30 percent improvement in knowledge gained and attitudes changed regarding the safe and proper procedures for handling and loading hogs.

Some of the critical things we learned:

• When sorting in the barn, keep in mind that pigs don't understand the objective of your work. Remain calm, quiet, patient, and organized.

• A panel is the most effective tool for moving a pig because it blocks its path and vision while protecting the person holding the panel. Brooms or paddles are effective as a smaller version of a panel.

• Slappers, buzzers, and prods should not be used to move swine. These devices cause unnecessary pain and injury. Negative behaviors will create stress and fear and could damage the meat.

• Pigs like to follow each other and are easier to move when the leaders are being prompted versus moving from the back of the herd. Move animals in small groups of 3 to 5.

• To prevent animals from stopping, alley ways should be free from distractions and humans blocking the path.

• A proper alley width by today's standards is three feet. Move three to five finisher pigs at one time. If your alley way is narrower, reduce the number of pigs you are moving.

• Sharp and rough edges on loading chutes cause bruising that results in trim loss.

• Have solid walls in the chutes and alley ways to help eliminate distractions in order to keep the animal flow moving.

• Moving and loading pigs of all sizes is not a race and the activity should be consistent and steady.

• If a truck driver is abusive to your animals, stop the loading and correct the situation. Do not put your investment at risk.

Tips For Semen Handling

Artificial Insemination (AI) has been and will continue to be the single most important tool for the genetic improvement of the cattle industry.

With this in mind, the proper handling of frozen semen cannot be overemphasized in a successful breeding program.

Of course, semen handling is just one link in a chain of events that has to be conducted in a professional manner, starting with herd health, proper nutrition, good quality semen, accurate heat detection, and a competent AI technician.

Following are tips that can help make AI easier and conception more successful.

• Keep an up-to-date inventory of the semen in your tank, especially which canister each bull's semen is in. This alone will decrease significantly the number of times the semen is exposed just trying to find the semen desired.

• Do not hold canes or canisters in the neck of the tank for more than five to eight seconds when transferring or moving semen from your tank. Handling techniques are more critical with French straws because of the surface-to-air exposure.

• Transfer the semen from the canes to the water bath as quickly as possible.

• Do not expose semen to direct sunlight or wind.

• Pen cows up in the breeding area before semen is thawed.

• Dry the unit thoroughly.

• Use a thermometer to prepare the water bath (both amps and straws require a 90-95 degree water bath. Amps require a 60-second thaw; straws, 10 seconds.)

• In cold or wet weather, warm the insemination gun with a towel before loading.

• When using straws, cut the sealed end of the straw off squarely to prevent semen from leaking between the straw and the pipette or sheath.

• Protect the insemination gun from outside temperatures when walking to the breeding chute (place it under your jacket).

• Read the identification on the unit of the semen to assure you are breeding to the bull of your choice.

To ensure trouble-free service from your semen tank, avoid storing it on concrete and do not handle it roughly. Cracking the tank will result in a loss of vacuum and the chilling temperature of -320°F. required for proper semen storage.

Cumberland County Wool Pool

The Cumberland County Wool Pool is scheduled for Wednesday, June 11, from 7 a.m. to noon for area wool producers. The pool will be held at the Carlisle Fairgrounds located along Route 34 in Carlisle. Poolers should enter the fairgrounds at the "K" street entrance.

All fleeces should be untied; however, fleeces must be rolled to retain individual identity. Each fleece will be graded. Properly dried fleeces may be stored and transported in garbage bags that have punched ventilation holes. Again this year, fleeces that are brought to the pool in plastic woven (feed) bags will be severely discounted. Wool must be free of excessive moisture. Examine your fleeces now. If wet, dry them in the sun. All wool brought to the pool tied will be penalized.

Producers from nearby counties are welcome. Wool will be graded and weighed in the pooler's presence. He will get a receipt showing pounds of each grade. Producers will receive checks for wool within a few weeks after the pool.

The pool was sold to Wellman, Inc. of Johnsonville, S.C.

Following are prices per pound for each grade:

3/8's and 1/4 Staple	58 cents
3/8's and 1/4 Clothing	53 cents
Low 1/4	56 cents
Fine and 1/2 Staple	100 cents
Light Vegetable Matter	40 cents
Heavy Vegetable Matter	35 cents
All Colored Wools	20 cents
Tags	15 cents

There will be a reduction for wool pool operational expenses.

Teaching A Horse To Trailer

It is obviously an unnatural event for a horse to be loaded into a horse trailer and transported. Therefore, the horse has to be trained to trailer.

Training horses to trailer at early age, traveling with a quiet friend, allowing plenty of room for the horse, and teaching the horse to ride in various types of trailers are all factors that influence the trailering process. Training a difficult horse to load can be a rewarding experience for the horse and horse owner. Positive, nontraumatic experiences are very important in teaching horses to haul safely and quietly.

There are several keys to successful trailering. Initial training for the horse at as young an age as possible, ideally as a foal. Teach the horse to load in a stock type trailer. The horse will be much less apprehensive if it does feel confined.

Horses can be fed in the trailer while learning to load. Load the horse in the trailer, allow the horse to eat, and unload without transporting. This procedure will help the horse gain confidence and feel safe while in trailer. Gradually start transporting the horse and slowly increase the length of the ride.

Training the horse to trailer with a quiet friend helps eliminate stress for the new traveler. Teach the horse to load and haul on both sides, or front and rear of a trailer. Train the horse to load in both the ramp and step-up trailers. By varying the riding position, the horse will be able to load and ride in any trailer.

Maryland DHIA Report For April

The April Dairy Herd Improvement information for dairy herds from the DHI processing center in Provo, Utah. The list includes herds from Maryland, Pennsylvania, and West Virginia. The information is listed by herd name, county association, number of cows in the herd and the average production per cow in the herd based on Energy Corrected Milk (ECM). ECM combines milk production and components.

The ECM formula is: (7.2 x lbs. protein) + (12.95 x lbs. fat) + (.327 x lbs. milk). To be included, the herd must have 10 cows averaging 65 pounds or more of ECM per cow, per day. All herds reported are on official DHI or DHIR test. Also listed are the top ten herds in Maryland for the Brown Swiss, Guernseys, and Jerseys, and the top seven herds for Ayrshires.

DAIRY WEEK

One dairy broker said the fall in the number of cows reflects individual dairy producers selling their cattle to better-managed co-operatives and larger producers who may be more efficient.

"Generally speaking, those people buying the herds are better managed and overall production is increasing, but small producers are trying their best to increase production," he said.

The World Agricultural Supply and Demand report estimated 1997/98 milk production to increase about 1% due to increased output per cow, which more than offsets a reduction in cow numbers.

Cow slaughter is currently well above expectation, not at all a reflection in the rise in beef cow slaughter, but rather more dairy cow, which is only 2% lower than last year's dairy cow slaughter level.

Milk production continues to increase and prices continue to rise and some expect even more dairy cow liquidation given a continuation of the current trend through the end of the summer.

Relatively weak milk/feed price ratios will continue into 1998, the report said, limiting gains in milk production. Commercial use will expand at about the same rate as milk production and surpluses removed from the market through the DEIP will remain at relatively low levels, it said.

The report expects milk prices to stay lower for the remainder of the 1996/97 season, with a recovery seen later this year. For 1997/98 milk prices are projected to average near, to higher-than the anticipated level for 1996/97, the report said.

"Those looking for higher prices are going to be very disappointed," a Midwest-based broker said. "Last year they made a lot of cheese when there was a surplus and milk prices went higher. The industry isn't going to make that much cheese this year so prices will come down."

GRAINS

Going into Memorial Day weekend, grain merchants and traders will be watching planting and the status of grain export sales to determine the direction of the market.

Corn exports of 24.2 million bushels surprised some traders who expected a lower figure. The stronger-than-expected weekly export sales data may be enough to pull corn out of its technically oversold market level.

Many in the industry were concerned about the slow emergence of the Midwest corn crop and its possible impact on final yields, but warmer, wetter weather could quickly alleviate those concerns.

Merchants said northern and Midwest sales will be especially light as farmers there concentrate on spring wheat and soybeans planting.

According to Bridge Global Weather Services persistent showers and storms are likely next week in the Plains and western Midwest, but the eastern Midwest should stay dry during the middle portion of the week.

Regions of Iowa, Nebraska and Minnesota could use rain at this point, but in general weather conditions are favorable for the early planted crop, some analysts said.

Spring wheat planting in the Dakotas may be 65 to 70% completed by the end of the 3-day weekend.

TAKE NOTE: Ticker symbols for the CME cash cheese contract are KB for blocks and RB for barrels. Prices are quoted in cents per pound, with minimum price moves of ¼ c, or $.1125 per pound, or $100 to $110 per unit.

Ticker symbol for the CME's BFP fluid milk contract is DA. Prices are quoted in cents per pound with a minimum move of $0.0001 or $20 per unit.

Department Of Agriculture On World Wide Web

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — As part of the Ridge Administration's commitment to using new technologies to reach out to and expand market opportunities for the state's agriculture industry, the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture recently unveiled its homepage.

Featuring agriculture facts and figures, along with information about the programs of the department, the homepage can be reached through the commonwealth's homepage at www.state.pa.us, or at www.state.pa.us/PA Exex/Agriculture/

"Going online is an exciting new means of providing both the agriculture industry and consumers with up-to-date information on the services we offer. The Internet also provides an opportunity to showcase Pennsylvania agriculture, the commonwealth's number one industry," said Agriculture Secretary Charles C. Brosius.

Among the topics on the homepage are agricultural facts and statistics, information on each of the bureaus within the department and their services, regional offices, and department news releases. Dog license applications also will be available.

Visitors to the site will also have access to information about the Pennsylvania Farm Show and the schedule of events, timely food safety tips, and access to livestock and grain market reports.

The site will be maintained on a regular basis to provide the most accurate information available.

On Oct. 19, 1995, Gov. Tom Ridge unveiled Pennsylvania's homepage. Eight other state agencies with homepages on the Internet are the departments of Conservation and Natural Resources; Education; Environmental Protection; General Services; Military and Veterans Affairs; Revenue; State; State Police; and Transportation.

Pennfield Announces Management Changes

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — Mike Horn, president and CEO of Pennfield Corp. has announced the following management changes.

Ray S. Lehr has been promoted to the newly-created position of senior vice president, Agricultural Products Division. In this capacity, Lehr will have responsibility for the manufacturing, marketing, and distribution of the company's feed and allied products. He had previously been senior vice president, Feed Marketing, a position he had held since joining Pennfield in 1982.

Robert J. Buehler has been promoted to the position of general manager, Feed Marketing. Buehler will be responsible for the marketing and sales of the company's poultry, dairy, swine, horse, and specialty feed lines. He joined the company in 1996 as a regional sales manager.

Joseph F. Sierotowicz has been named controller for the Ag Products Division with responsibility for the credit and accounting functions within the division. Previously, he served as corporate controller. Sierotowicz has been employed by Pennfield since 1991.

Base Crop Survey To Be Conducted

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Representatives of the Pennsylvania Agricultural Statistics Service (PASS) will be contacting 1,500 Pennsylvania farmers early in June as part of a nationwide survey of agriculture, according to Agriculture Secretary Charles C. Brosius.

This survey, one of the largest and most important conducted annually by the U.S. Department of Agriculture's National Agricultural Statistics Service (NASS), provides the basis for estimates of this season's crop production.

Results of the survey will be used to make reliable state, regional, and national estimates of crop acreage, grain stocks, and hog inventories.

"I encourage producers to cooperate by providing survey information. Accurate answers about the 1997 crop season can reduce uncertainty in the marketplace and provide a benchmark for the crop year," Brosius said. "We safeguard the confidentiality of all survey responses. Data about individual operations are used only in conjunction with information from other producers."

Selected producers will be notified by mail. Those who participate may request to receive summarized survey results for Pennsylvania and the nation.

Producers rely on the date to reach valid production, marketing, and investment decisions.

some cases, the improvements make no difference.

The reason that the Berks County Conservancy is involved in Lebanon County is because Lebanon County doesn't have such an organization. However, the Berks Conservancy can't go beyond the Tulpehocken in helping Lebanon Countians deal with their many other areas in need of improvements or to seek funds for Lebanon County directly.

There is a recently founded organization concerned with the Swatara Watershed and improvements within for the benefit of the county. The Swatara Creek is a significant source of drinking water for the city of Lebanon and surrounding communities. There is also a state park on a branch, and the watershed association is seeking to improve the drainage area.

Those interested in additional information about that group can also contact Wolfgang.

Any of the Conservancy funds not used in North Lebanon Township will not be available later.

Living On A Reduced Income — Deciding Which Bills To Pay First

When you're between jobs, the paychecks may stop coming but the bills don't. When you don't have enough money to cover your basic living expenses and pay all your creditors, you face some difficult financial decisions.

When your income is reduced, your spending habits must change. The sooner you change, the more likely your financial problems can be lessened. Your family should be part of the decision-making process, since their cooperation is essential to carry out your plans.

Sizing Up Your Situation

When your bills exceed the money to pay them, contact the people to whom you owe money — your creditors — and explain your situation. Creditors will usually work with you to adjust your payments because they want your money.

Before you can talk to your creditors, you need to take a hard look at your situation and make some decisions about how much and when you can pay. First, answer the following questions.

•How much income can you count on each month?

•How much money is needed to cover your essential monthly living expenses?

•How many creditors do you owe and what is the total amount you owe?

•How long is your present financial situation likely to last?

•What assets (savings, items that could be sold) do you have that could be used to pay off your debt?

•What debts are the most important to repay first?

•What debts could be satisfied by voluntarily surrendering, or giving back, the item?

Who Gets Paid First?

You are legally obligated to pay all of your creditors. If you can't pay all your bills, you must decide how much to pay to which creditors. One way is to divide money and pay every creditor a share of what you owe. This is probably the fairest way, but it doesn't always work because each creditor must agree to reduce the amount they receive and extend the payment period.

A second method is to prioritize which creditors receive the most money. Decide which debts would result in the worst consequences for your family if they weren't paid or were paid less than the amount due. Ask yourself the questions below.

What will affect my family's health and security the most? Usually the house, utilities, food, transportation and medical insurance take priority. Don't be tempted to let medical insurance slide when money is tight. If anyone in your family becomes ill, uninsured medical costs could be devastating. Pay high-priority bills or contact the creditors at once to work out smaller payments.

What will you lose if the bills aren't paid? You can lose your purchases if the creditor holds the title of the property as security for the loan: a home mortgage or car loan, for example. Sometimes furniture and large appliance loans are secured loans. Unsecured debts may have to take lower priorty, although you are obligated to pay them also.

How much do you owe on the loan? Determine how much you have paid on each loan and how much you owe. If you have only one or two payments to make on a loan, it's probably a good idea to finish paying it, getting that debt out of the way.

What interest rate are you paying? If you have a loan with a higher interest rate, you may decide to pay off a higher-interest credit card balance first, to reduce the amount of finance charges you are paying. Stop using credit cards.

Is a consolidation loan a good idea? Personal finance companies want you to think so, but generally a consolidation loan charges a higher interest rate, often 20 percent or more.

What is your credit record? Nonpayment of bills is recorded on your credit record and can damage your ability to get credit in the future. That's why contacting all your creditors immediately if you cannot pay your bills is important.

Remember — no matter how bad your situation may be, don't ignore your bills and creditors. Prompt action is very important; let your creditors know you're having trouble before you miss payments and the situation becomes worse.

PEPPERED OYSTER SUMMER SALAD
Marty Hyson, Baltimore, Maryland

Ingredients

1 pint Maryland oysters
½ cup coarse pepper
½ cup flour
1 head fresh romaine lettuce
3 red plum tomatoes
½ small thinly sliced red onion
¼ cup croutons
1 small avocado, sliced thin
½ small cucumber, sliced thin
¼ cup crumbled blue cheese

Dressing

½ cup balsamic vinegar
1 cup olive oil
¼ teaspoon garlic powder
¼ cup Parmesan cheese
¼ teaspoon Italian seasoning

Drain oysters well. Mix cracked pepper and flour and coat oysters heavily, refrigerate for 15-20 minutes. Mix all ingredients for dressing, shake well, and refrigerate, can be made ahead of time. Arrange lettuce, onion, tomato, avocado, cucumber, and blue cheese on a platter. Refrigerate. Heat vegetable oil in skillet and fry oysters until golden brown. Remove salad, pour dressing, add croutons and arrange fried oysters on top of salad. Serve cold.

COMPACTION COMMANDERS
NO-TILL RIPPER/DEEP RIPPER - 3-5-7 Shanks

Brillion introduces their new Compaction Commander . designed to break up hard-pan and compaction as deep as 20"
The standard V-shaped alloy point and wear strip leaves residue on the surface with minimal soil disturbance. Auto-rest shanks with 20" of trip height allows for non-stop tillage. Parabolic shanks lift and fracture the soil. 39" of underframe clearance assures trouble free operation even in heavy residue.

LANDCOMMANDERS
3-5-7-9-11-13 Shanks

The front disc gang has 22" x 1/4" disc blades on 15" spacings. They are designed to cut residue and work the ground to a depth of 6". The Landcommander has the ability to till from 8" to 20" deep. The rear disc gang has 20" x 7 ga. disc blades on 7.5 spacing. The 6"x4" mainframe is designed to handle the stress from the deep till shanks and disc gangs.

Artist Creates Beauty On Plain Surfaces

JOYCE BUPP
York Co. Correspondent

FAIRFIELD (Adams Co.) — To the casual observer, a plain, white porcelain plate might suggest a delicious dinner or a tasty dessert.

To Fairfield artist Phyllis "Dolly" Beachy, a piece of plain porcelain is a canvas begging to be transformed by her painting talents.

"I've made some silk purses and some sows' ears," quips the outgoing Dolly, who became intrigued with the art after seeing some of the work at a 1982 neighborhood craft show in Severna, Maryland. A sign at exhibiting artist Pat Boston's display offered classes, and Dolly made arrangements to become a student. Though she and her husband, Gene, moved to their farm at the foot of the South Mountains west of Fairfield in 1983, Dolly still drives over 100 miles weekly to continue classes with her longtime instructor. And while she continues studying, Dolly teaches her own classes weekly in her home.

Porcelain painting is done on "blanks," which are available in innumerable shapes and sizes, from tiny decorative pieces to large platters, casseroles or cookie jars. Paints are purchased in powder form, then mixed with oils. While most of Dolly's paintings incorporate basic colors, she jokes that there is always another color she needs. Some colors are more costly than others, reds and purples for instance, since they include higher levels of gold in the content. Gold paint, used in tiny bits to add accent to the porcelain, may cost $35 for a fraction of an ounce.

"It's a process of applying a special paint to a white glazed surface. After the porcelain is painted, it's fired in a kiln at temperatures ranging from 1,000 to 2,500 degrees to make it permanent," Dolly explains. Paints are applied in very thin coats, since thick layers of paint will pop loose when fired. Most pieces require several firings, with paint applied in layers, between firings, to obtain the completed design.

"Porcelain painting is a very forgiving art," Dolly says of this particular form of artistic expression. Until the piece is fired, the paint remains wet and can be moved, removed and redone. With numerous pieces under way at any time, "wet paint" stickers are a common accessory in the Beachy household.

Transporting 'wet' painted porcelain, has resulted in a few mishaps requiring the artist to wipe off most of what was painted and begin again," warns Dolly, who has experienced such accidents among her own and her students' efforts. Dolly has two kilns that are in almost constant use firing the artistic work of her and her students.

Although her first endeavor, a plate painted with wild roses, was accidentally broken, the Beachy's spacious farm home is filled with Dolly's artistic touches. They range from platters and casseroles to a painted landscape of the farm across the wall that backs her kitchen range. Tiles painted with colorful fruits, several of them painted by members of her classes, accent add more touches of creative color to the walls of the Beachy's kitchen.

Perhaps the most unusual porcelain painting in the Beachy home is an upstairs bathroom, in a vanity containing double porcelain sinks. Dolly created "his" and "hers" sink designs, painting beautiful birds on the porcelain of the side-by-side basins.

"To create a design, you can either trace from some source or sketch a pattern freehand," Dolly explains. To clarfy the details of particular painting subjects she wants to recreate, she frequently does lengthy research before picking up her brushes. If a series of matching designs or reproductions of earlier work is the goal, she suggests using a pattern or graphite tracing for consistent results.

Her hand-painted porcelains have delighted many gift recipients. New babies are welcomed with porcelain booties or feeding sets, while newlyweds often receive beautifully-decorated, commemorative cake plates. Like most artists, Dolly signs and dates her work, using the signature "Dolly."

Some of Dolly's most prized pieces are her Limoges boxes, tiny porcelain containers painted with detailed, miniature designs and fitted with intricate metal closures. One, a tiny drum-shaped box, Dolly painted in memory of her father, who was killed in the Battle of the Bulge. Inside the tiny box is a treasured keepsake, his rosary.

Limoges porcelains originated in Limoges, France, about 150 miles south of Paris. The region boasts a unique kaolin soil unknown anywhere else in the world, which fires into a particularly fine, white porcelain. Tiny boxes of the porcelain began being produced in the mid-18th century, originally to hold small items such as pills, rouge, powder or expensive sewing needles. According to Dolly, gentlemen and ladies are reported to have discreetly exchanged private messages in public gatherings by way of the tiny Limoges containers.

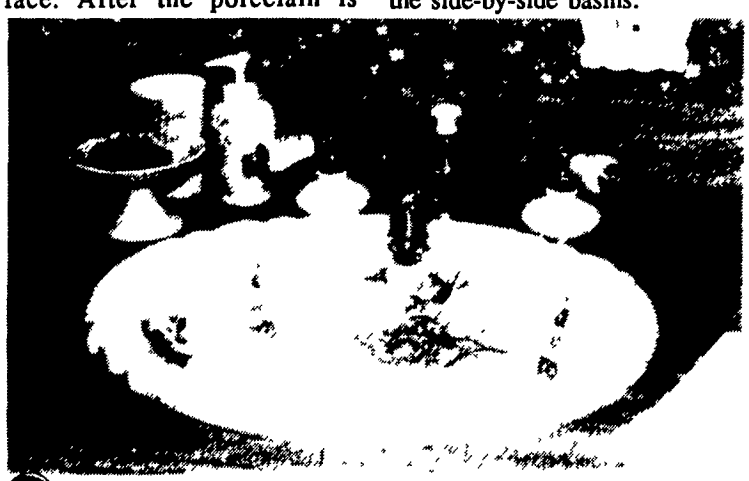
"The painting is a cottage industry, with no two boxes painted exactly alike," Dolly says. "Many artists embellish their boxes with luster, raised paste, gold or silver, and sometimes jewels. Inside the box, an artist might paint a related subject as a surprise."

Because of the scarcity of true Limoges artists, she notes that some manufacturers are now producing "hand decorated" pieces, using decals as the base of the design with hand-touches added.

Because the Limoges pieces are expensive and their intricate painting very time-consuming, Dolly does those mostly on consignment. In recent months, one of her Limoges boxes has been included in a home-page Website of one of her suppliers. It can be accessed on the Internet at: http://www.abs.net/~limoges/home.htm.

Active in porcelain painting organizations, Dolly has attended numerous shows, seminars and demonstrations around the country. In addition to commission work, she occasionally displays her work locally and has had a show at her home during the Fairfield Lions House Tour. She teaches weekly classes on Wednesdays as well as offering private classes by arrangement. Dolly Beachy can be reached at (717) 642-5193 or by dropping her a note at 615 Fairfield Station Road, Fairfield, PA 17320.

Dolly takes special pleasure in her diminutive, intricately-painted, Limoges boxes. With a touch of art humor unique to traditional Limoges boxes, many of them have a surprise object painted inside.



Taking her porcelain art to an unexpected location, Phyllis has painted birds on the his and hers vanity sinks in the bathroom of their historic Adams County home. Each bird in the matching porcelain sink bowls has a special meaning the Beachy's.

The Beachy home is filled with Phyllis's art work. Painted tiles behind the kitchen range reproduce the landscape of their farm, nestled at the foot of the mountains west of Fairfield.

Porcelains are fired and refired in the kiln, as successive applications of paint are added to create the final design. Phyllis's kiln is nearly filled with her pieces and those of her students, in various stages of completion.

Consuming Thoughts

by

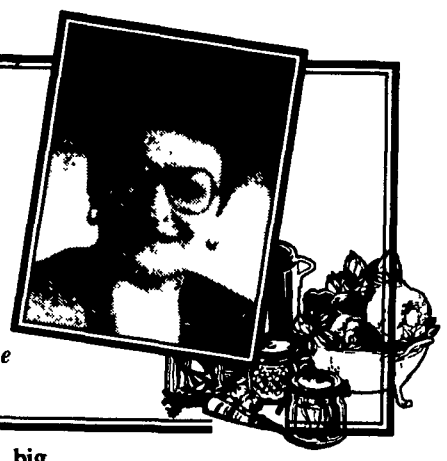
Penn State Extension Home Economist For Berks Co.



Fruit in season has some big advantages in cost, flavor and accessibility. Most consumers agree — there's nothing like eating locally grown fresh strawberries that were just picked. Encouraged by the new food guidelines, depicted in the food pyramid, we should all be trying to eat more fruits and vegetables.

When you go to pick strawberries at a "pick-your-own" farm, select the best variety for freezing or eating fresh berries by asking the grower about the different varieties available. Earliglow are excellent for freezing and eating fresh, while Guardian is best if used fresh. Other varieties that freeze well include Redchief, Allstar, Tristar and Tribute. Pick berries that are fully ripe, appropriately colored with intact green caps. Berries with white shoulders can remain in the garden another day or two.

An average of 1 pound strawberries makes 1 pint frozen berries. Twelve very large berries or 36 small berries equals a pint. One pint yields about 3¼ cup whole, 2¼ cup sliced, or 1⅓ cup pureed berries.

White or pale pink berries do not become sweeter after they are picked and should not be purchased or picked and avoid strawberries with bruises or without caps because they do not store well.

Here are a few storage tips:

•Always remove bruised, rotted, or molded berries before storing.

•Strawberries should be refrigerated immediately after purcashing or picking.

•Never rinse the berries or remove the caps before storing. Removing the cap early can reduce flavor, texture, and nutrient quality.

•Strawberries can only be stored for a couple days in the refrigerator. If held longer than this, a grey mold may develop.

•For optimal refrigeration, place berries no more than two berries deep in a shallow container or try covered with waxed paper or plastic wrap.

There are several ways to pack fruit for freezing: Syrup pack or dry pack. The syrup can be either sugar syrup or pectin syrup and the dry pack needs to be with sugar. If these products are not used, the strawberries will change more in color, flavor and texture while in freezer storage, even if the strawberries are frozen quickly.

To make a sugar syrup pack, mix and dissolve 2½ cups in 4 cups cold water. Stir well to dissolve. Add 1 cup of this syrup per quart of prepared fruit.

To make no sugar pectin syrup pack, combine 1 package powdered pectin in 1 cup water. Heat to boiling and boil 1 minute. Remove from heat and add 1¼ cups of water. Chill before using. Add more water if a thinner syrup is desired. Submerge fruit in syrup.

To make individually quick frozen berries use a tray pack: Dip berries into either one of the syrup pack solutions, drain and place berries individually, not touching, on plastic wrap on a cookie tray. Freeze in coldest part of freezer (usually 1 hour), then package the individually frozen berries in freezer bags.

To make a dry pack, mix ½ cup dry sugar per quart of prepared fruit.

To package, fill pint or quart size freezer bags to within one inch of top, squeeze out air easily by dunking bag in water, being careful not to get any water into bag, seal, label and freeze. Before freezing, bags may be inserted into reusable rigid plastic freezer containers for added protection against punctures and leakage.

One cup of strawberries provides 150% of the USRDA of vitamin C. Fresh, frozen or sliced they make just the right topping for cereal, waffles, pancakes or French toast. Forget the syrup and orange juice for a while — just enjoy the berries as a topping.

Shippensburg Garden Tour Is June 8

SHIPPENSBURG (Cumberland Co.) — The popular garden tour, held annually in Shippensburg, is scheduled on the second Sunday in June each year. This year the event is scheduled June 8 from 1-6 p.m.

In addition to the wide array of gardens and landscaped yards this year's tour will feature a plant sale at the refreshment site. Perennials have been shared by many church members. This variety will provide popular and unusual plants for tour goers for their own gardens.

Ponds, pools, a walk through the woods naturalized with wild flowers and huge rock outcroppings will be highlighted.

For tickets send a self addressed, stamped envelope to Christ U.M. Church, 47 E. King Street. Tickets are $5 adults in advance and $6 at the gardens, school age children $2.50

For additional information call the general chairperson, Rose Diller, (717) 532-8155. Tickets will be available the day of the tour at any of the garden sites and also in front of the church.

Conference To Convene

DREXEL HILL (Philadelphia) — The seventh annual Greater Philadelphia Christian Writers Conference, directed by Marlene Bagnull of Drexel Hill, will be held Friday and Saturday, May 30-31, in the Chelten Baptist Church, 1601 Limekiln Pike, Dresher (just off the Fort Washington interchange of the Philadelphia Turnpike). In addition, a Pre-Conference Day for Beginners will be held Thursday, May 29, at the same location. Now in its ninth year, the conference regularly draws hundreds of writers from more than 15 states.

Nineteen authors who together have written almost 200 books and thousands of articles, will serve on the faculty, joined by 20 editors from nationally known publishing houses and magazines including Fleming H. Revell, Chosen Books, Guideposts, Mature Living, and Christian Parenting Today.

Forty-eight workshops will also be offered on a wide variety of topics including "Beating Procrastination & Writer's Block," "Articles that Change Lives," "First Chaper-itis," "Grammar Goofs," and "New Trends in Christian Writing." In addition, the faculty will be available for one-on-one appointments to discuss works in progress and to give helpful advice.

The Thursday Pre-conference Day offers four and a half hours of intensive instruction aimed at helping conferees gain more from the rest of the conference.

For further information, call Georgia Burkett, Middletown, Pa., (717) 944-4427.

A Graduation Exercise In Tissues

I seem to get teary-eyed about many things lately, and I know that I am not alone. I try to pick out the other tissue-sniffers in a crowd to assure myself that I am normal. Graduation is a prime time for tissue-sniffing.

Why doesn't a school group sell small packages of tissues at the door as a fund raiser? After all, I never seem to have one when I need it. I usually have to ask two people until I can salvage a half of one tissue. (Sharing gives complete strangers a common bond especially if you are both wading in tear drops!)

Graduation is the time when you take a hard, close look at the children who, yesterday, were in your front yard riding skate boards or walking on your freshly-cemented patio. All of a sudden these children have grown into adult bodies, but the rest of us haven't truly noticed — unless you were their parents buying the size 12 sneakers or cases of hair spray. As for myself, just when I barely got used to my son riding his bike across town by himself, I found myself signing a driver's permit application. Where does the time go?

The time is now high school graduation. Suddenly flashbacks of the first day of kindergarten start running through my mind (that was a five tissue day!). Here you are with other parents of graduating seniors sitting in the gymnasium with mixed emotions. On the one hand, they are breathing a sigh of relief for many blessings, but in that same breath they are realizing their children are now men and women. As a parent of one of these graduating seniors, this brings emotions too close to the surface! (Please pass me another half-tissue.)

One parent told me that she just wanted to keep her arms around her kids and hold them as long as she could. She added, "You have given them the encouragement and the knowledge to fly, but you can't do it for them. Of yes, you can try, but they have to learn to leave us sometime. They will keep learning and growing, and our task is to be there for guidance, not for rescue." I have thought about this statement a lot, especially since my son is on the brink of independence. She spoke with a lot of experience as she has graduated two and lost a third teen in a car accident.

So, as I sit at my son's graduation ceremony listening to the accomplishments and dreams of the class of 1997, I will be a tissue-sniffer. I will also think about my youngest child who will be graduating from sixth grade the same week. Both children are moving on to broader horizons. One is becoming a man and the other is just beginning the journey into adolescence. Even though I know this is all a normal part of the life cycle, it still makes me have to borrow one more tissue from the person beside me.

Woodcarvers Compete, Display Work

INTERCOURSE (Lancaster Co.) — The beauty of the Pennsylvania Dutch Country will provide a picturesque backdrop to the 15th Annual Susquehanna Woodcarvers Show, an East Coast celebration that attracts over 40 of the nation's top wood sculptures, caricature and relief artists to the Kitchen Kettle Village in Intercourse, Pa.

Set for Saturday, June 7, from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m., the show is unique because it combines the excitement of a woodcarving exhibition and competition, and artfully ties it into a culinary jam session of picnic and barbecued foods that utilize Kitchen Kettle Village's own jellies, relishes and preserves in the ingredients.

Kitchen Kettle Village is located on Rt. 340 in the Village of Intercourse, 10 miles east of Lancaster. Free color brochures are available that outline all activities and events scheduled throughout the year.

For more information on the Summer Festival Schedule call or write: Kitchen Kettle Village, Main Street, P.O. Box 380, Intercourse, Pa 17534. Telephone (800) 732-3538.

The 15th annual Susquehanna Woodcarvers Show is slated for June 7 at Kitchen Kettle Village, Intercourse. More than 40 top artists will exhibit and demonstrate their work.

Flexibility is the key to staying productive. And that's exactly what you'll get with the AGCO® Allis 5650 utility tractor.

The Key To Effective Middle Management.

In fact, this mid-range tractor has a 45 PTO hp engine that offers you the ultimate in maneuverability. Celebrate With A Cookout

Memorial Day signals the beginning of outdoor eating. The warm weather is a welcome sight but warmer temperatures are also ideal for bacteria and other pathogens to multiply and cause foodborne illness.

Food not handled properly can make you sick. When shopping, select meats last, just before you check out. To guard against cross contamination—when raw meat juices drip on other foods—put meat packages into plastic bags. Go straight home. Place meat in the refrigerator immediately. Freeze ground meat you will not use within one or two days.

Completely thaw meat before grilling so it cooks more evenly. use the refrigerator for slow thawing or the microwave to defrost quickly if the food will be used immediately.

If you marinate meat to tenderize or to flavor, do so in the refrigerator, not on the counter. If some of the marinade is to be used as a sauce on the cooked food, reserve a portion of the marinade for this purpose. Do not reuse the marinade used on raw meat unless it is boiled first to destroy bacteria.

Be sure there are plenty of clean utensils and platters for separately handling the raw foods and the food after cooking. Never use the same platter and utensils for raw and cooked meat without thoroughly washing in between. Bacteria in the raw meat juices can contaminate the cooked meats.

Cook meat thoroughly. Meat cooked on the grill browns fast on the outside and may not be done in the center. In order to kill bacteria such as E.coli, ground beef should be cooked until the center is brown, juices are no longer pink, and the texture in the middle is flaky, not soft or mushy. Cut into the burger to look for signs of doneness.

Never partially grill meat and finish cooking later. Cook completely to destroy harmful bacteria and reheat later if necessary.

Leftovers need to be refrigerated quickly. Discard any food left out more than two hours (one hour in hot weather).

TROPICAL GRILLED FLANK STEAK

1½ pound flank steak
¼ cup fresh orange juice
2 tablespoons each chili sauce, soy sauce, and vegetable oil
1 teaspoon each sugar and grated orange peel
2 cloves garlic, minced
½ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon hot pepper sauce
1 medium orange, thinly sliced

Combine orange juice, chili sauce, soy sauce, oil, sugar, orange peel, garlic, salt and hot pepper sauce. Place beef flank steak and marinade in plastic bag, turning to coat. Top with orange slices. Close bag securely and marinate in refrigerator 3 hours or overnight, if desired, turning occasionally. Discard marinade and orange slices. Place steak on grid over medium coals. Grill 10 to 14 minutes or to desired doness, turning once. Carve steak into thin slices.

GRILLED CHICKEN BREAST

⅓ cup balsamic vinegar
¼ cup olive oil
1 tablespoon chopped fresh basil leaves
1 teaspoon finely chopped fresh garlic
4 boneless, skinless chicken breast

Prepare grill placing coals to one side, heat until coals are ash white.

Make aluminium foil pan and place on opposite side of grill.

In a small bowl, stir together the first four ingredients. Brush chicken with mixture. Place chicken on grill over aluminum drip pan. Grill turning and basting occasionally until chicken is fork tender, 15 to 20 minutes. 4 servings.

PIZZABURGERS

1 pound ground beef
4 thin slices mozzarella cheese
4-ounces pizza sauce
4 slices large onion
4 slices green pepper (optional)
4 large hamburger rolls

Divide ground beef into four portions. Roll each into a ball then flatten. Grill, broil or fry the burgers. Place a slice of cheese on each cover and let cheese melt. Spoon 1 or 2 tablespoons pizza sauce on each burger, top with onion and pepper if desired. Place on roll and enjoy. 4 servings.

B. Light

Tropical Grilled Flank Steak is easy to grill for a crowd.

ZESTY GRILLED BREAD

16-ounce loaf French or Italian bread
¾ cup shredded cheese
2 tablespoons chopped green onions
1 tablespoon Dijon-style mustard
2 teaspoons poppy seeds
½ cup sliced ripe olives
2 tablespoons olive oil

Slice bread at one-inch intervals, cutting to but not through bottom crust. Using spatulas, place on a large piece of heavy-duty foil. In mixing bowl, combine cheese, onion, mustard, and poppy seeds. Stir in olives and oil and blend well.

Spread mixture evenly on every other bread slice. Wrap loaf loosely in foil. Place on grill rack over medium coals 10-15 minutes, or until heated through and cheese begins to melt. Makes 18-20 slices.

KIDNEY BEAN SALAD

2 15-ounce cans of dark red kidney beans, drained and rinsed
½ cup chopped onion
¾ cup chopped celery
½ cup diced hard-cooked eggs
Salt and pepper to taste
¾ cup mayonnaise or salad dressing.

Drain beans, rinse in cold water, place into medium-sized bowl. Add onions, celery, and eggs. Add pepper and salt if desired. Fold in mayonnaise. Yields 8 servings.

A great change from traditional salads.

MOCHA CHOCOLATE CHEESECAKE

2 tablespoons graham cracker crumbs
2-3 tablespoons instant espresso powder
1 tablespoon hot water
3 8-ounce packages Neufchatel cheese, softened
¾ cup sugar
6 eggs
¼ cup mini chocolate chips
Mini chocolate chips, as needed

Coat bottom of a 9-inch springform pan with cooking spray. Dust with cracker crumbs. Combine espresso powder with water; mix well. In a large bowl, combine cheese, sugar, and espresso mixture; beat well after each addition. Stir in chocolate chips. Pour batter into prepared pan. Place pan in a large baking dish. Fill baking dish with hot water to a depth of one inch. Bake at 350 degrees, for one hour.

Remove cheesecake from water bath and let cool on wire rack. Cover and chill thoroughly before serving. If desired, sprinkle additional chocolate chips on top before serving.

Erica Davis Reigns In Berks County

LEESPORT (Berks Co.) — Erica Davis was crowned the [illegible]ks County Dairy Princess on [illegible]y 10, at the Berks County Agricultural Center. She will be assisted by Berks County Alternate Rebecca Ruppert and Li'l Miss Dairy Princess Ashley Stoltzfus.

Erica is the 17-year-old daughter of Luther and Teresa Davis of Daview Farm in Kutztown. Her younger siblings are brothers Gregory, Aaron, and sister Jillian. Erica works part-time on her families 155-acre farm. She owns 22 Holsteins of the 170 head of registered Holsteins on the farm. In June, Erica is going to be graduating from Kutztown High School. In August she will begin her fresh[illegible] year at Penn State Berks [illegible]mpus studying dairy and animal science.

Throughout the coming year, Erica will be busy traveling all over Berks County promoting the dairy industry. She will find time to be president of the Northern Berks 4-H Dairy Club, be a 4-H teen leader, and a 4-H member serving on the Berks Co. 4-H Development Board and Extension Board, and vice-president of the Berks Co. Jr. Holstein Club.

Rebecca Ruppert, Berks County Alternate Dairy Princess, is the 16-year-old daughter of David and Elaine Ruppert of Peaceful Valley Farm in Lenhartsville. Becky helps work on her families 225-acre farm where they are milking 48 Holsteins. Becky is a Junior at Hamburg High School and is planning on applying to Lock Haven University to study elementary education.

[illegible]esides spending the coming [illegible] helping Erica to promote the industry she is going to be busy with her church youth group, children's programs, and in school she will be busy with the Social Studies Club, Mock U.N. Club, the Library Club and the Volunteer Corps.

Also helping Erica and Becky in the coming year is Ashley Stoltzfus, the daughter of Donald and Joanne Stoltzfus of Morgantown. Ashley has two cows "Kween" and "Crown" that are a part of the Pennwood Farms 180-cow Holstein herd.

All three girls are going to have a full supporting cast of Dairy Promoters behind them. Berks County always has many Dairy Ambassadors who travel with the county royalty to many promotions throughout the year.

During the evenings activities, the 1996-1997 Berks County Dairy Princess and Pennsylvania State Dairy Princess Angela Werley, gave her farewell remarks and thanked her family for their support, the Berks County Dairy Promotion Committee, and all of the farmers for whom she was the spokesperson for over the past year. She also thanked her Alternate Dairy Princess Tammy Epting and her Li'l Miss Kelly Rohrbach for all that they did for her throughout the year. She ended her year as Berks County's Dairy Princess by summing up her year through showing a slide show.

The judges for the pageant were Michael Firestine, a senior vice president and senior agricultural lending officer of Lebanon Valley National Bank; Joy Crothers, a Chester County chairperson and director of the Pennsylvania Dairy Promotion Program and Dairy Council Inc.; and Charles Lockhart, a dairy farmer from Indiana County. The emcess for the evening was Rob Bennethum, a weatherman from a local television station channel 5.

ANSWER — A reader wanted a recipe for making dandelion wine. Thanks to Shirley Schwoener, Wysox, for sending a recipe.

Dandelion Wine

3 quarts dandelion flowers
9 cups sugar
⅓ cup Realemon
1 gallon water

Bring water to boiling. Add flowers and sugar. Stir. Let stand 3 days and nights. Strain out flowers; add Realemon. Boil 5 minutes. Cool. Add 2 tablespoons yeast. Put into jug. Top with a bubbler to keep out air. Let ferment for 60 days. Syphon into another jug with a bubbler for another 60 days.

ANSWER — Helen Feeg, Robesonia, wanted a recipe to make a fruit only fruit spread sweetened only with pure fruit juice and citrus pectin. Thanks to a faithful New York reader for sending the following recipe.

Cherry Citrus Jelly

3 cups sweet cherry juice
1 cup sour cherry juice
⅔ cup orange juice concentrate
2 tablespoons lemon juice

In a large stainless steel or enamel saucepan, combine all ingredients. Boil 12 minutes. Do a jelly test and when firm enough, ladle into hot, scalded half-pint jars, leaving ¼ -inch headspace, and seal. Process for 10 minutes in boiling water bath. Or, jar and refrigerate, where it will last for two months. Yield: 3 half pints.

ANSWER — Patsy Wideson, Chambersburg, wanted a recipe to make rock candy. Thanks to Mrs. Kieley, Leola, for sending a different recipe in which you can watch the crystals grow and then eat the results.

Rock Candy Crystals

Put ½ cup water into a pan. Add 1 cup sugar. Heat over a low flame until the sugar dissolves. Do not stir. Let it boil for one minute. Pour the warm syrup into a glass or plastic cup. Hang a weighted string into the syrup. Let it stand at room temperature. Large crystals will begin to form in about one week. You may need to break the crust to keep the water evaporating. Some growers gently tap the glass. Grow crystals on a stick for a rock lollipop.

ANSWER — Thanks to a New York reader for sending a a homemade spaghettie sauce mix for the person who had asked for a recommended mix.

Spaghetti Sauce Mix

Makes 12 packages of mix each yielding 2¼ cups sauce.

¾ cup dehydrated carrots*
⅓ cup dried green pepper flakes
⅓ cup dried celery flakes
¾ cup instant minced onoin or ¼ cup onion powder
¾ cup parsley flakes
¾ cup cornstarch
⅓ cup salt
¼ cup oregano, crushed well between heels of your hands
3 tablespoons minced garlic or 1½ tablespoons powdered garlic
2 tablespoons sugar

*First three ingredients can be replaced by 1½ cups dried soup greens or dehydrated vegetable flakes.

Combine first three ingredients in a blender or food processor; whirl into a powder and pour into a mixing bowl. Add remaining ingredients and mix everything evenly. Divide evenly into 12 envelopes. Seal and store together in a plastic bag at room temperature.

To make with tomato paste: Combine in a saucepan:
1 package mix
1¾ cups water or broth
6-ounce can tomato paste
1 tablespoon oil
Stir and simmer, uncovered for 10 minutes.

To make with tomato sauce: Combine in saucepan:
1 package mix
15-ounce can sauce
1 tablespoon oil
Stir and simmer uncovered for 10 minutes.

To make meat sauce: Brown in small amount of oil:
1 pound ground beef or meatballs

Drain excess oil, leaving 1 tablespoon. Blend in one package mix, 6-ounce can tomato paste, 1¾ cups water. Simmer and stir, uncovered, for 20 minutes.

Other uses for sauce:

- Use in a shaker container as a general meat and vegetable seasoning.
- Mix with wine vinegar for beef marinade.
- Combine one package mix and 1 cup dry bread crumbs for quick Italian-style crumbs.
- Enliven canned vegetable, bean or minestrone soup with dry mix to taste.

AMSWER — Bob Love wanted recipes for lime pickles and mincemeat. Thanks to Betty Light, Lebanon, for sending the recipes.

Lime Pickles

7 cups sliced cucumbers
2 cups dry lime
2 gallons water
7 cups vinegar
4 cups granulated sugar
1 tablespoon salt

Mix lime, water, and cucumber in enamel or plastic container. Let stand for 24 hours. Wash five times in cold water and cover with fresh water. Let stand 3 hours.

Drain and add 7 cups vinegar, sugar and salt. Mix thoroughly then let stand for another 24 hours.

Bring to a boil and over medium heat, cook for 35 minutes. Place in sterilized jars and seal.

Momma's Mincemeat

3 cups ground roast beef
5 apples, chopped
1 cup barrel molasses
1 cup apple cider, more if needed
1 cup granulated sugar
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1 teaspoon allspice
1 teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon pepper
1 teaspoon cloves
1 pound seedless raisins

Grind roast beef, set aside. Chop apples and set aside. In a large stainless steel or enameled stew pot, combine molasses, cider, sugar, spices, salt and pepper, and raisins. Bring to a boil, cook over medium heat until raisins are almost plump. Add apples and roast beef and continue to cook until apples are tender and raisins are fully plump.

If more liquid is needed, add more cider until desired consistency.

Mixture can be used immediately, canned by cold pack for 30 minutes or frozen in plastic tubs up to six months.

BARBECUED CATFISH

6 catfish fillets
1 teaspoon freshly ground black pepper
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon pure chili powder
1 teaspoon ground cumin
2 teaspoons dark brown sugar
2½ teaspoons paprika
Barbecue sauce

Marinating the catfish: In a small bowl, combine the salt, pepper, chili powder, cumin, brown sugar, and paprika. Spread evenly over sides of the catfish fillets, cover and refrigerate at least four hours, preferably overnight.

Grilling the catfish: Brush the catfish with olive oil, then lay on the hottest part of the grill. After about 30 seconds, turn the fillets 90 degrees. Thirty seconds later, move the fillets to a cooler part of the fire and continue to cook until done; approximately 2 more minutes on that side and 3-4 minutes on the other. Just before the fillets are done, brush with barbecue sauce. Serves 6.

SKILLET SALAD

5 tablespoons butter, divided
2½ cups thinly sliced carrots
3 cups shredded zucchini
3 tablespoons minced green onion
1 cup whipping cream
¼ cp chopped fresh parsley
1 tablespoon dried basil
2 teaspoons lemon juice
¼ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon hot red pepper sauce
⅛ teaspoon pepper

Melt 3 tablespoons butter in large skillet. Saute carrots 8 minutes. Stir in zucchini. Saute 2 minutes longer. Remove from heat; set aside. Melt 2 tablespoons butter in a large skillet. Saute onions 2 minutes. Stir in cream, parsley, and basil. Heat to boiling, reduce heat. Simmer, stirring occasionally, until very thick, 8 to 10 minutes. Stir in lemon juice, salt, pepper sauce, and pepper. Stir in sauteed vegetables. Heat to serving temperature. Serve immediately.

SAVORY LAMBURGERS

½ cup shredded Jarlsberg Lite cheese
¼ cup chopped ripe olives
2 tablespoons finely chopped green pepper
1 tablespoon finely chopped onion
1¼ pounds lean ground lamb
1 tablespoon mango Chutney or orange marmalade
4 multi-grain buns or Kaiser rolls
4 leaf lettuce leaves
4 slices tomato

In small bowl, stir together cheese, olives, green pepper, onion, and chutney. Shape lamb into eight thin patties, each about 4 inches in diameter. Spoon cheese-olive mixture evenly onto centers of 4 patties. Top each with another patty, pressing edges to seal filling inside.

Broil 4 inches from heat about 5 minutes per side, or until medium doneness. Serve on toasted buns with lettuce leaves and tomato. Pass additional chutney. Serves 4.

Wagon Making Demonstration

LANDIS VALLEY (Lancaster Co.) — Sunday, May 25 from 12:30 p.m. to 4:30 p.m. at Lancaster's Landis Valley Museum, Ron Reber will demonstrate the craft of wagon making using a one-fifth scale model. Admission charged. 2.5 miles north of Lancaster on Rt. 272/Oregon Pike. (717) 569-0401.

Ida's Notebook

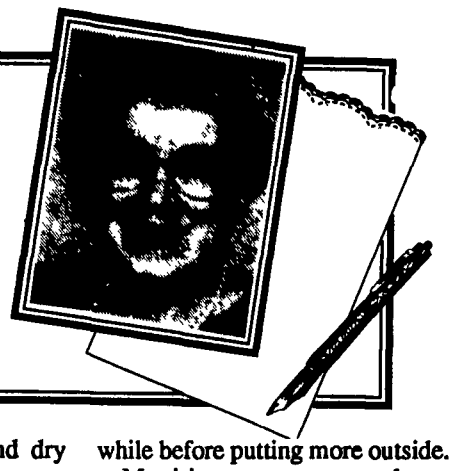
Ida Risser



We have had a cool and dry spring in our area. Things grow rather slowly in cool weather, but my husband still brings me a bunch of asparagus each morning. It seems that I got overly anxious and put some house plants in the corner of the garden where they froze. Maybe I had better wait a while before putting more outside.

My iris wree very weedy as they were not taken care of last summer. So, we've had piles and piles of weeds and I'm afraid that there will not be many blossoms even though I have hundreds of plants. The garden cress is bearing a lot of lacy, fine leaves. The neighbors are helping me to use it as they make a lot of salads.

Because some fruit trees died, Allen bought another cherry and another pear. He tells me that the quince is full of blossoms. He even ordered two small papaw trees that will take years to bear. But, that is okay as I have big trees that my father helped me to plant 25 years ago. They do drop their fruit and if I don't watch carefully an animal will eat them overnight.

This spring we planted a row of small dogwoods on our hillside. Nearby are newly purchased black walnut trees which are doing fine. The other day we tried to transplant some hollyhocks. They had grown together as I planted them too clsoe to each other. Now they are wilting. Not everything works out as we wish.

Quilt Show Features Luncheon, Flowers

MECHANICSBURG (Cumberland Co.) — Mechanicsburg Museum Association (MMA) invites area quilt enthusiasts to its annual Quilt Show at the Freight Station Museum, 3 West Allen Street, Mechanicsburg. The exhibit will run two consecutive weekends: June 19 through June 21 and June 26 through June 28. Hours are between 10 a.m. and 4 p.m. except June 19, when it is open until 7 p.m. Admission is $3.

Keepsake Quilting, a quilter's "wishbook" and a New Hampshire store, will be furnishing 36 quilts for the exhibit. Measuring 30" x 30", all the quilts are first and second place winners in the international "Keepsake Quilting Challenge." MMA is one of only two Pennsylvania organizations to exhibit the quilts.

For the third year, Penn-Cumberland Garden Club will be exhibiting pressed flowers, this year's theme being "Dinner Plates."

In conjunction with the Quilt Show, museum volunteers will be serving a "Quilt Patch Luncheon" at the Frankeberger Tavern, 217 East Main Street, on June 20, 21, 27, and 28. Advanced registration is required. Tickets are $8.50 and include the price of admission to the Quilt Show. Call (717) 697-6088 for more information.

MMA will also be raffling the quilt, "Hunter's Star." Handquilted by members Sue Starr and Sue McClafferty, it is a country "homespun" quilt fashioned in red, white, and blue. Tickets are $1. The drawing will be June 28.

Gentle Giant Named Woody

ED BANNING
Horse Owner

BRIDGEVILLE, Del.

Woodland Linn (Woody) is a registered Clydesdale, who was foaled on June 20, 1987 to his master, Parke Brown of Tangier, Indiana. Woody had white socks to his knees a bald face (white blaze from the top of his forehead to the tip of his nose), his body color was dark bay during the height of the summer, yet black the rest of the year.

At two years of age he was sold to Phil Farrell, then to Farrellawn Farms of St. Louis, Mo. and John Weber of Ocala, Florida.

In 1990 Tony and Cindy Morisco bought him for their farm in Copper Hill, Va. The Morisco's spent a lot of time training and showing Woody in Stallion Halter Classes throughout Virginia, taking Grand Champion over All Breeds several times.

When Woody was six, Daryl and Lorraine Cobbs, of Huntington, Indiana bought this beautiful stallion. After gelding Woody, they broke him to pull in harness, on the wheel team of an eight-horse hitch and was shown at the Washington National, the Ohio and Indiana State Fairs, The Clydesdale National in Wisconsin and the Keystone Eastern Regional Clydesdale Show in Harrisburg, where he won many ribbons.

Woody was seven years old 18½ hands tall and weighing in at more than 2,000 pounds, when we purchased him on March 11, 1994. Meeting Mr. and Mrs. Cobbs in Wheeling, W.Va., we loaded him in our trailer and brought him to our farm. His life of leisure in the show ring came to an end. Instead of working for ribbons, he would be working commercially for money.

It didn't take long to find out. Woody had been given much love and attention in his formative years, that being groomed was his favorite pastime he was particularly fond of women and was not keen about pulling much weight. Yes, he was a spoiled people-horse.

We used him to do anniversaries, weddings, funerals, hay rides, private parties, picnics, fundraisers, business promotions, driving clinics, parades, trolley rides, tours, nursing homes, school programs, and work in the fields for the next three years, mostly in a two-horse hitch and rarely over four hours a week. There was one exception, where we drove him in a wagon train for 105 miles, from Cheriton, Va. to Salisbury, Md., hoping to get the kinks out of him. This trip took five days and was fun for us but hard work and discipline for Woody.

Everywhere we went, Woody was the center of attention. Spectators were in awe at his size, markings and disposition. One day at a picnic in the Pocomoke, Md. State Forrest, a lady walked up to him and began talking. As she spoke she would shake her head all around and the next thing we knew, Woody began to shake his head all around. Between each trolley ride, Woody and this lady would communicate for five or 10 minutes. The crowd enjoyed this exhibition as well as they did the rides that day.

On occasion, this gentle giant, would let us know something was wrong. He would lunge and throw his head or legs in protest. Sometimes we could adjust his harness or bridle and he would straighten up and other times, we could not put our finger on the problem. He was not mean; it was his way of telling us something was not right.

Last summer (June 17, 1996) we were hired by the Caroline Nursing Home of Denton, Md. to give their patients rides on our handicapped-accessible, horse-drawn trolley. When we arrived and were unloading the horses and trolley, the activities director, Mary Lou Schoonover, asked us to bring the horses on the nursing home grounds, to their main entrance. The patients were waiting anxiously in wheelchairs and rolling beds, some using walkers and canes to see the "gentle giants," Woody, April and April's foal, Princess.

The memories that were shared with us of how they used to drive and work horses on the farm, brought much joy. About an hour went by when Mrs. Schoonover asked if Woody could be brought into the nursing home lobby so more of their guests could get a closer look. I told her I wasn't sure how he would respond, but we would try.

Woody walked through the lobby door, cautiously looking around as he entered. Twenty or so patients were in a circle around him as he turned completely around, checking them out. One lady was so excited, she wanted to cling to him, holding onto his legs. A nurse had to keep her back as Woody cautiously walked around.

We were then asked if we would take Woody down the hallway throughout the home, that others might come to their bedroom doors to see him. Walking from door to door, with his ears almost touching the ceiling, Woody lowered his head and nostrils to look and smell each guest as they reached out to pet him. There was an immediate bonding between man and beast! His eyes brightened with each patient he met.

As we came to a door that was empty, Mrs. Schoonover asked, "Would you please just take Woody inside this patient's room . . . she can't get out of bed and would love to pet him?" How could we refuse?

Woody lowered his head, as we led him through the seven-foot tall, narrow door (narrow for his size), and went straight to the bedside. He loved these people as much as they loved him. Again he smelled them, as his eyes brightened, and placed his nose in their hand. At his touch, tears trickled from room to room and throughout the hallway.

There was no way to turn him around in the patient's room, but that was no problem. On command Woody would cautiously back into the hallway and then enter and back out, from room to room, as directed.

It was time to exit the main building, harness the horses and give rides on the trolley. One young lady was in a wheelchair, an I.V. running to her arm and seemed so intent on petting Woody. I was told she was 24 years old and had been ina horse-riding accident when she was 14. If you could only have seen the gleam in her eyes as she struggled to raise her hand to pet him! Her face glowed as if she were an angel.

We made several trips around the premises with the trolley until all had ridden who were able to ride, then unharnessed the horses, loaded up the trailer, bid farewell and headed for home.

As I was driving the dually, I thought about the two nurses that said "We have never seen some of our patients respond as much as they did with Woody." Reflecting on the past three hours, with the tears, the gleam in their eyes, the memories shared and the sounds of joy, I felt tears trickling down my cheeks . . . it was I who received the blessing that day and still do when these memories come to mind. I am sure I will carry the memory of those three hours with me into eternity!

I had to down-size my herd in February 1997. Woody was sold to Deborah and Kurtis Burkholder of Reinholds, where he has a good home and I am sure, he will bond to the many special people he will meet in his future.

During the three years we were privileged to share with Woody, he made thousands of special friends, many special memories and will be missed by all of us.

Each patient enjoyed the "physical therapy."

Woody, April, and Princess pulling the trolley.

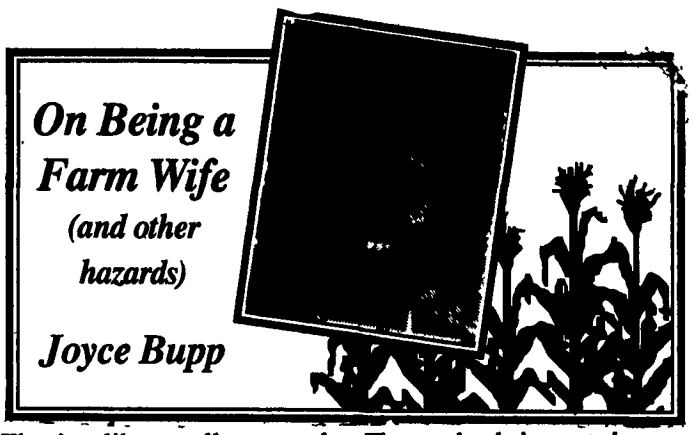
"Wow! What a big horse!



On Being a Farm Wife (and other hazards)

Joyce Bupp

They're like totally normal kids.

They're more comfortable in a secure, dependable routine, but will take any opportunity to sneak off to an adventure. They play with exuberance, sometimes running circles with one another.

They function best in a stable group, but like to exert their occasional independence. They occasionally turn their noses up at their normal food and make diligent efforts to sneak what they shouldn't have. Sometimes they overdo it and get tummyaches.

What another has, they want. They make their wants known — loudly — if not met. And promptly.

And, despite our most determined preventive efforts, sometimes they get hurt.

These "kids" are of the bovine ilk, our four-legged calf youngsters garbed in the continuing popular black-and-white spotted motif.

I glanced out the milk house door a few mornings ago to be greeted with the scene of a pair of them, frolicing in the morning sunshine and galloping across the lush grass of the lawn. T'wasn't hard to guess — from their size and the fact there were two escapees — that they had managed to knock loose a door to one of the calf condors. Though originally built to house a calf each, these four larger outside pens more often have two calves being raised together. Social beings cattle are, and like two-legged kids, thrive best with companions.

While I made no effort to corral the pair by myself (each outweighed me), I did keep an eye on where they were going. Though we live on a "side" country road and most of our occasional traffic passes at sensible speeds, now and then one whips through as though running a NASCAR qualifying heat. Plus, the manure pit is not far away and we have had a few escapees over the years breach its surrounding fence and test its crusted top — which usually looks like a stable surface. Fortunately, those that have tried to dance across its deceptive crust have always found their swimming skills. Real quick.

But they look an absolute mess when they make it back to shore.

Fortunaltey, within minutes, The Farmer passed through and rounded up the escpaees.

Good thing, too, because we were already nursing two calf "disasters," the aftermath of one of our more bizarre bovine accidents in memory. To their credit, the accident wasn't their fault.

As they sometimes do, one of our girls in the milking herd broke her tie chain and went for a stroll. Suzanne came to a halt in a usual spot for escaped cattle, the alleyway of the weaned heifer pens, where a stash of grain and hay is generally available for snitching. Escapees frequently get stuck in this dead end and are unable to figure out how to back themselves out, since the alleyway is too narrow for a full-grown cow to execute an about-face.

The Farmer found Suzanne waiting there and began backing her out. She did manage to turn around at a corner and was about to exit the open door when one of those violent gusts of wind so common this spring slammed the metal storm door in her face. It so startled Suzanne that she literally leaped into the air and cleared a near-four-feet high headboard over the feed trough, into a pen of weaned calves. The calves fled, enmass, against the heavy gate at the far end of the pen. Down went the gate and calves under and over it. When the dust cleared, two remained down.

Now they recuperate in side-by-side pens, sporting matching casts. Which haven't really slowed them too much. For a couple of feedings, I went into each pen to help the patients get up to eat. That ended the morning one of them bolted out the open door of its pen and took off at a trot — on three legs. Nearly knocking me down in the process.

And — appropriately — took refuge, standing in a corner out of my reach. Not wanting to risk another broken leg, I left her there, until more help was available.

It seemed appropriate, anyway. What misbehaving kids hasnt' benefitted from a little "time out" standing in the corner?

Win one of these prizes by entering the Lancaster Farming Cow Mania Drawing. Only one more week left to enter. Prizes are shown by Lou Ann Good, staff writer.

Last Chance To Enter Cow Mania Contest

This is the last week to enter Lancaster Farming's annual Cow Mania Drawing.

Select your favorite recipe, which must include a substantial amount of at least one dairy product. Dairy ingredients include milk, cream, sour cream, whipped cream, butter, yogurt, buttermilk, dry milk, ice cream, and any hard and soft cheeses. Please check your recipe carefully. Margarine and on-dairy substitutes such as whipped topping do not qualify as dairy products.

The recipe may be for an appetizer, dip, soup, bread, main dish, vegetable, dessert, beverage, snack or salad.

Clearly print or type your recipe. Be sure to give accurate measurements, temperatures, times, and sizes of baking dishes to use. We reserve the right to disqualify entries if these guidelines are not followed.

The differenece between this contest and the weekly recipes is that we ask you to include a few paragraphs about yourself and your family. Although it is not required, please include a photography of you with your family, which we will publish with your recipe. Photos will be returned if you write your name and address on the back of the photo.

Winners will be selected by a drawing. Although not every person can win a prize, readers enjoy the recipes and reading tidbits of information about the contributor.

Only one entry per family allowed. Be sure to include your name, full address, and phone number on the recipe. If you win and your full address is not included with the recipe, we cannot mail you the prize.

Send your recipe, photo, and accompanying information to Lou Ann Good, Lancaster Farming Cow Mania Drawing, P.O. Box 609, 1 E. Main St., Ephrata, PA 17522.

Send entries immediately. Deadline for the receipt of entries is June 2.

Diary Reveals Life For Turn-Of-The-Century Farm Wife

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

LANDISVILLE (Lancaster Co.) — Watching Eileen Bender Johns working in the garden or in the kitchen of the Amos Herr Homestead, Landisville, transports you back in time.

Dressed in the traditional garb of a woman of the early 1900s, Eileen impersonates Emma Rohrer Herr, born in 1867. Eileen tediously researched the diaries of Emma to give an honest portrayal of Emma's life.

Eileen, who is also acting curator for the Herr Homestead, will share the story of Emma's life as a farm wife on May 27 at 7:30 p.m. at the Amos Herr House. There is no admission charge.

The Amos Herr Homestead is a Pennsylvania German farm listed on the National Register of Historic Places.

The Herr House is open to tour weekends (see details at the end of this article). During the tour, guides dress in 1890 garb and talk about the house as if they were living in it during that period.

Eileen said that Herr was well known in the area as a humanitarian, athlete, world traveler, a public servant, and a devoted member of his church.

The date of the oldest part of the house is unknown, but a large addition was constructed in 1852. In 1913, the Herrs oversaw major renovations to the house.

Only 11 people lived in the house since it was erected. The first Herr family settled in the house in 1844. Amos Herr was the last resident. Amos had been an only child and had no children. When he died in 1987, he donated the 67-acre farm to the township to be made as a park for children.

Herr was quoted as saying, "Parks are places that provide recreation of many kinds where people can relax and forget the cares and burdens of the day and thus become refreshed and strengthened for the problems of tomorrow."

After the acquisition, the township was uncertain what to do with the house. A public auction was held in which many of the furnishings were sold.

In 1990, the Amos Herr Foundation was formed by those interested in saving the house. Extensive repairs were made to maintain the beauty of the farmhouse both inside and outside. Wallpaper and paint authentic of the period were used.

Some original pieces of furniture were donated back to the Foundation when the buyers heard that the place was to be restored for public viewing. Other pieces representative of that era have been purchased or donated by interested persons. In fact, one room is devoted to a historical library with many archival displays. One is a hair remembrance book compiled by a 20-year-old woman in 1840. A segment of hair from family and friends is braided and the name of the person is recorded in the book.

In the large kitchen, a wood stove similar to what Emma used is in place. The farm kitchen has all the details to make it appear as if Emma was in the middle of baking with baking ingredients and utensils set on the table.

The spacious dining room and parlor is separated by pocket doors. Area rugs in each room disguise the fact that the wooden floors only cover the borders of the rooms and not the whole floor.

"This is typical of the frugal German way of making things look fine on the outside," Eileen said.

One of the bedrooms has a display of textiles and clothing from the era. A wedding trousseau spills from a trunk. The wedding gown and the trousseau dresses reflect the slim waists of the era when corsets were used to tightly constrain. Shoes, too, appear to be more narrow than most women can wear today. That may be indicative of women wearing tight shoes to make their feet appear smaller.

A furnished bedroom, sewing room, nursery, and a "cast-off" room are also located upstairs.

"No doubt hired help slept in this room," Eileen said of the room which still has the original unpainted plastered walls and unfinished floor boards.

Eileen's dedication and enthusiasm often takes priority in her life over her family and J & J drapery business. Amos Herr was her former history teacher, and her favorite. When the Foundation was established, Eileen volunteered even before she saw the inside of the house. She made the swags and jabots for the numerous windows and continues to oversee many of the constantly developing activities for the house.

Eileen was the first person to decipher the sloppily written diaries. The diaries record prolific details about the weather, what the Herr family ate, and what Emma did during the day. Little personal feelings were revealed.

The Tuesday, May 27 lecture is free. In addition, the Keeping Room gift shop located in the cellar area will be open to purchase handcrafted items and a replica of the Amos Herr House which is part of the Cat's Meow series.

The house is also open for tour from 1 p.m.-4 p.m. Saturday and Sunday, April 1-Oct. 31. Admission is $4 for adults. Seniors, students, and groups are $3 per person, and children under 12 are admitted free. Group and private tours are also available by calling (717) 898-8975.

Cook's Question

ANSWER — Joanne Lomas, Morgantown, wrote that when she was a little girl growing up in Philadelphia, her parents used to get a wonderful bread from a Lithuanian Bakery. She wanted a recipe for the bread. Thanks to Helenrose Kalwasinski, Portage, who sent three Lithuanian bread recipes.

Buckwheat Bread
(Dzukulka Grikive Boba)

1 pound 4 ounces buckwheat flour
3 eggs
1 quart milk (or half water and half milk)
1 cup melted butter

Combine all ingredients. Mix thoroughly. Pour into large greased baking pan. Bake at 350 degrees about 1½ hours.

Rye Bread
(Rugine Duona Bread)

2 pounds dark rye flour
¼ cup apple vinegar
1 teaspoon salt
1 to 3 teaspoons caraway seed
¾ cake yeast
1 cup lukewarm water
½ cup sugar
All-purpose flour

Should be mixed in a wooden pail or bucket (oak if possible). Season a new pail by rubbing salt, finely cut onions and caraway seeds.

If pail is rarely used for mixing dough, season it freshly. When freshly seasoned pail is used, decrease amount of salt and caraway seeds for dough.

Dilute vinegar with equal amounts of boiling water. Stir into rye flour. Add enough boiling water to make a thin paste.

Stir into rye mixture while slightly warm. Cover with a cloth.

Let stand overnight in a warm even temperature. In the morning, add ¼ cake yeast, which has been dissolved in a little lukewarm water. Stir in enough all-purpose flour to make a stiff dough, stir vigorously. Let rise one hour.

Divide dough in half and place in large bread pans, which have been greased and sprinkled with cracker meal or cornmeal. Let rise 15 to 30 minutes. Bake in very hot oven until top is browned. Reduce temperature to 350 degrees. Continue baking about 2 hours until bread sounds hollow when tapped with fingers.

Rye Bread
(Elenuke's Rugine Duona)

1 cup boiling water
3 cups cubed Lithuanian rye bread
3 tablespoons sugar
1 teaspoon salt
2 cups warm water
3 packages dry yeast dissolved in
1 cup warm water
2 tablespoons caraway seeds
10½ cups sil-purpose flour
1 egg

Slice and cube rye bread. Do not remove crust. Add sugar and salt. Pour on boiling water and let stand covered for 15 minutes.

Beat with electric or rotary beater. Add 2 cups warm water and 3 cups flour. Mix with wooden spoon. Add the dissolved yeast (follow directions on yeast package).

With greased hands, knead dough thoroughly on lightly floured board.

Place in bowl, cover and let stand in warm place until doubled. Place in greased loaf pans. Let stand in pans until raised. Beat whole egg and brush tops of loaves. Preheat oven to 375 degrees. Bake 45 to 55 minutes. Remove from pans immediately. Cool on wire rack. Makes two loaves bread.

Juniata County Crowns Dairy Princess

MIFFLINTOWN (Juniata Co.) — Judy Geissinger, RR2, Mifflintown, was crowned the 1997-98 Juniata County Dairy Princess at a pageant Sunday afternoon, May 4, at the Walker Grange Hall.

Geissinger is the 17-year-old daughter of D. Ray and Linda Geissinger, Mifflintown, and is a junior at Belleville Mennonite School. She is a member of the 4-H Dairy Club and Teen Council and has earned a number of distinctions in her various 4-H involvements.

Casey Mummah of Mifflintown was named the alternate dairy princess. She is the 16-year-old daughter of Daniel and Norma Mummah and is a junior at Juniata High School. She is currently president of the 4-H Dairy Club.

Judy Geissinger is the new Juniata County Dairy Princess.

Geissinger presented a speech entitled "The Game of the Century — between Reel Dairy Products and Imitation Dairy Products" and a skit entitled "Drink My Milk Please." Mummah's skit was entitled "Morning Milking" and her speech was about "Osteoporosis." Melissa Hostler, 1994 Juniata County Dairy Princess was on hand to present the sash and crown to the new princess.

Master of Ceremonies, Steve Wilson, Port Royal, also introduced Dairy Maids Jessica Bailor, daughter of Rob and Kathie Bailor, Honey Grove; Sara Hoover, daughter of Thomas and Brenda Hoover, Port Royal; Tara Kocher and Jennifer Toms, daughters of Don and Nancy Toms, Mifflintown; Beth Pontius, daughter of Jeff and Donna Pontius, Port Royal; and Diana Stouffer, daughter of Charles and Martha Stouffer, Port Royal.

Junior Misses are Jada Faulkner, daughter of Jim and Pat Faulkner, Port Royal; Ashley Harshbarger, daughter of Sheldon and Ann Harshbarger, Mifflintown; and Emily Stouffer, daughter of Charles and Martha Stouffer, Port Royal. Kallye Faulkner, daughter of Jim and Pat Faulkner, Port Royal, was named Lil' Miss.

Dairy Ambassadors are Justin Shearer, son of John and Karen Shearer, Port Royal; Kelby and Zach Swartz, sons of James and Betty Jean Swartz, Port Royal; and David Wilson, son of Steve and Barb Wilson, Port Royal.

The event, which included a covered-dish dinner before the pageant, and a sundae bar following the ceremony, was sponsored by the Juniata County Dairy Promotion Committee.

Avoid Overmulching

A dry spring means more 'mulch' is needed in landscapes and gardens. Mulches are known for their ability to control unwanted annual weed growth, and to slow the loss of valuable soil moisture.

Any material that is light-textured and does not mat or pack can be an effective mulch. Many plant byproducts can serve as a mulch as long as they have the desired aesthetic qualities determined by the user.

A good mulch needs to breathe, and allow oxygen to enter the soil while at the same time allowing carbon dioxide from roots and soil life to escape back into the air. A 2- to 3-inch layer of organic mulch like shredded hardwood applied over the entire root zone of plants will meet all the above criteria.

Mulch material can injure the trunks and stems of trees, shrubs, and vegetable plants. Even organic mulches should be kept several inches away from the stems of woody plants to prevent bark decay. Once the bark and inner sapwood have been exposed to decay, the plant loses its ability to sustain the root system with plant foods and manufactured in the leaves. As a result, the plant declines over several years.

Many highly visible landscape plantings in public areas (ex. hospitals, schools, community parks, street tree plantings, and industrial parks) maintained by commercial firms consistently pile excessive layers of mulch against the trucks of plants. As a result, the general public is fooled by thinking such plantings are an accepted practice for the proper care of plants. It is not. Overmulching is never recommended.

Ogranic mulches ultimately bread down by bacteria and fungi in the soil. Ogranic mulches include bark (should be well composed), shredded hardwood, pine, redwood nuggets and cedar. Sawdust (should be well composted), woodchips, peat chips, pine needles, straw, salt hay, shredded and leaves and grass clippings, and newspaper are other organic mulches.

When using newspapers and grocery store tabloids in a vegetable or flower garden, use four or five layers of paper laid around plants and anchored down with a shovelful of soil or rocks/bricks/stones on the corner. The paper will decompose throughout the season. Additional layers may need to be added to prevent weeds from emerging.

Avoid walking on the paper, especially after a rain or soaking. Wet-to-dry paper becomes brittle and tears easily. Paper remains can be rototilled in the garden after the end of the growing season.

Shredded newspaper can also be used. Apply the shredded paper in three to four inch depths.

Newsprint with colored pictures can be used with little problems. Avoid glossy colored paper inserts, colored Sunday comics, or sections with heavy colored printing. Chemicals and heavy metals such as lead and cadmium used in the colored printing process can leach into the soil and may cause toxic problems with plants or their uptake.

When using mulches, avoid overmulching with dense mulches like sawdust or unshredded leaves. Use no more than 2 inches thick: medium density mulches like shredded bark can be 2-4 inches thick; while loose mulches like straw can be used to 6 inches thick.

Supplemental nitrogen should be applied with mulches that have an especially high carbon to nitrogen rations (sawdust, wood chips, corn cobs, etc.). Microorganisms that decompose these materials absorb nitrogen from the soil during the decomposition process. This can create a nitrogen deficiency in mulched plants. Apply about 2 pounds of nitrogen (20 pounds of a 10-6-4 fertilizer) per 1000 square feet at time the mulch is applied. If the growth of the mulched plant is reduced, or if the leaves appear to become a light green, reapply the nitrogen as needed.

There have been reports that cocoa bean hulls, mushroom compost, and licorice root mulches have injuired Ericaceous plants such as Rhododendron, Pieris, Azalea, and Kalmia. This may be from the chemicals that leach from them or because nitrogen is removed from the soil as they decompose.

Any questions regarding the above article can be addressed to Tom Becker, Penn State Cooperative Extension at (717) 840-7408.

Radon Myths And Realities

SPRINGFIELD (Delaware Co.) — Radon is a source of radiation health risk that potentially affects everyone. As a part of natural background radiation, it contributes an average of 55% of the total radiation dose received by people in the United States every year. Radon exposure is easy to test for and to prevent. To find out about radon, what radon is, its health effects, how you can get test for it, and what you can do about it, plan to attend "Radon in the Home: Myths and Realities," an educational program presented by Penn State Cooperative Extension. The program will be held on Thursday, May 29 from 7:30 to 9:00 p.m. at Delaware County Extension Office, Environmental Center, Smedley Park, 20 Paper Mill Road, Springfield. To register, call (215) 690-2655, by May 27.

You Ask, You Answer

ANSWER — This answers the following two questions: Betty Jakum, Littlestown, wanted the Pennsylvania German folk healing book called "The Long Lost Friend," by J. Hohman and Polly Weiss, Woxall, wanted to know where to find the "See Sally Run," and "See Jack Run," books. Thanks to a reader who wrote that Calhouns Books specializes in old rare out-of-print books. Call or write to ask for the book you want to Calhouns Books, Rts 5 & 20, Geneva, NY 14456; (315) 789-8599.

ANSWER — F. Hoffman, Shermansdale, wanted to know where fo find old-fashioned white sweet potato or the plants (no yams). E. M. Martin of Shippensburg has plants to sell and will ship UPS. Write to them at 133 Smithdale Rd, Shippensburg, PA 17257.

ANSWER — William Freed, Philadelphia, wanted to know who sells decals of horses, cows, and chickens to put on trailers, trucks, and milk cans. Paste on decals should be from 6-15-inches and be for metal or wood. Thanks to Tom Armstrong of Perkasie for writing that a comprehensive catalog of decals, patches, signs, etc. of domestic animals is available at the following two places: Breeders Sign Service, P.O. Box 1502, Topeka, KS 66601 and Howard Johnstone, Rt. 1, Maple Hill, KS or call (913) 256-6311.

ANSWER — Here's a unique answer in response to stopping a hen from breaking the eggs in a nest. Richard Knouse, Liverpool, writes that his uncle used to get small balloons like those used for balloon animals) and blow up and tie off an egg-sized piece (make sure it's blown up very tight) and place them in the nest (white is best as fowls see colors). After several "eggs" blow up, most birds will stop pecking eggs at least for a while. The noise may be upsetting to the flock and affect production.

Although Sarah Zook of Lititz wrote the putting Free choice oyster shells with the chickens help her flock, several people wrote that the only solution is "to grab the chicken that breaks the eggs, cut off her head and roast her for supper" in the words of William Dennies of Hamburg, NY.

DAYCO SUPER II V-BELTS

Now there's a belt that beats the toughest drive problems.

Many heavy-duty industrial machines demand more than conventional wrapped v-belts can stand Their punishing drives make ordinary belts crack under pressure The result unnecessary and expensive downtime

Now there s a solution to the consistent costly problem of replac ing or retensioning belts It s the revolutionary new Super II™ v belt from Dayco The Super II belt was designed specifically for the most brutal applications And its per formance blows the cover off con ventional wrapped belts

In heavy torque high horse power and extreme shock load comparisons it s not even a contest The Super II v-belt is stronger more flexible and lasts far longer

Innovative design & construction provide extra strength and stamina

The secret to the Super II v belt s durability is its unique construction The central position of the polyester cords in the neoprene rubber core provides greater strength balance and longer life Multiple fabric plies top and bottom enhance flex ibility And Dayco s unique raw edged construction gives it a better grip for controlled slippage

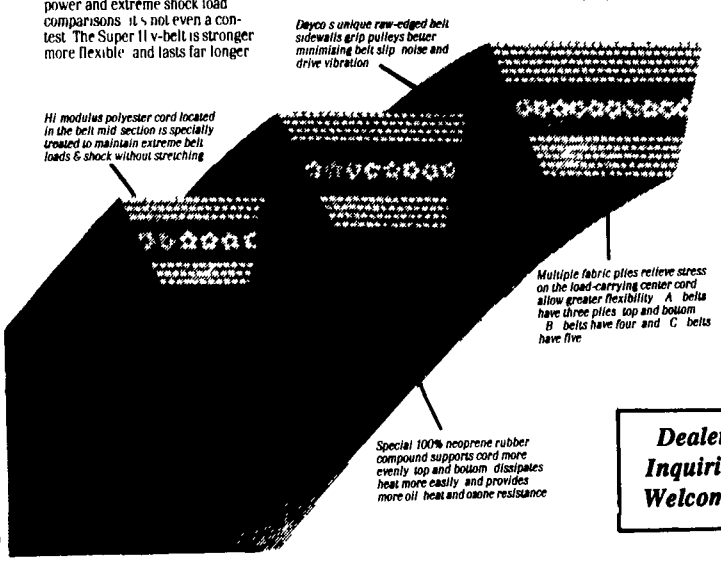
Test the Super II v-belt on your toughest drive

The Super II v-belt was field tested for two years on the most severe applications rock quarry shaker screens lumber mill tree debarkers and pipe descalers In every case it outperformed con ventional wrapped belts by a wide margin But the only test that really counts is the one you do on your own equipment

Try the Super II belt on your toughest drive problem You ll be so amazed by its incredible endurance that you ll want to put it on all your drives In fact we re so sure you ll be pleased with the performance of the Super II v-belt that in the unlikely event you re not satisfied we ll refund the original purchase price or replace it with a conventional wrapped v-belt

The Super II v-belt from Dayco The super problem solver



Dayco s unique raw-edged belt sidewalls grip pulleys better minimizing belt slip noise and drive vibration
Hi modulus polyester cord located in the belt mid section is specially treated to maintain extreme belt loads & shock without stretching Multiple fabric plies relieve stress on the load-carrying center cord allow greater flexibility A belts have three plies top and bottom B belts have four and C belts have five
Special 100% neoprene rubber compound supports cord more evenly top and bottom dissipates heat more easily and provides more oil heat and ozone resistance

HAPENINGS

4-H Volunteers Recognized

For almost 40 years, the cooperative extension and area financial institutions have sponsored a special event to honor the volunteers who carry out the 4-H youth programs in Susquehanna County.

The annual 4-H Volunteer Leader Recognition Banquet held recently in Montrose was catered by former 4-H'er Craig Sprout. Social hour punch was provided by the Susquehanna County Dairy Princess Committee. Julie Stalter and Andrea Garner, princess and alternate princess, greeted guests and served punch. Dinner music was provided by a member of the East Bridgewater 4-H Club, Kirsten Small.

Mat Castrogiovanni, president of the Susquehanna County extension board, opened the program with introductions of special guests including representatives from local financial institutions and county government. Members of the 4-H/Youth Advisory Committee were also introduced. The program then featured tributes given by eight 4-H members.

Ben Hardic told how Virginia Wright has been there to teach him how to prepare his beef project animals for the fair, and how she has often let him use her equipment and supplies. Megan Wescott shared her admiration of Walter and Marilyn Race, a husband-wife team who have been volunteers for 15 years. Cody Peranich thanked Becky Shultz for offering many learning experiences and fun activities through the Cowobys and Cubbers Horse and Pony 4-H Club. Andrea Garner gave a heartfelt tribute to Dave Castrogiovanni who has helped her to become one of the best dairy judging 4-H members in Pennsylvania.

Michael Hubbard recognized Byron Hunsinger for his friendship and guidance to the members of the DES Dairy Club. Kevin Harvatine expressed his appreciation, on behalf of the many members who have benefited from Joan Stalter's 20 years as a club leader. The only leader in 1997 to be celebrating 25 years, Irene Myers, was congratulated and thanked by one of her outstanding members, Danica Newman. The tributes were completed by member Angel Beardslee, and her father, Phil Beardslee, who shared a few of the treasured times they have known while working with Lorraine Lauer who has been a volunteer 4-H leader for 28 years.

Volunteer leaders who have served for one, five, 10, 15, 20, and 25 years were awarded certificates and pins for their milestone accomplishments. The first year awards were presented by Lorraine Corwin and Alice Carr of the Grange National Bank to Stephen Demarest, Jan Grace and Pat Wesctott. Fifth-year awards were presented by Dona Benscoter, of Grange National, and Ron Smith of the Community Bank and Trust, to Bill Goff, Marie Hardic, Susan Harvatine, Byron Hunsinger, Jennie Lester, Douglas Puzo, Stephen Wilcox, and Nelson Stone.

The 10 and 15 years awards were presented by Nancy Oakley and Norm Button of Peoples National Bank. Becky Shultz received a 10-year certificate and pine, and Marilyn Race, Walter Race, and Janice Spering received 15-year honors. Charlotte Zebley and Donna Brown of Northeastern Farm Credit presented a special 25-year certificate and pin to Irene Myers, leader of the South Montrose Busy Bees 4-H Club.

Roselyn Hibbard, Susquehanna County 4-H coordinator, acknowledged several leaders who have served for even longer than 25 years, but were not marking milestone years. Pat Humphrey, of the CoreStates Bank, assisted in distributing floral arrangements which had been donated by local florists and garden centers to some of the long term volunteers.

Paws And Tails Dog Obedience Club

A meeting was held on May 12 at Mrs. Vitale's home. The members started out with heeling, sititng, and about-turns, then did sit-stays and down-stays and other stay exercises.

The second-year and up members did stand-stays.

Jackson Pin Thimblers Club

The first meeting of the club was held in March at the North Jackson United Methodist Church. Officers were elected as follows: president, Jenni Marcho; vice president, Peggy Sanders; secretary/treasurer/news reporter, Shannon Wallace; game and song leader, Kaela Page.

The new president, Jenni Marcho, conducted the rest of the meeting. The members discussed the end of last year's activities and took suggestions for this year.

At the next meeting, on April 10, Bethany Page was elected game and song leader. On April 24 at 7 p.m. at the North Jackson United Methodist Church, president Jenni Marcho called another meeting of the club to order. New members Elizabeth Williams and Heather Conroy were welcomed. Members decided on candy bars for their fundraiser.

IN-HOUSE COMPOSTING IN HIGH-RISE LAYER HOUSES

C. W. Pitts
Professor Of Entomology

Fly control in high-rise houses continues to be a problem for producers. New techniques continue to be evaluated that we hope will give producers the highest level of fly control.

The latest tool to be evaluated for fly control is in-house composting using a turner attached to the front of a skid loader. The turner consists of a rotating drum with teeth on it that spins and throws the manure to one side. This process aerates the stacks of manure to ensure proper composting.

This procedure works in several ways to be attractive to poultry producers. The process helps dry the manure, it mechanically kills fly maggots as it spins and throws the manure, the composting process elevates the temperature and kills maggots, and the high levels of ammonia also helps kill maggots.

Learning how to operate this piece of equipment is still being studied. Questions that need to be answered are:

- How often do we need to run the compost mixer?
- What configuration works best for the windrows of manure?
- How do we minimize ammonia production and release?
- How much wear and tear does the compost mixer place on the skid loader?
- How often does the composted manure have to be removed from the poultry house?

The procedure we are using is to run the composter twice a week. This schedule appears to be effective in killing maggots. Our early results show that the composter definitely reduces the number of maggots in the composted as compared to the uncomposted manure. Additionally, the temperature in the composting manure stacks rises to above 140 degrees Fahrenheit, which is high enough to kill maggots.

Also, ammonia levels are being measured in the composted area and are being compared to non-composted areas. The results from these measurements show that ammonia levels are higher in composted areas when compared to the noncomposted manure. It indicates that caution must be taken when working in the composting area as the ammonia levels are too high for workers without approved respirators. Further, these levels may also be detrimental to the birds in the cages above.

BUSINESS ◆ NEWS

Snider's Elevator Inc. Horse Seminar director Susan Snider and Source Inc. representative Eric Hudspeth enjoy the percheron team owned by Alvie May and Mary Long of St. Thomas. Seminar participants enjoyed a hay ride around the grounds of the Lemasters Community Center.

Snider's Elevator Hosts Annual Horse Seminar

LEMASTERS (Franklin Co.) — Recently, Snider's Elevator Inc., a feed and grain mill, hosted its sixth annual Horse Seminar. The seminar was held at the Lemasters Community Center.

About 190 people attended the seminar, which included speakers, doorprizes, and a Percheron stallion exhibition. The seminar also included a question and answer session.

Snider's Elevator Inc., a manufacturer of horse, dairy, and livestock feeds, serves Franklin County and surrounding areas. A family owned and operated business since 1929, Snider's have put together a unique horse seminar series over the last six years. This year's feature speaker was master farrier, Bubby Rhoderick. Owner of Hawkview Horseshoeing Clinic, Rhoderick specializes in hoof reconstruction and repair.

Rhoderick's presentation included hoof structure, hoof care, and management. Rhoderick presented a slides and instruction on wrapping feet. Also, journeyman farrier, Sharon Hanna, was available for consultation.

Opening speaker, Eric Hudspeth of Source Inc., presented a new line of horse supplement products. Source is the leading manufacturer of micronutrients for horses. The new line called "Focus" combines leading edge research with the time-tested effectiveness of micronutrients from Source.

Seminar participants had an opportunity to visit with the speakers during snack break. Also, participants visited the vendors, including a representative from Farnam County and a representative from Bradley Caldwell Inc., distributors of equine products.

A collection was taken to benefit the Therapeutic Riding Center for the handicapped. The money was presented to TRC volunteer Nina Hill. The TRC is based in Chambersburg and is staffed by a dedicated group of volunteers.

Air Quality Seminar May 27

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — An indoor air quality seminar is scheduled Tuesday, May 27, at 7 p.m. at the Holiday Inn Lancaster Host Hotel and Conference Center.

Guest speaker for the seminar is William Converse. Converse is the founder and president of Alpine Industries. He is an electrical engineer and inventor and an internationally acclaimed lecturer and consultant. Converse also served as consultant to the country of Kuwait after the Persian Gulf War.

Converse has addressed a government committee at a hearing on the Clean Air Act. He has spoken to thousands of people on the subject of indoor air pollution and solutions to the problem. In addition, he has recently completed site testing in conjunction with various universities. The purpose of the testing was for the control of airborne disease, bacteria, and dust control.

Registration to the free seminar is required. Contact Craig Harrison, (717) 581-0752 or fax, (717) 581-0746.

Badger Farm Equipment On The Roll Again

ST. NAZIANZ, Wis. — Badger farm equipment dealers and their customers recently received good news about the future of their product lines and continued parts availability.

The announcement came as a sister company of Miller-St. Nazianz purchased the product lines and parts business of what was formerly known as Badger Northland. The new company is called Badger Farm Systems, Inc. The transaction promises a renewed supply of parts for the existing population of Badger equipment, along with restoring the new product inventory and backing it with retail finance support.

The new company said that Badger equipment will soon be rolling again with its familiar green color and well-known Badger name. Major product lines will include forage boxes, forage blowers, silo unloaders, barn cleaners, plus manure tankers and pumps.

Company president John Miller said the acquisition will provide immediate benefits to Badger customers. "Our first priority is to refill the parts pipeline so Badger customers can keep their equipment in top operating condition. Then, we'll build a fresh inventory of new, high quality Badger equipment. We look forward to continuing the proud Badger heritage," he said. In the meantime, the company suggests customers contact their local Badger dealers for information on the progress.

Miller-St. Nazianz designs, manufacturers and markets the Miller Pro brand of forage boxes, running gear, high lift dump boxes, rotary cam action rakes, trailer crop sprayers, commercial truck sprayers, field cultivators, and hay and grain elevators. Retail financing for equipment buyers is also available. The company's state-of-the-art design and manufacturing facility employs high tech engineering, the latest robotic welding, computer cont[illegible]d techniques, plus an electrostatic prime and finish coating process.

Miller-St.Nazianz has long been recognized for providing high-performing agricultural equipment incorporating the latest designs and highest quality materials. The company has been in business for nearly 100 years, and continually receives high marks for its customers for responsive, personal, customer service support. Miller said the company's plans call for major new additions to both the Badger and Miller Pro product lines. Several new products will be premiered at this year's Wisconsin Farm Progress Days Show which takes pla[illegible]ar St. Nazianz.

Augers For Loaders

FARGO, N.D. — Melroe Company offers four new Bobcat earth auger attachments for use on Bobcat skid-steer loaders and compact excavators.

A unique kunckle-joint style of linkage makes it easy to position the auger with plumb-like accuracy, regardless of the terrain or position of the machine.

Model 15, 15H, 30, and 30H augers provide options for tough digging applications that require high torque capabilities.

A wide variety of auger bits are available, ranging from 6 to 36 inches in diameter, that provide digging depths of more than four feet. Optional 14- and 24-inch auger extensions are also available. Special tree planting augers are available in sizes from 18 to 36 inches in diameter.

The Bob-Tach™ attachment

mounting system makes it quick and easy to convert from the auger to any of the three dozen other Bobcat attachments.

Bobcat Model 15 and 30 auger drive units have new features that include:

•Direct drive: With no chains or sprockets, the smaller housing allows the entire drive unit to follow the bit into the hole, adding two feet to the digging depth when using 12 inch or larger bits.

•Greater torque: A more efficient design and modified displacements give the new drive units higher toruge output for better performance in tough soils.

•Hex or round output shaft: Hex shafts (for Models 15H and 30H) and bits are recommended in tough digging conditions, but the drive units can be equipped with either hex or round output shafts.

•Improved mounting systems: Auger drive units are shipped with an excavator mounting bracket which allows new drive units to be attached directly to Bobca[illegible]25 and 331 excavators, or moun[illegible] to Bobcat loaders using a mounting frame.

Quality Stores Announces Plans To Move

MUSKEGON, Mich. — Quality Stores, Inc., announced a new store will open soon in Uniontown, Pa.

The Quality Farm and Fleet store will be located at 575 Morgantown Street in the Uniontown Shopping Center, and employ approximately 40 people.

The 39,400 square foot building, formerly a Kmart, is under renovation. A special grand opening celebration is planned.

"The Quality family is excited about becoming a part of the community, and is looking forward to serving the families of Fayette and surrounding counties," said Jennifer Walker, spokesperson for Quality Stores, Inc. This is the eighth Quality Farm and Fleet to open in Pennsylvania.

For those not familiar with Quality Farm and Fleet stores, Walker said, "We are a unique store that offers customers a wide range of products under one roof. For example, we specialize in pet and livestock feeds and supplies; clothing and footwear; lawn and garden equipment, seeds and fertilizers; hand and power tools; home heating equipment and accessories; and truck, tractor, and trailer accessories. Our customers will enjoy shopping in a relaxed, 'country story' atmosphere and feel comfortable talking to our knowledgeable team members."

Quality Stores, Inc., cele[illegible]s its 35th anniversary in 1997.

White Combines Planter, Drill Features

ATLANTA, Ga. — White offers the new 6800 Series Central Fill Planter, the latests in conservation and no-till planting technology. The 6800 Series replaces the no-till planter and no-till drill with one unit that does a superior job of performing both functions.

"The combination of seed placement accuracy, depth control and narrow row spacing in the 6800 Series is a concept that can significantly reduce your machinery investment and upkeep," said Randy Hoffman, general marketing manager, White Planters and Tillage.

The 6800 Series planters feature White's proven row unit that singulates corn, soybeans and other seed for optimum placement in the seed trench at precise depths to increase yields. Excellent soil-to-seed contact is assured by a choice of planter row unit closing wheels.

Combining the best features of no-till planters and no-till drills, White introduces the 6800 Central Fill Planter. Backed by White's reputation for superior seed placement and accuracy, this unique system allows grower to plant multiple crops with a single machine.

The 6800 Series planters are available in two configurations with interplant capabilities providing 10-inch row spacings. Model 6818 offers six 30 inch rows and 18 10 inch rows while the larger 6824 offers eight rows with 24-row interplant capability. The unique rigid frame central fill planter positions row units at 30-inch row widths for corn and 10-inch row widths for soybeans, wheat, and other seeds.

The 6800 Series uses a microprocessor-controlled variable rate drive that offers infinite seeding rates. The ability to adjust the seeding rate on-the-go pe[illegible]'s the operator to match the [illegible]d population to the yield potential of the soil.

Other features include a 60 cubic feet central fill seed hopper with optional filling auger and pneumatic seed distribution system. An electronic monitoring system is standard equipment to keep the operator informed of critical planter functions.

MORE CONTROL

DESIGNED FOR TOTAL PERFORMANCE

The superior design and greater flexibility of the New Holland Model 900 put you in control. This forage harvester is designed to meet the needs of big-crop producers. You get capacity, reliability and efficiency.

- The massive 21-inch cutterhead uses hardened alloy knives with tungsten edges for a uniform chop.
- Under-knife baffles reduce crop carry-over and increase chopping capacity.
- Exclusive flip-up feedrolls let you inspect the shearbar and smooth roll scraper.
- The electric clutch provides immediate response and positive control of reversing gearbox.
- Optional Metalert® III protects equipment and livestock,

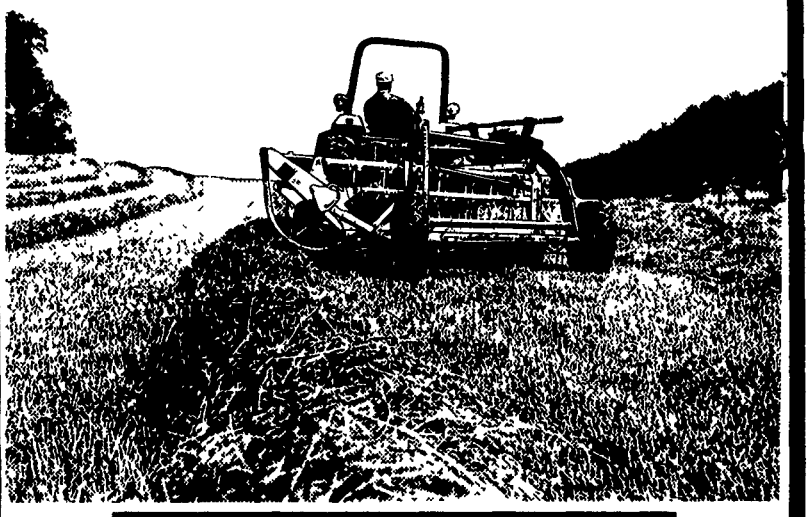
NEW HOLLAND

Get in control, with a New Holland Model 900 forage harvester

THE ORIGINAL



ROLABAR® RAKES WITHSTAND THE TEST OF TIME

Don't settle for second best when it comes to rakes. Choose the original — a dependable New Holland Rolabar® rake. The rake more farmers buy over all other brands combined Why? Because its rugged construction makes it one hard-working, hay grabbing machine.

Lely Shows the Way with Hay.

Haylage Hits Primetime.

Haylage brings feed value to the farm by preserving protein and improving the digestibility of hay. Lely has a complete line of hay making equipment.

- Reliable disc mowers with independently sealed drive units to handle your toughest hay conditions.
- Combination rake/tedders for spreading, tedding and windrowing.
- Mower conditioners for gentle and effective hay conditioning that reduces drying time.
- Heavy duty Welger Round Balers with MASTERCUT for slicing hay into dense well-shaped bales.
- McHale Round Bale Wrappers with automatic controls to make it easy to wrap and preserve your haylage.

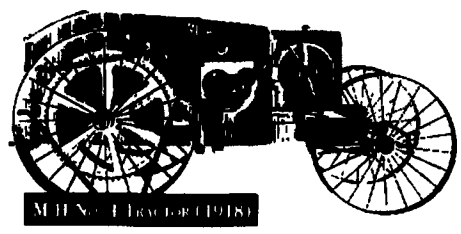
Canadian Show To Honor MF's Milestone



From humble beginnings in a small manufacturing and repair facility in Newcastle, Ontario, 150 years ago, Massey Ferguson has grown to become the world's No. 1 selling brand of tractors.

That heritage will be honored this summer, when Massey Ferguson's 150th anniversary will be celebrated at the Great Canadian Antique Tractor Field Days. It will be held July 17-20 at the site of the former Ontario Agricultural Museum at Milton Ontario. This company milestone is also the feature attraction of the 21st annual Heritage and Antique Show of the Tri-County Heritage Club, July 12-13.

This is one of several shows that will honor Massey Ferguson's 150th Anniversary Milestone. The Ontario Agricultural Museum site is near Toronto. The complex covers 80 acres, portraying the evolution of agriculture in Ontario and includes and impressive display representing Massey-Harris-Ferguson.

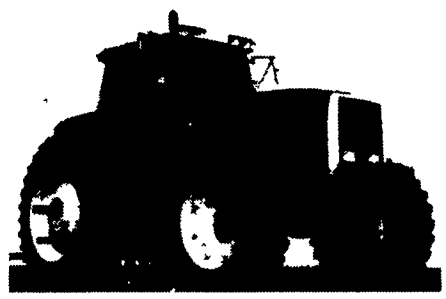
Each year the museum hosts the Great Canadian Antique Tractor Field Days. The show includes operating antique Canadian-made tractors and steam traction engines, as well as a variety of competitions and activities. There is also a farm toy show and sale and a 150th anniversary banquet.

As an official host of the Massey-Harris-Ferguson 150th Anniversary Celebration, all Massey-Harris and Massey-Ferguson equipment, including brands from predecessor manufacturers, is welcome. Americans planning to bring tractors for display across the border should check in advance on custom procedures.

The Heritage and Antique show at Ilderton will also feature antique and toy tractors, as well as an anniversary banquet.

VISIT THE SHOW

Please Contact us if you are interested in going by bus to this show. We will leave July 16 and return home July 18. We'll also stop at Niagara Falls on July 16 and Waterloo Farmers Market July 18. Call 717-656-2321 before May 30 for reservations.



Massey Ferguson 150th Anniversary

Join the celebration with your official MF 150th Anniversary clothing, gifts, and merchandise.

We have a wide selection of quality items, just like the Massey Ferguson tractors and combines that inspired them. But supplies are limited, so stop in today and start celebrating this anniversary for years to come.

Finally, a practical way to apply organic mulch to row crops

Organic mulch is the natural way to suppress weeds, help retain soil moisture, and improve soil conditions. Trouble is, hand mulching takes too much time and effort. Now the Millcreek Row Mulcher makes it easy to mulch berries, grapes, fruit trees, and other row crops. One operator can mulch an acre in just a couple hours depending on conditions.

Spread A Variety of Materials, Including Lime

You can spread all types of stemless flowable mulches, such as wood chips, sawdust, chopped bark, even compost, with plenty of clearance to avoid plant damage. Plus, the Millcreek Row Mulcher is ideal for banding lime and other materials requiring lighter applications. The optional metering gate gives you complete control of the coverage so you can tailor applications to best suit your cultivation practices.

For Commercial Growers
Choose from 3.1, 4.5, and 6.8 cubic yard capacities. Or call to discuss your special requirements.

For Small Growers
This may be the affordable machine you've been looking for to mulch berries, grapes, and other row crops. Think of the labor you'll save.

In ONE year, this GRASSHOPPER will CUT and TRIM grass, mulch, side-DISCHARGE and BAG clippings, bull-DOZE dirt, THROW snow, VACUUM leaves, SWEEP walkways, and AERATE soil.

Starting as low as $4995.00

And for every season, Grasshopper has just the right attachments.

• Year-round versatility. A full line of attachments lets your Grasshopper zero-radius maneuverability work for you all year long. The exclusive Combo Mulching™ Deck* with full-flotation option, lets you mulch, discharge or bag with the same deck for superior results in varying conditions.

Other attachments include Quik-D-Tatch Vac® grass collection systems, angle dozer blades, snowthrowers, rotary brooms, dethatchers and AERA-vator™. Quik-D-Tatch® mounting system* permits removing and adding attachments in minutes without tools.

• Easy to operate. Even beginning operators get the feel of Grasshopper's dual-lever steering in no time. So natural, operators can mow long hours without tiring.

• Built-in quality. Grasshoppers are built to last, with robotic-welded steel construction and highest quality components.

* patent pending

THINK CONCRETE WHEN PLANNING YOUR FEED STORAGE!!

"This is the kind of silo you need to protect your valuable feed."

"HOW WILL YOU BE STORING YOUR VALUABLE FORAGES AND GRAINS IN THE 21st CENTURY?"

It's not too early to begin planning your storage and feeding systems for the year 2000 and beyond.

As margins narrow, dairymen need to invest in efficiency; this can have as great an influence on PROFIT as milk price changes.

Protect your valuable feeds from the elements... increase the efficiency of your feeds, your animals, and your labor.

ADVANTAGE ... CONCRETE

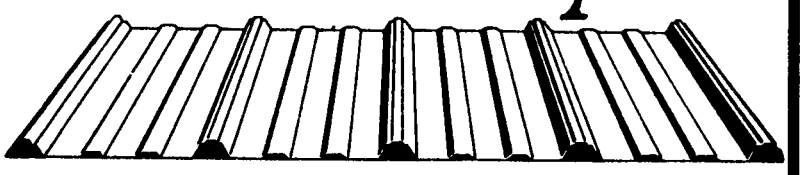
Rural Economy



Cost-efficient Centurydrain® roofing and siding is on some of the best looking buildings in the country.

Build with Centurydrain roofing and siding and you've built a money-wise structure. Full-hard, high tensile galvanized steel, and an exclusive drain channel for a dry interior give you a building that'll handle years of hard duty and hard weather. Good looking, too. Crisp lines and plenty of bright, long-lasting colors make Wheeling Centurydrain as handsome as it is economical.

Beitzel Spraying is now distributing:

SAFECIDE® BRAND IC

For the control of darkling beetles, hide beetles and flies in poultry houses and for control of fire ants

Advantages:

- Efficacious–boron-based SafeCide® Brand IC kills larvae and adults. Breaks the beetle life cycle and reduces diseases carried by beetles
- Contains an extremely safe and effective pest control agent (99% orthoboric acid)– larvae and beetles die 3 to 5 days after contact and ingestion.
- Provides long-lasting residual results. Keeps on working up to 12 months – longer than most available products.
- Provides an effective barrier. Kills larvae and adults as they emerge.
- Cost effective – low cost based on per day of activity.
- Can be applied as a dust or spray. Flexible application options let SafeCide® Brand IC fit easily into your particular management program.
- EPA approved, ecologically friendly– non-carcinogenic, no toxic residues. Safe to be applied by humans.
- Is field proven. Field studies* show heavily infested farms treated with SafeCide® Brand IC have better feed conversion rates, increased weight gains, greater livability, and fewer condemnations than untreated farms.
- No insecticidal resistance reported.
- Retards the growth of Aspergillus in the litter.
- Approved for use in the control of fire ants and flies.

CENTRAL VIRGINIA
"Flat Farm"

FLAT FARM is a fitting name for this relatively flat Virginia farm land nestled in the Blue Ridge Mountains. 138 acres of level fenced and cross fenced pasture land, 40 acres of hay meadow and 40 acres of wooded land. Numerous barns and outbuildings can support a beef herd or horse breeding and training. 2 large creeks and a pond.

The original home, Circa 1820, was a basic "2 over 2" with architecturally appropriate additions. Adjacent to the house is a large two-car garage plus a second kitchen, greenhouse and other features. Two hundred feet from the main house is a distinctive log guest house with a 1997 addition.

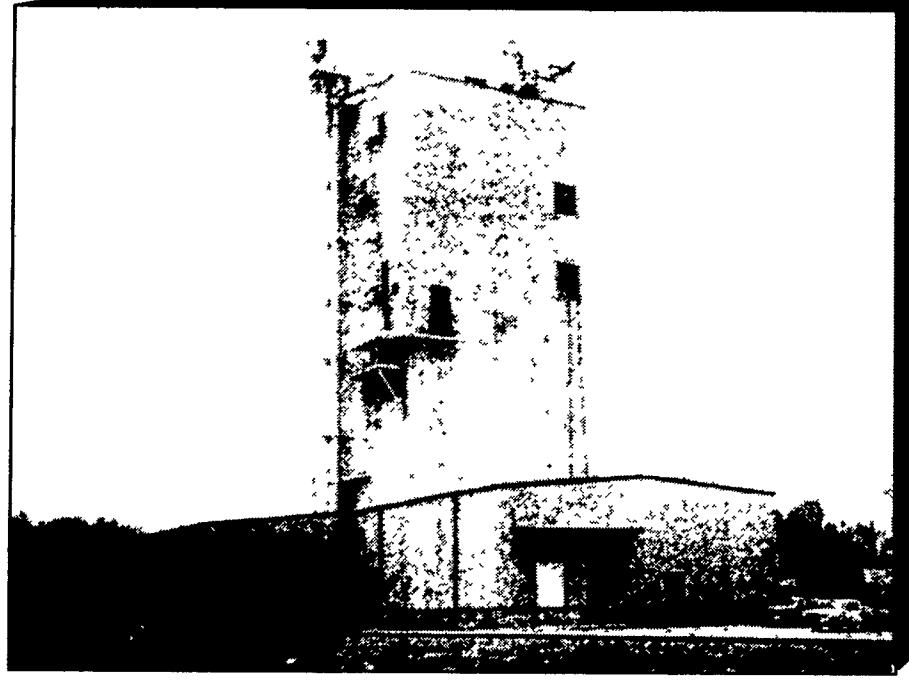
THE NEW PURINA MILLS SERVICE CENTER

HAGERSTOWN, MD



"A state of the art plant like Hagerstown will give us greater efficiencies in manufacturing a high quality feed. In addition, this plant is closer to our customers which will maximize logistics of delivery and service value."
Pritt's Feed Mill of Berlin - Dale White

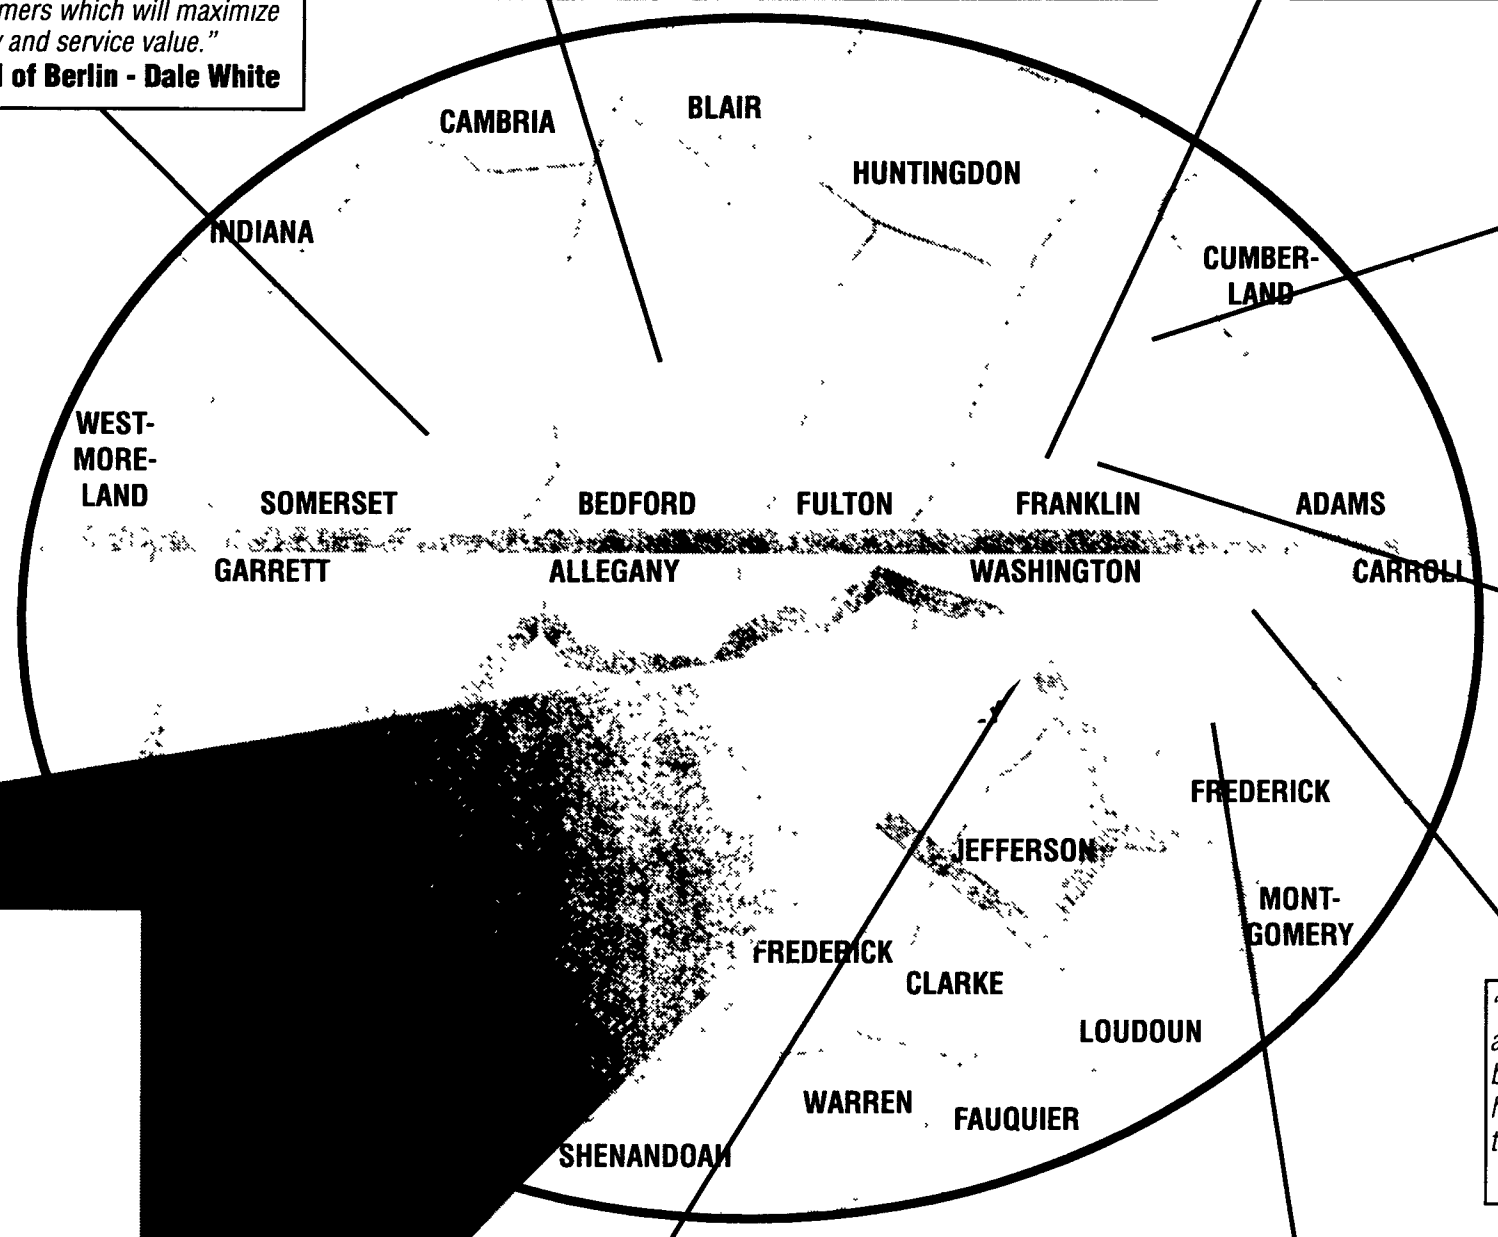
"We are really excited about the new Purina Mills plant in Hagerstown. The mill's proximity to our market area will help us to be more efficient in our deliveries and state of the art technology used in the mill will produce the highest quality feeds available. Local producers will soon find out how much this facility can help them."
Bedford Farm Bureau Co-Op - Bill Popovich

"A state of the art facility. We feel the quality and product standards have been raised to another level. No one else in the industry comes close."
Deitrich Elevator - Barry Barnes

"This expansion of a new mill shows the commitment of Purina to agriculture in our market. We at Franklin Feed & Supply Co. appreciate Purina as a partner in serving the farmers in Cumberland, Franklin and Washington Counties."
Franklin Feed & Supply - Sam Miller

"The new Hagerstown plant will enable Farmers Union to better serve the needs of the local dairy men. More competitive grain prices for our customers and quicker response time for feed mixes and delivery are just a few of these areas."
Farmers Union Co-Op - Dave Forrester

"We feel the geographic location of this mill will allow better service, more competitive pricing and be more in touch with the local market. Purina Mills has shown its total commitment to agriculture and the dairy industry."
H.C. Summers, Inc. - Tom Summers

"Purina Mills is investing in the future of the Maryland dairy industry with their state of the art manufacturing facility in Hagerstown, MD to better serve our local needs."
North Glade Feed & Supply - Jim Zimmerman


"Purina brings new technology and superior product quality products and programs to the local livestock producers (high energy nuggets, Proteus, EXT., etc.). In addition, this mill brings additional local manufacturing and optional services to the area"
Wm. Gower & Son - Marvin Gower
